On April 20 the Mayor, in view of the representations contained in the following letter from the trustees, allowed a contract with the White Company for the purchase of one 2-30 horse power White steam ambulance, to cost $3,000:

BOSTON CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL,
926 Tremont Building, April 2, 1910.

To the Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The trustees of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital desire to purchase, without advertising, a 30 horse power steam ambulance at a cost of $3,000 for the following reasons:

The experience of several hospitals, including the City and the Massachusetts, with an electrical ambulance shows them to be unreliable, hard riding and incapable of undertaking long journeys such as would be required of an ambulance to and from the hospital at Mattapan. Experience shows that the steam car combines all the qualities of an easy riding ambulance, together with economy of time in making distance.

I beg respectfully to request that authority to purchase this ambulance without advertising be given for the reasons stated, and also because in the opinion of the Board this is the best ambulance that can be had for this purpose. The price of $3,000 is, in the opinion of the Board, a reasonable one.

Yours very respectfully,

EDWARD F. McSWEENEY,
Chairman.

Laid on the table.

APPOINTMENT AND PAYMENT OF ACTING JANITORS.

JANITORSHIP, NO. 91 BEDFORD-STREET SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the Schoolhouse Custodian, under date of Apr. 18, 1910, stating that as the premises No. 91 Bedford street are to be occupied only temporarily for school purposes, and as James Fountain is already employed as elevator attendant and janitor of this building, he would recommend that the Civil Service Commission be requested to authorize the temporary employment of James Fountain as janitor of the continuation school, located in that building.

Placed on file, and the recommendation adopted.

A communication was received from the Schoolhouse Custodian, under date of Apr. 18, 1910, stating that the area of premises No. 91 Bedford street, which have been secured for occupancy by the continuation school, is about equal to that of a portable building, and recommending, in view of the fact that the janitor is not required to heat the premises, his compensation be fixed at the rate of $1.38 per week, being the minimum rate in accordance with the schedule.

Placed on file, and it was ORDERED, That the salary of the janitor of the room at No. 91 Bedford street, occupied by the continuation classes, be established at the rate of $1.38 per week, to date from Apr. 11, 1910.

CONDITION OF GROUNDS, EDWARD EVERETT SCHOOL.

Mr. Brock, to whom was referred at the meeting of Apr. 4, 1910, a communication from the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners relating to the condition of the grounds of the Edward Everett School, reported that he had given attention to the matter, and is of the opinion that the children in our schools, at least, should be taught to respect and to exercise due care for school property, and that this Board should cooperate with the Schoolhouse Department in the protection and care of grounds upon which that Department has expended money in beautifying, and recommended that proper instructions to this effect be issued to janitors by the Schoolhouse Custodian, to principals of schools and districts by the Superintendent, and that a copy of this report be transmitted to the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners.

The report was accepted and placed on file, and the recommendations contained therein adopted.

INDEPENDENT LIGHTING PLANT, HIGH SCHOOL OF COMMERCE AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION BUILD- ING.

A communication was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., under date of Apr. 6, 1910, with reference to the installation of an independent lighting plant in the High School of Commerce and School Administration Building, stating that said company would like to have its representative point out to the School Committee the many points of expenditure and efficiency to be considered in operating one's own plant, which expenses are often overlooked in compiling preliminary figures, and asking that an appointment be made with him for this purpose.

Referred to Mr. Magenis for attention.

ELECTION OF ASSISTANT SUPERIN- TENDENT.

The Board proceeded to the election of an assistant superintendent for the term of six years, to date from Sept. 1, 1910.

The members as their names were called respectively stated that they voted as follows:—

For MAURICE P. WHITE: Messrs. Brock, Ellis, Lee, Magenis and Scannell—5. The Chairman declared Maurice P. White duly elected assistant superintendent for the term specified.

APPROVAL OF PAY ROLLS, BILLS AND CONTRACTS.

On motion, it was ORDERED, That the pay rolls and bills, both regular and special, for the month of May, 1910, prepared and certified to by the Business Agent, and the contracts for the same month, be approved on behalf of this Board by Mr. Magenis, or in the event of his absence by Mr. Brock.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMISSION, ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ACCOMMODA- TIONS.

The report received from the Finance Commission at the meeting of Apr. 4, 1910 (see p. 53), addressed to the Committee on Cities of the Legislature, with reference to House Bill No. 441—authorizing the City of Boston to incur additional indebtedness for the purpose of constructing and furnishing additional elementary school accommodations and acquiring land as sites therefor—was taken from the table, placed on file and the Secretary directed to inform the Finance Commission of the recent action of the Board appropriating $529,557 for additional school accommodations to be met from the tax levy, under chapter 388 of the acts of 1909.

USE OF SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS FOR ELECTION AND OTHER MUNICI- PAL PURPOSES AND PAYMENT THEREFOR.

The communication received from the Board of Election Commissioners, under date of Mar. 11, 1910, requesting the use of accommodations in school buildings for polling places, was taken up and the Secretary was instructed to transmit a communication to His Honor the Mayor on the subject, to the effect that the Committee is credibly informed that the use of such accommodations will result in a substantial saving to the Election Department, amounting to $12,000 or $15,000; that the policy laid down by the Mayor with respect to various city departments bearing their own expenses is applicable to such use of school premises; that the School Committee is therefore willing to approve the application, a rental charge of $25 per day for each polling place, and $10 per day for each wardroom in a school building, exclusive of janitor service, and inclusive of light and heat.

Also to call the Mayor's attention to the municipal concerts held in school buildings, for which the Committee feels that a rental charge of $5 each should be made, exclusive of janitor service.

Also that the Committee feels that a reasonable rental for that portion of the old East Boston High School-house, which is now occupied by the East Boston District Court and a Branch of the Public Library, and is therefore unavailable for school purposes, exclusive of janitor service, light and heat, would be $5000.

Also that the passageway between the building occupied by the School Committee on Mason street and the Engine House adjoining, which belongs to the school estate, is used very largely by the Fire Department, for which use the Committee does not now feel disposed to urge that the Fire Department be required to pay.

And that a copy of the communication be forwarded to the Board of Election Commissioners and to the Finance Commission.

CLEANING OF WINDOWS, DORCHES- TER HIGH SCHOOL.

A communication was received from Mr. Charles J. Lincoln, Head-Master of the Dorchester High School, stating that the double windows in the upper part of that building are in such condition as to seriously interfere with their usefulness, and the construction of the building renders the cleaning of them attendant with some expense and danger, as the windows cannot be cleaned unless one of them is removed from the frame.

Referred to the Secretary for investigation and report.

USE OF PUBLIC BATHS BY QUINCY SCHOOL PUPILS.

Two communications were received from Frederick W. Swan, Master of the Quincy District, under date of Apr. 18, 1910, requesting that an arrangement with the Bath Department be authorized whereby six hundred boys attending the Quincy School be permitted to take a weekly bath at the city gymnasium in the vicinity of the school, the School Committee paying the Bath Department one cent per pupil per bath, the total annual expense not to exceed $240 per annum.

Placed on file, and the Secretary instructed to inform Mr. Swan that while the Board sympathizes with this proposition, it does not feel that in the use of a city bath, an exception should be made against children attending a public school by the requiring of a fee for the use of such facilities.

GIFT TO WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

A communication was received from Benjamin J. Hinds, Master of the Washington School, under date of Apr. 12, 1910, stating that the Public School Art League has presented to that school sixty-four photographs which have been hung in various rooms, and recommending that the gift be accepted.

Placed on file, the gift accepted subject to the approval of the Director of Drawing and Manual Training, and the Secretary directed to extend the thanks of the Board therefor.

AMENDMENT TO RULES.

The order offered at the meeting of Apr. 4, 1910 (see p. 57), amending section 138, paragraph IV. of the rules, with reference to exempting certain teachers in the service who desire to obtain the IV. High School certificate from the college diploma requirement imposed upon other candidates, was taken up and passed.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Board adjourned at 9:40 o'clock P.M. to meet on Monday, Apr. 25, 1910, at 5 o'clock P.M.

Attest:

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO,

RAILROAD ELECTRIFICATION.

The Belt Line Tunnel locomotives at Baltimore afford an instructive lesson in what electrical engineers have done when put on their mettle and how the first essays to solve unusual problems have been modified in the light of experience. In 1893, only a few years after electricity had won a secure place in street railway circles, the first locomotives for the Belt Line were ordered. It was a pretty bold thing to do, but electricity was seen to be far and away the best thing for the tunnel and so, without any precedents to help them, the designers of the original locomotives built a 96-ton unit consisting of two four-wheel sections permanently coupled and capable of exerting 28,000 pounds tractive effort. These locomotives were gearless and are running to-day on passenger service. About ten years later the tunnel requirements became so great that more locomotives were needed and so the heaviest that are in operation anywhere to-day were constructed for handling freight trains. Each weighs 160 tons and consists of two halves permanently coupled together under the control of a single operator. Each half has four motors geared to the axles. A 160-ton unit is able to exert a tractive effort of 80,000 pounds at starting and 70,000 pounds at a speed of eight and one-half miles an hour. This year two more locomotives have been added to the tunnel equipment for either freight or passenger service, and are of somewhat different design from the earlier units. Each has two trucks permanently hinged together and supporting a platform carrying a steel cab running the whole length of the locomotive. Each unit weighs ninety tons, thus being comparable in weight with the first locomotive, and two of them can be coupled together under the control of a single operator if desired. Each is capable of a tractive effort of 45,000 pounds at a speed of fourteen to fifteen miles an hour, while two of them working together can haul a 1,000-ton load up a grade of eighty feet to the mile. For something like seventeen years electricity has been giving complete satisfaction in handling both passenger and freight trains in the Baltimore tunnel, so that the statement still occasionally heard about the untried nature of heavy electric traction is manifestly open to question.—Engineering Record.

CHARLES R. BROWN,
Collector of Taxes for the City of Boston.

THE PENNSYLVANIA TERMINAL AT NEW YORK.

The tracks are 40 feet below the street surface, and the station is therefore divided into three levels. The Seventh avenue entrance leads to the main waiting room through an arcade 225 feet long, by 45 feet wide, flanked on both sides by shops and booths. At the farther end of the arcade are the restaurant, lunch rooms and cafe, and beyond is the general waiting room and concourse.

On the first level below the street is the station proper. Here is the general waiting room, said to be the largest in the world, 277 by 103 feet. Within it are the ticket offices and baggage checking windows, so arranged that a passenger may proceed from one to the other with minimum exertion and without retracing his steps. Adjoining the general waiting room on the west are two subsidiary waiting rooms, 58 by 100 feet, for men and women, provided with seats and opening into retiring rooms.

On the first level below the street is also located the main baggage room, with 450 feet of frontage. This is for the use of the transfer wagons, and covers the full area occupied by the arcade and restaurants on the ground level above. Baggage is delivered and taken away through a special subway. From the baggage room trunks are delivered to the tracks below by motor trucks and elevators. Motor cabs will also be stationed on this level.

Parallel to and connecting with the main waiting room by a wide thoroughfare is the concourse, over 200 feet wide, extending the entire width of the station and under the adjoining streets. This is the vestibule to the tracks, and stairs descend from it to each of the train platforms on the track level. The concourse and adjacent areas are open to the tracks, forming a courtyard 340 feet wide by 210 feet broad, roofed by a lofty train shed of iron and glass. In addition to the entrances to the concourse from the waiting room there are also direct approaches from the streets.

Auxiliary to the main concourse and located between it and the tracks, is a sub-concourse, 60 feet wide, which will be used for exit purposes only. This exit concourse is on the second level, 18 feet above the tracks, but is connected with the track level by two stairways and one elevator from each platform. From it ample staircases and inclines lead directly to the street.

The northern side of the station extending along Thirty-third street is assigned to the Long Island Railroad. Into this part of the station trains will run from all points on Long Island by way of the East River tunnels. Ample entrances and exits are provided, so that this traffic can be handled independently.

The third level for the passenger is the train platform, about 36 feet below the surface of the street. This level is so gradually reached that the descent is scarcely noticeable.

The stone work of the station, inclosing some 8 acres of ground, was completed on July 31, 1909. A total of 550,000 cubic feet of granite have thus been utilized in the construction and ornamentation of this building, 27,000 tons of steel, and 15,000,000 bricks. Built in the Roman Doric style, the building covers the entire area bounded by Seventh and Eighth avenues and Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets. The depth of the property on both streets is 799 feet 11½ inches, and the length of the building is 788 feet 9 inches, thus permitting extra wide sidewalks on both avenues. The walls extend for 430 feet 6 inches from Thirty-first to Thirty-second streets.

In designing the exterior of the building, Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, the architects, were at pains to embody two ideas: To express, in so far as was practicable, with the unusual condition of tracks far below the street surface, and in spite of the absence of the conventional train shed, the exterior design of a great railway station in a generally accepted form; and also to give to the building the character of a monumental gateway and entrance to a great metropolis. Apart from these two ideas, the plan of the station was designed to give the greatest number of lines of circulation. The structure is really a monumental bridge over the tracks.

One of the distinctive features of this building is the waiting room, which extends from Thirty-first to Thirty-third streets for a distance of 314 feet 4 inches. The height of this room is 150 feet and its width 108 feet 8 inches. The walls above the main body of the building contain on each side three semi-circular windows, with a radius of 33 feet 4 inches. There is also a window of like size at each end of the waiting room.

Some of the main features of the structure are given in the following memorandum:

Area (Tenth avenue to normal tunnel section east of Seventh avenue), 28 acres.

NEW KIND OF PAVING.

A street pavement constructed of concrete blocks the size of bricks is achieving marked success in eastern cities. It is said to be strong enough for the heaviest kind of traffic, and less noisy than granite blocks.—Pacific Outlook.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
April 6, 1910.

Hon. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—We respectfully request that we be authorized to purchase a six ton steam roller from the Buffalo Steam Roller Company for $2,150, without advertising for proposals, and to exchange an old six ton Pioneer roller, for which they agree to allow $500; this amount to be deducted from the purchase price of the new machine when payment is made.

This old roller is so badly out of order that it will cost a large amount to put it in repair, when it will still be a poor

Yours respectfully,

COPARTNERSHIP HOUSING.

In the January and February issues of La Réforme Sociale M. Georges Risler, vice-president of the department of the Musée Social which concerns itself with public health and the garden city movement, writes with enthusiasm of the movement and what England has accomplished. He claims for the president of the Société d'Économie Sociale, M. Emile Cheysson, the honor of having outlined this system a number of years ago, and of having prophesied that it would produce remarkable results, and adds, "It has indeed produced results, and they are excellent, but—in England."

[The first of the two deals with the social and financial basis of the Copartnership Tenants Limited Society, which puts into practice the principle of copartnership in house-building and house-owning, and also shows how the Tenants Limited Societies operate as lessees, explaining the advantages of having the two organizations.

The Copartnership Tenants Limited Society, founded in London in 1907, is really a federation of branch societies. It is a stock company, issuing $50 shares payable in installments, on which a dividend of five per cent is paid. Loan stock is also raised in order that work on estates may not be too long delayed, and this pays 4 per cent interest. Large estates are bought and provided with water and gas pipes sewers, parks, streets, playgrounds, churches, lecture halls, schools, restaurants, theaters, etc. Such an estate is then leased to a Tenants Limited Society, which is a similar stock company, shares of which are issued by preference to workers who wish to build upon the estate.

A worker who wishes to have his own home may purchase stock and submit a plan of a house, which will be accepted if it does not conflict with the estate's ideal of hygiene and beauty. A fair rental is fixed upon. Each year after the stockholders have received their interest, and after running expenses and depreciation have been covered, the surplus profit is divided among the tenants in proportion to their rent. This surplus profit is not paid in cash, but is credited to them in stock, until the value of the stock amounts to the annual rent of the house. Anything above that is paid in cash. The moral influence of this division is very great, as each tenant is stimulated to reduce repairs by taking the best care of his house, and to do all he can to keep other houses from remaining unoccupied.

Letchworth was founded in 1903 with a capital of $150,000 in shares of $25 with interest at 5 per cent. The estate was made up of several pieces of property, united to form an ellipse covering an area of 3,800 acres. One can reach it by railroad from London in forty minutes. One hundred and fifty varieties of trees exist or have been planted on the estate, the land of which is particularly suited to flower and vegetable culture.

A large square lies in the center, from which radiate a number of avenues. At the beginning of 1907 there were 336 cottages in Letchworth, besides twelve industrial establishments, no one of which is injurious to the healthfulness of the estate. Printers, binders, booksellers, makers of mineral waters, embroiderers and others are here employed. Two hundred acres are reserved for open spaces, besides streets, avenues and gardens surrounding houses. Over eight miles of streets have been laid out and bordered with trees, many of which are fruit trees. The principal avenues are from about 115 to 160 feet wide. Electricity is distributed throughout the estate and sold at a lower rate for power than for lighting. The gas factory, hidden by trees, can produce twenty million cubic feet a year; pipes are laid to supply 500 houses. About nine miles of sewers have been laid, and sixteen miles of water pipes, furnishing pure water to each house.

Soon after it was founded, Letchworth had 400 inhabitants; three years later it had 4,000, and at present there are twice as many. Sixteen societies of various kinds—religious, commercial, political, social, literary and scientific—enjoy perfect freedom. There are six churches. We note particularly an open-air school. The cottages are generally built in rows, with gardens bordering the street and lawns in the rear. An ordinary house contains a kitchen, a bath, a scullery, a living room and from three to five sleeping rooms, according to the family.—The American City.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, April 25, 1910.

Regular meeting of the City Council in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, at three o'clock p. m., President BALLANTYNE in the chair and all the members present.

On motion of Coun. BRAND the reading of the records of the last meeting was dispensed with.

AQUARIUM AND ZOÖLOGICAL GARDEN.

The following was received: April 25, 1910.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I recommend that the accompanying orders, appropriating ten thousand dollars ($10,000) from the income of the Parkman Fund, for preliminary studies and incidental expenses in connection with the proposed establishment of an aquarium at Marine Park and a zoological garden at Franklin Park, be passed.

Boston is almost alone among the large cities of the country in its failure to provide facilities for the study of animal life through the establishment of a zoological garden. New York, Detroit and other cities have also established aquaria, which not only afford an instructive form of entertainment to their citizens but confer distinction and celebrity upon the cities themselves.

The income of the Parkman Fund cannot, in my opinion, be expended to better advantage at this time than in founding these two institutions, each of which will be a conspicuous monument to the generosity of the late Mr. Parkman.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In City Council, April 25, 1910.

Ordered, That the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Park Commissioners, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, for the purpose of obtaining plans and estimates for an aquarium at Marine Park and for incidental expenses connected therewith.

City of Boston,
In City Council, April 25, 1910.
Ordered, That the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Park Commissioners, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, for the purpose of obtaining plans and estimates for a zoological garden in Franklin Park and for incidental expenses connected therewith.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SHADE TREE ORDINANCES.

The following was received: April 25, 1910.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith for your consideration a draft of a proposed ordinance, codifying, amending and extending the existing ordinances relating to shade trees, with certain observations thereon by the Corporation Counsel.

The annotations upon the various sections of this draft have been prepared by Irving T. Guild, secretary of the Committee on Improvements of the Boston Society of Architects, with which the proposed legislation originated.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston, Law Department,
73 Tremont Street, April 23, 1910.
Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—I return herewith the proposed ordinance in regard to trees and the care thereof. It seems to me on the whole a good ordinance, although subject to the objection of extreme length, and therefore subjecting innocent parties who have not read the whole of it to possible fines. I have noted in lead pencil some changes in the ordinance, for the following reasons:

I have stricken out in the first section the words "after public notice and hearing." They are superfluous, and some of the orders of the Board of Street Commissioners do not require public notice and hearing.

I have stricken out in the second section the words "superintendent of public grounds" and substituted "street commissioners," because under the charter amendments the Street Commissioners have the jurisdiction formerly exercised by the Board of Aldermen concerning the planting of trees and the removal thereof.

For the same reason I would recommend that the last sentence of the section be stricken out.

I have amended the third section by striking out the words "under the supervision of the superintendent of public grounds or one of his assistants." It would cost a great deal of money to have an assistant inspect all work of this kind done by city departments or public service corporations. It ought to be sufficient to provide that the work shall be done in such manner as directed by the Superintendent of Public Grounds.

I have amended section four by striking out the paragraph concerning the deposit of salt or salt water in gutters. This seems to be a matter connected with the Street Department, and is fully covered by the present ordinance which prohibits such deposit except when authorized by the Superintendent of Streets.

I have amended section five by inserting the words "and the wire commissioner," and also by striking out "come in contact with any tree" and substituting the word "injure." The first is to cover the statute; the second because I think it would be impossible in some streets to put up wires without coming in contact with the leaves or the branches of trees.

I have amended section six by striking out "one hundred" and substituting "twenty." Under the statutes the city cannot impose a heavier penalty than twenty dollars for breach of an ordinance.

I have amended section nine by striking out the words "after first securing the approval of the superintendent of public grounds." The Superintendent of Buildings issues these licenses or permits, and I think it is sufficient to require the person who gets one to place or cause to be placed, in accordance with the direction of the superintendent, guards to protect the trees.

I have amended section ten by striking out the words "city council" and substituting "street commissioners," as the Street Commissioners now have jurisdiction concerning the removal of trees.

I suggest an amendment to section eleven by striking out the words "shall specifically describe the work to be done under it" because I think they are unnecessary, and if literally complied with it would take two or three clerks to fill out these permits.

Yours respectfully,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

PROPOSED REVISION OF BOSTON CITY ORDINANCES RELATING TO SHADE TREES.

(Repealing Revised Ordinances, 1898, chapter 33, section 1; chapter 47, sections 49, 83, 105; chapter 6, section 28.)

Section 1. The Public Grounds Department shall be under the charge of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, who shall have the care and superintendence of all the public grounds and shall have full power and authority (1) over all trees, plants and shrubs growing, planted and to be planted in the streets of the City of Boston except as otherwise provided by statute (2), and except those in the public parks, including the right to plant new trees and to care for the same. It shall be the duty of the Superintendent of Public Grounds to superintend, regulate and encourage the preservation, culture and planting of shade and ornamental trees, plants and shrubbery in the streets; to trim all shade trees standing in public streets so they will not interfere with public travel (3), and to carry out the orders of the Board of Street Commissioners (4), made in accordance with the statutes after public notice and hearing (2); to prune, sprav, cultivate and otherwise maintain such trees, plants and shrubbery, and to direct the time and method of trimming the same; to advise, without charge, owners and occupants of lots regarding the kind of trees, plants and shrubbery which they may contemplate planting upon the street or upon private property for the purpose of ornamenting and shading the street, and the method of planting best adapted to or most desirable on particular streets; and to take such measures as may be deemed necessary for the control and extermination of insects and other pests and plant diseases which may injuriously affect trees, plants and shrubs that are now growing or may be hereafter growing in the streets. He shall cause all statutes and ordinances for the protection of trees, plants and shrubs in the public grounds and streets to be strictly observed (3).

Note.—This section is a revision and extension of chapter 33, section 1, of the Revised Ordinances of 1898, made to conform with the provisions of the new charter, section 28, and of recently enacted statutes, references to which are made below. Some of the added provisions are based upon the ordinances of Chicago, which are in general provisions respecting powers and duties of the officer more complete and explicit than in most any other American city.

3. Revised Ordinances 1898, chapter 33, section 1.

Sect. 2. No person shall plant any tree, plant or shrub in any street without first having obtained a written permit therefor from the Street Commissioners setting forth the conditions under which such trees, plants or shrubs may be planted, including the kind and variety thereof, and until the Superintendent of Public Grounds has designated on the ground the location thereof, and without in all respects complying with the conditions of such permit. [Trees, plants and shrubs which shall be planted contrary to the provisions of this section may be removed by the Superintendent of Public Grounds without notice.]

Note.—This section is based on the 1909 Ordinances of Chicago, section 7; Ordinances of Providence, section 11; Ordinances of Newark, N. J., section 14; and is merely an amplification of the provisions of Revised Laws, chapter 53, sections 12 and 13, now made applicable to cities under Acts of 1910, chapter 363. The only novel provision is that contained in the last clause relating to the removal of trees planted contrary to the provisions of the section.

Sect. 3. No person, except the Superintendent of Public Grounds or his assistants, shall spray, mulch, fertilize or otherwise treat or climb, remove, destroy, break, cut or trim any living tree, plant or shrub, or any part thereof growing in any street, without first having obtained a written permit from the Superintendent of Public Grounds; and no cutting or trimming of any tree or shrub in any street in connection with the work of any other city department or of any public service corporation or other person having a right to use said street, shall be done except [under the supervision of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, or one of his assistants] in such manner as directed by said superintendent.

Note.—This section is based upon the Ordinances of Newark, N. J., section 1, and Providence, section 8, and also upon the statutes previously referred to.

Sect. 4. No person shall fasten any horse or other animal to any tree or shrub, or to any device intended to protect any tree or shrub, in any street; nor shall any person cause or permit any horse or other animal to stand or be near enough to any tree, plant or shrub to bite or rub against, or in any manner injure or deface the same; nor shall any person attach or place any rope, wire, sign, poster, handbill or other thing or substance on any tree or shrub in any street, or on any guard or protection of the same; nor shall any person remove, injure or misuse any guard or device placed or intended to protect any tree, plant or shrub now or hereafter growing in any street [nor shall any person throw or deposit upon any street or into any gutter thereof any salt or salt water, or deposit in such gutter any receptacle containing salt or salt water].

Note.—This section is based upon the Revised Ordinances of 1898, chapter 47, sections 49 and 83, and also upon the Ordinances of Newark, N. J., sections 1, 7 and 9; Ordinances of Providence, section 15; Ordinances of Chicago, section 9.

It is barely possible that this might be better if it was subdivided, but unless there is good reason for subdivision I should consider it best all in one section. This section would also take the place of Revised Ordinances, 1898, chapter 47, section 108.

Sect. 5. No person shall, without first having obtained a written permit from the Superintendent of Public Grounds and the Wire Commissioner, attach any electric wire, insulator or any other device for holding electric wire to any tree now or hereafter growing in any street; and every person or corporation having any wire or wires charged with electricity shall securely fasten or change the location of same so that such wire or wires shall not injure any tree in any street.

Note.—This section is based upon Ordinances of Newark, N. J., section 12; Ordinances of Chicago, sections 14 and 15. So far as I can see this would not conflict in any way with the ordinances relating to the Superintendent of Wires and his department.

Sect. 6. No person, firm or corporation owning, maintaining or operating any gas pipes or mains laid beneath the surface of any street or private land in the City of Boston shall permit any leak to occur in such pipes or mains within a radius of forty feet of any tree now or hereafter growing in any street in said city, and in the event that a leak exists or occurs in any such pipe or main, it shall be the duty of the person, firm or corporation owning or operating such defective pipe or main to repair the same immediately and stop such leak in a manner so as to prevent a recurrence of the same after receiving a notice in writing from the Superintendent of Public Grounds calling the attention of such person, firm or corporation to the fact that such leak exists or has occurred, and if such person, firm or corporation fails within five days after the receipt of such notice to stop such leak in a manner so as to prevent a recurrence thereof, such person, firm or corporation shall be subject to the payment of a fine of not less than five nor more than twenty dollars, and a separate offence shall be regarded as committed after each day during which such person, firm or corporation shall continue such violation.

Note.—This section is taken almost unchanged from resolution No. 5671, Board of Public Service, Cleveland, Ohio, December 11, 1908, but is similar to section 11, Ordinances of Chicago, 1909. The penalty may not be in accordance with Massachusetts statutes and Boston city ordinances. On the whole it seems to me a most desirable provision. See also Revised Laws, chapter 53, section 12, which provided that for certain offences fines not exceeding $20 may be imposed.

Sect. 7. No person shall, without first having obtained a written permit from the Superintendent of Public Grounds, place or hereafter maintain, upon the ground in a street, stone, cement or other substance which shall impede the free entrance of water and air to the roots of any tree in such street, without leaving an open space of ground outside the trunk of said tree in area not less than four square feet.

Note.—This section is taken practically unchanged from Ordinances of Newark, N. J., section 10, and Ordinances of Chicago, section 12.

Sect. 8. No person shall in any way interfere, or cause or permit any person to interfere with the Superintendent of Public Grounds or his assistants, in and about the planting, mulching, pruning, spraying or removing of any tree in any street, or in the removing of stone, cement or other sidewalk, or stone, cement or other substance, about the trunk of any tree in any such street.

Note.—This section is taken practically unchanged from Ordinances of Newark, N. J.,

section 13, and Ordinances of Chicago, section 16.

Sect. 9. In the erection, alteration or repair of any building or structure the owner or owners thereof shall [after first securing the approval of the Superintendent of Public Grounds] place or cause to be placed in accordance with the directions of the superintendent such guards around all nearby trees in the street as shall effectually prevent injury to such trees.

Note.—I have not had the opportunity to look over the building ordinances to see whether this is provided for in the present Revised Ordinances, but think it should properly come in this place rather than in the building ordinances. See Ordinances of Chicago, section 13; Ordinances of Newark, N. J., section 11.

Sect. 10. No person moving a building in a street under a permit therefor shall remove, cut or injure any tree in a street, or any branch thereof, except in accordance with an order of the Street Commissioners and after obtaining a written permit therefor from the Superintendent of Public Grounds describing in detail the removal or cutting permitted thereby.

Note.—This is based upon Revised Ordinances 1898, chapter 6, section 28, and is similar to the Ordinances of Providence, sections 12 and 13. I am in doubt whether the New Charter, section 28, would place in the hands of the Street Commissioners authority to issue permits for removing buildings formerly granted by the Mayor and aldermen.

Sect. 11. Every permit granted by the Superintendent of Public Grounds [shall specifically describe the work to be done under it and] shall expire at the end of not exceeding thirty days.

Note.—This section is based upon Ordinances of Chicago, section 17, and Ordinances of Providence, section 12.

Sect. 12. The word "trees" as used in this ordinance shall not be construed to include shrubs which do not grow higher than 15 feet, and the word "person" whenever used in this ordinance shall be construed to include individuals, firms and corporations.

Note.—This section is based upon Ordinances of Chicago, section 3, so far as it relates to the definition of trees and shrubs. The definition of the word "person" may be already provided for in other sections of the Revised Ordinances, but this should of course be defined in some way. Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

ORIGINAL FINANCE COMMISSION REPORTS.

The following was received: April 25, 1910.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to refer to your honorable body the request of the Boston Finance Commission, contained in their letter of April 22, herewith inclosed, that they be supplied with certain copies of the various volumes of the reports of the original Finance Commission.

I am informed that your Committee on Printing now has custody of most, if not all, of these volumes, and would recommend that the request of the Finance Commission be complied with, through this committee, in so far as the list appended to their letter may show that such a disposition of the volumes would be proper and expedient.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Finance Commission,
410-413 Tremont street,
Boston, April 22, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—The Finance Commission is in constant receipt of requests for copies of the reports of the former Finance Commission which it is unable to grant as the quota originally placed at its disposal has long since been exhausted. It appears, however, that the City Messenger has about seventy-five copies of each of the four reports and that the Superintendent of Printing has about one hundred and seventy-five copies of volume three of the reports. Written requests for fifty-one copies of volume one, sixty-nine of volume two, fifty-five of volume three and fifty-three of volume four have already accumulated and a much larger number of oral requests has been made of which no record has been kept.

The commission respectfully requests that the Superintendent of Printing be authorized to give the commission the copies of volume three now on hand, and that the City Messenger be authorized to give the commission such copies of each of the four volumes as it may require for distribution.

Yours respectfully,

The Finance Commission,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

P. S. Inclosed please find list to show the character of the requests we are receiving.

CONFIRMING PARKMAN PROPERTY TITLE.

The following was received: April 22, 1910.

To the City Council:
 I recommend the adoption by your honorable body of the appended order, the effect of which is to confirm the title of property belonging to the estate of the late George Francis Parkman, when sold by the executor.

Respectfully,
 JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Whereas, the house and land numbered thirty-three (33) on Beacon street, and the stable and land in the rear thereof on Joy place, are property of the residuary estate of the late George F. Parkman, and the executor has agreed to sell the same to L. Coues Page for the sum of $67,000,—$1,155 of which sum is to be applied to the payment of the tax assessed thereon as of May, 1909, and $670 broker's commission, and it is advisable that the City of Boston as residuary legatee under the will of said Parkman execute a quitclaim deed of said premises, to be delivered to the purchaser with the deed from said executor; and

Whereas, There probably will arise in the future a necessity for similar quitclaim deeds;

Now, therefore, it is ordered, That the Mayor be and hereby is authorized, on behalf of and in the name of the City of Boston, to execute, acknowledge and deliver a sufficient quitclaim deed of said premises, and also to execute, acknowledge and deliver quitclaim deeds of any other premises belonging to said estate which may be sold by the executor.

L STREET BATH TRANSFER.

Under unfinished business, President BALLANTYNE called up the following:

1. Ordered, That the City Auditor be and he is hereby authorized to transfer the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars from the appropriation for "L Street Bath, Addition for Women," to an appropriation for "L Street Bath, Additions, Alterations and Repairs."

On April 4 the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The order was read a second time and again passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

LEGAL EXPENSES OF OFFICER FORGER.

Coun. BUCKLEY, for the Committee on Claims, submitted a report on the petition of John H. Forger, an officer at Deer Island, for compensation for expenses incurred by him while acting in said capacity, recommending the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to John H. Forger the sum of $500 for expenses incurred in suit against him for act as officer at the House of Correction, Deer Island, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I simply represent that report because I happen to be chairman of the Committee on Claims. Personally I do not believe in establishing a precedent of that sort, but simply because the other members of the committee wished it presented I have presented it.

The motion was assigned for one week, on motion of Coun. KENNY.

WATER METER ADJUSTMENT BOARD.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Water Commissioner, through his Honor the Mayor, be directed to establish a Water Meter Adjustment Board, to consist of three master plumbers. The said Water Meter Adjustment Board shall have the sole authority to revise all bills that in the opinion of property owners or tenants may be deemed excessive.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me that this is a matter of some considerable importance, and that we should have some time to think it over, especially as it may involve the creation of some new positions. Therefore, I move as a substitute that the matter lie over for one week.

Coun. Kenny's motion to assign the order to the next meeting was carried.

DIP CANS FOR MILK

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to direct the Board of Health to suspend, until June 1, their regulation which prevents the use of dip cans for milk, in order to allow new methods to be suggested for obtaining the result aimed at by the said regulation.

The order was referred, on motion of Coun. KENNY, to the Executive Committee.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Coun. COLLINS, for the Committee on Public Lands, submitted the following:

(1) Report on the message and order from the Mayor (referred March 21) to sell by public auction land 492 and 494 Chelsea street, East Boston, reporting back in a new draft, as follows:

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, subject to the approval of the Mayor, to sell by public auction a parcel of land now in the custody of the Street Department on the northeast side of Chelsea street, numbers 492 and 494 on said street, and containing about 15,000 square feet of filled land and about 107,000 square feet of flats, the same to be sold at a figure not less than $20,000; proceeds of the sale of the same to be applied to the sinking fund for the reduction of the city debt.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order in the new draft.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I most respectfully move that further consideration of that order be assigned for one week. I understand that a ten-year lease made by the City of Boston of a street department yard in East Boston will expire about May 1. The city has been paying a large amount of yearly rental, and if this particular yard can be made available it might be well to do it. I don't know whether it could or not. I most respectfully move assignment of the order for one week.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, as chairman of your Committee on Public Lands, I welcome the assignment for one week. We had the Superintendent of Streets before us several times and went into the matter. After full consideration of the facts and reasons, we submitted our report. I believe, in order to be consistent with what my action in the Council of this year has been, that all matters of this kind should be deferred for action for one week. I therefore urge assignment for one week.

The report and order were assigned for one week.

(2) Report on message and order from the Mayor (referred March 21) relative to sale of public alley No. 444—reporting back in a new draft, as follows:

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be and hereby is authorized, subject to the approval of the Mayor, to sell at public auction a parcel of land bounded as follows: Southwesterly by land of Flora A. Ginty, 31½ feet; northwesterly by public alley No. 444, 34 feet; northeasterly by land of the City of Boston by a line parallel with and 34 feet distant northeasterly from the northeasterly boundary line of said land of said Ginty, 43½ feet, southeasterly by the location of the Boston & Albany Railroad, 36½ feet, containing 1,273 square feet, more or less. The same to be sold for not less than the assessed valuation of said land. Proceeds to be applied to sinking fund for the reduction of the city debt.

The question came on accepting the report and passing the order.

The report and order were assigned for one week.

(3) Report on the order (referred March 28) authorizing the Street Commissioners to sell at public auction land at the northeast corner of Gibson street and Dorchester avenue, and the adjoining lot—that the same ought not to pass.

The question came on accepting the report. The report was accepted and the order rejected.

ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS AND AQUARIUMS.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the opinion of the Corporation Counsel be requested with respect to the right of the City of Boston to establish zoological gardens and aquariums and maintain the same out of the fund of the Parkman will and under its provisions.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me that before the city embarks on any policy for the expenditure of the Parkman Fund for the purposes recited in the communication already before this Board, it would be fair and proper to ascertain if, under the terms of the will, we have the right to spend the money for those purposes. For that reason I offer the order.

The order was read a second time and passed.

SUFFOLK COUNTY EXPENSES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following orders:

Ordered, That, until otherwise ordered, the City Treasurer be authorized to expend for clerk hire on account of the County of Suffolk the sum of $800 per annum, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, miscellaneous expenses; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That the Clerk of the Superior Court, Criminal Session, be authorized to expend for clerical assistance for the present financial year not exceeding the sum of $15,000, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Superior Court, Criminal Session; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That, until otherwise ordered, the judges of the Probate Court be authorized to employ a messenger at a salary of $1,500 per annum, and to expend for uniforms for said messenger not exceeding $100 per annum; the expense thus incurred to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Probate Court; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That, until otherwise ordered, the City Collector be authorized to expend for clerk hire on account of the County of Suffolk the sum of $700 per annum, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, miscellaneous expenses; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That the Clerk of the Superior Court, Civil Session, be authorized to expend for clerical assistance for the present financial year not exceeding the sum of $35,000, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Superior Court, Civil Session; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That the Clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court be authorized to expend for clerical assistance for the present financial year not exceeding the sum of $9,000, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Supreme Judicial Court; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Ordered, That the Register of Probate and Insolvency be authorized to expend for clerical assistance for the present financial year not exceeding the sum of $15,500, to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Probate Court; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow such officer to exceed the said appropriation.

Severally referred to the Committee on County Accounts.

PARKMAN INCOME FUND FOR 1910.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That a committee of five be appointed by the President of the City Council to prepare a programme for the expenditure of the income of the Parkman fund for the year 1910.

Passed.
The President appointed as said committee Coun. Hale, McDonald, Brand, Kenny and Curley.

LIABILITY UNDER SECTION 8 OF CHARTER.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Corporation Counsel be requested to pass upon the following cases:

1. A member of the City Council requests a head of a department to reinstate an employee of that department, who has been suspended. Is the member of the Council liable to fine or imprisonment under section 8 of the new city charter?

8. In each of the above supposed cases the member of the Council sends a friend to interview the head of the department or the Mayor, instead of going himself. Does that in any way alter his liability, if any?
9. In each of the above supposed cases the member of the Council tells the employee asking the favor that in case the head of the department communicates with the member of the Council he will give him the requested information. Does that in any way alter his liability, if any?

The order was read a second time and the question came on its passage.
Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would like to have the order amended so that the Corporation Counsel will define just what is meant by section 8, in addition to these questions. He wanders all over the lot, and I would like to have it definite.

On motion of Coun. Curley the order was amended by adding another section, as follows:

"10. Just what, in the opinion of the Corporation Counsel, does said section 8 mean?"
The order as amended was passed.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I most respectfully move reconsideration of the vote for this reason, that the order is not specific enough. I think it should be amended in this respect, that there should be no expense whatever attached to it. I am not opposed to the order on principle, but I think it is vague and meaningless, and I think it should be understood, if such a bureau is to be established, that it should be established without any cost to the city and conducted by the Finance Commission itself. For that reason I ask reconsideration, and if reconsideration is allowed I shall ask special assignment to the next meeting.

Reconsideration was refused.

Report accepted; order passed.

(4) Report on the order (referred to-day) authorizing the committee appointed to investigate the payments of money made to Michael J. MUNICIPAL BATHS, BATHING BEACHES AND ZOOLOGICAL PARKS AND COLLECTIONS, 1907.

A recently published special report on cities, issued by the Bureau of the Census at Washington, contains much valuable and interesting data relative to various municipal activities. Below, there is shown in concise, tabular form the number, character, extent, etc., of municipal baths, bathing beaches, and zoological parks and collections maintained in the large cities throughout the country.

In the matter of baths, etc., it is worthy of note that Boston, in 1907, maintained a greater number of bathing beaches than any other large city in the United States. New York with seventeen, and Boston with ten, were the only cities in the group to report floating bath houses. The geographical position of Philadelphia and St. Louis, naturally limits their possibilities in the matter of outdoor bathing facilities; yet it will surprise many citizens of Boston, who accept the advantages and comforts provided for them from the public treasury as matters of course, to learn that the city of St. Louis makes practically no provision for its citizens in this important direction. St. Louis maintained but one public bath in 1907, with a reported attendance of 69,394, while the city of Boston provided thirty-one bathing beaches, bath houses, etc., during the same year with a reported attendance of 2,327,609.

New York reported 27 all-the-year baths, Chicago 13, Boston 11, while Philadelphia, apparently, provided no baths aside from 20 outdoor swimming pools. But five cities in the group reported gymnasiums: New York 19, Chicago 11, Boston 6, Baltimore 5, and Cleveland 1.

Now that Boston is giving serious attention to the question of establishing a zoological park or aquarium in one or another of the city parks, it is interesting to note that Boston is the only city on the list which does not maintain, in whole or in part, a zoological park. New York City was, apparently, the pioneer in this regard among American cities, the zoological garden in Central Park dating from 1866. Chicago's park was established in 1868, Philadelphia has had a zoo since 1873, Baltimore has had a zoological collection for twenty-eight years, while the average among the cities is twenty years. Although the parks are, in all but one instance, maintained by the various cities, the collections of animals may be owned privately as in the case of Cincinnati, or be the property of the local zoological society. The animals in the Bronx Park New York, and in the Philadelphia Zoo are thus owned.

It will be observed that there exists considerable variety as regards the general character of the several collections, Philadelphia including a comparatively large number of reptiles in her collection, 1,087, or about one-half the number included in all the different collections. The New York collection is, of course, the largest in the aggregate; her bird collection numbering 3,181, while the privately owned collection in Cincinnati takes second rank.

PROCEEDINGS OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Apr. 25, 1910.

An adjourned meeting of the School Committee of the City of Boston was held in the School Committee Chamber, Mason-street Building, at 5:20 o'clock P.M., the Chairman presiding.

Present: Messrs. Brock, Ellis, Lee, Magenis and Scannell.

APPROVAL OF RECORDS.

The reading of the records of the last meeting was omitted, the Board approving them as printed.

APPROPRIATION FOR ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS.

The following communication was received:—

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
Apr. 21, 1910.

To the School Committee,

Gentlemen:—

I return herewith, without my approval, your order presented to me on April 12, appropriating $529,557 from the tax levy of this year for land and buildings for schools. This amount is in addition to the sum of $500,000 already appropriated by you for this purpose, payable from the proceeds of the sale of bonds, and to the further sum of $300,000 which you are authorized to appropriate for the construction of a new administration building, which is also to contain the High School of Commerce. If all three appropriations should be made, the total expenditures for school buildings this year would be $1,329,557. The appropriation for maintenance is $4,455,000, and the amount due for interest and sinking funds on schoolhouse loans, already issued, will be $848,319. This total of $6,632,876 for school expenditures in one year is so large as to invite a careful scrutiny.

The effect of your recent order will be to increase the tax rate of the city this year by 40 cents. Before sanctioning this increase, it becomes my duty, as mayor, to inquire:

(1) Are all the new schoolhouses desired by your Board actually needed?

(2) Can the city afford to build them now?

(3) If so, is the method of payment from taxes preferable to the method of payment from loans?

On the first question, it is fair to point out that of the $20,000,000 which is, in round numbers, the present valuation of the public schools of Boston, over $14,000,000 has been appropriated since 1895. This is equivalent to the cost, at present rates, of 1400 elementary school rooms or 100 14-room schools. A government that has made such an expenditure in 15 years cannot be accused of remissness or parsimony. It has earned the right, by a munificence which approaches prodigality, to challenge further appeals, and to demand convincing evidence that the additions asked for are needed.

This evidence is set forth in a series of letters from the Superintendent of Schools to your board, copies of which have been furnished me. Omitting high schools, kindergartens, and the extension of school yards, for which he gives no specific estimates, the Superintendent enumerates under five separate heads the pupils who will require new accommodations during the next three years. An abstract of his enumeration follows:—

	Nos.	Rms.
(1) Pupils in corridors, basements, school halls and buildings that should be abandoned.....	1,672	38
(2) Pupils now in rented quarters.....	1,187	27
(3) Pupils in portable schools in districts where the numbers justify the erection of permanent buildings.....	3,168	72
(4) Pupils in classes numbering more than 44 pupils.....	2,500	57
(5) Probable increase during the next three years.....	5,361	122
	13,883	316

It is, of course, an accident that this total happens to coincide almost exactly with the number of unoccupied desks in the elementary schools on Oct. 31, 1909, which was 13,874. But it is suggestive to observe that the dearth of accommodations which your board now seeks to remedy has been created by the abandonment of space and equipment originally regarded as satisfactory. The following list, showing the percentage of unoccupied desks in some of the more conspicuously vacant schools, reveals a condition that seems to be fairly distributed throughout the different sections of the city:

	Per cent.
Wait School, South End.....	43
Winship School, Brighton.....	48
Bishop Cheverus School, East Boston.....	32
Joshua Bates School, South End.....	30
Jefferson School, Roxbury.....	25
Mather School, Dorchester.....	25
Roger Clap School, Dorchester.....	25
Marshall School, Dorchester.....	25
Wells School, West End.....	24
Hugh O'Brien School, Roxbury.....	22

While the problem of the distribution of pupils is a difficult one, I find it hard to believe that by a skillful rearrangement of the district lines, some, at least, of this discarded furniture and unprofitable space might not be utilized. Your board appears to possess numerous school buildings, some of them almost new, which are from a quarter to two-fifths empty; yet pupils are sent out into portables and rented rooms on the plea of over-crowding.

Taking up the items in the superintendent's enumeration I find varying degrees of necessity among them, and most, if not all of them, leave room for serious question. The superintendent estimates, for example, an addition of 1787 pupils each year to the elementary school population. But the average increase in the maximum registration (which occurs about Nov. 30 of each year) for the last five years has been only 832, which, if maintained, would reduce the superintendent's estimate for three years by 2865 pupils.

It is true that the change from a nine years' to an eight years' course of study has been a disturbing factor; but, on the other hand, the growth of the parochial school system seems certain to diminish the rate of increase of the public school population in the near future. The following parochial schools, either under way or contemplated, will all have been completed within two years and most of them within a twelvemonth:—

St. Margaret's, Dorchester, 18 rooms, ..
Cathedral, South End, 10 rooms.
St. Anne's, Neponset, 12 rooms.
St. Catherine's, Charlestown, about 10 rooms.
St. Francis de Sales', Roxbury, about 18 rooms.

Here is a total of 68 rooms, accommodating over 3000 pupils, who will soon be withdrawn from the elementary schools. A trustworthy and exhaustive estimate should give due weight to this factor.

Many other factors that cannot be foreseen enter into such a calculation—the birth and death rates, good and bad times, immigration, modifications in the school laws—but if the low average rate of increase of the last five years should continue, then the establishment of the parochial schools mentioned will more than offset the accessions and will bring about a positive decline in numbers. The mere possibility of this should impose a check on the liberality of your board. A stationary registration in the elementary schools during the next three years would mean the saving of about $1,220,000, or $466,000 each year, which would go far toward extinguishing the entire sum appropriated in the order before me.

As for the pupils in unsafe or unsanitary buildings, no one will dispute their right to proper accommodations. Unfortunately, however, there is a difference of opinion about some of the items under this head. Experts might be cited who hold views entirely opposed to those of your board, and whose knowledge of this particular field is unexcelled. From information conveyed to me by them, I am led to believe that more than one of the condemned buildings might serve for many years to come, with a moderate expenditure for repairs.

The pupils in rented quarters are all young children, who are destined to pass soon into the regular school buildings. The same is true of those in the portable schools, to which the chief objection seems to be that they intrude upon the playground space.

Neither the portable buildings nor the rented quarters are more than an episode in the school life of any of the pupils who attend classes in them, and, while they cannot be considered entirely satisfactory, it is quite possible to magnify their disadvantages.

The reduction of the number of pupils in each class from 48 to 44 has much to commend it; but, since it calls for increased expenditures for land, buildings, teachers and equipment, it can only be brought about gradually, as the resources of the city permit of the change.

This consideration leads directly to the question of the ability of the city to expend $1,329,000 for school buildings this year—a question not to be answered in the affirmative without hesitation. It is natural that you should be impressed with the value of your special work, and quite conscientiously exaggerate its claims, but my relation to other departments of municipal activity may enable me to view its importance in a truer perspective.

From every section there come to me demands for new streets, sewers, bridges, playgrounds, incinerators, hospitals, municipal buildings, fire apparatus, and a hundred other conveniences and necessities, some of them quite as vital to the welfare of the children themselves as the difference between 44 and 48 pupils in a room constructed to seat 56.

At best, the city can not meet half of these demands, particularly in the present year, when a prospective increase of the state and metropolitan charges may defeat our most strenuous efforts to reduce the tax rate. In view of this likelihood, the vote of your board, which will add another 40 cents to the burden, seems singularly inopportune.

It is neither equitable nor judicious to hold down expenditures in every other department, while the expenditures from the tax levy for school purposes are allowed to double in the short space of 12 years.

On the third question, that of the best method of paying for improvements which, while admittedly of a permanent character, are alleged to be annually recurrent, there is no unanimity of opinion. Mayor Collins vetoed an attempt of your predecessors to do what you now seek to do. Successive school boards, including the present one, have apparently accepted this policy. The Finance Commission has suggested a temporary compromise. Large business corporations, other cities and the Commonwealth itself certainly borrow in order to provide permanent additions to their equipment. I shall not, however, undertake to decide in which of the two ways the desired amounts should be raised until I am more fully convinced that it is necessary to raise them at all.

In view of the many debatable items in your list, of the urgent demands of other departments, and of the new financial burdens anticipated during the present year, I respectfully request your board to reconsider its vote and to submit this question specifically to the Finance Commission, which, with the special appropriation which it has received for the purpose of investigating school expenditures, should be able to render an authoritative report. In the meantime, you may still avail yourselves of the $500,000 loan authorized for this year, which will build four large schools, containing about 50 rooms and accommodating about 2250 pupils.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor.

Accompanying the foregoing communication was the order therein referred to, passed by the Board at its meeting on Apr. 8 (see minutes, p. 61).

Advocates of the short ballot principle have formed a national organization with Dr. Woodrow Wilson of Princeton at its head. Its doctrine is: First, that only those offices should be elective that are important enough to attract and deserve public attention; and, second, that very few offices should be filled by election at one time.—Pacific Outlook.

SELLING TO THE ARMY.

In the land of the blind the one-eyed man is king. In business the paramount issue is to find a channel through which to sell. Advertising one's goods does much to help dispose of them. But advertising, except for the general effect of popularity, does not reach the purchasing heads of our fighting organizations.

There is but one way to introduce your goods into the supply departments of the army. That way lies in the catalogue. But do not think, unless you carry some indispensable standard line, that you will ever receive requests for your catalogues from military sources. On the contrary, you must send them unsolicited. You must keep sending them year after year, though you never may receive a direct order or may never know what portion of your output follows your books.

To understand these things you must know the manner in which the army is supplied. The two chief supply departments of the American army are the commissary and quartermaster's. The former furnishes all foodstuffs, toilet articles, etc. The latter, which constitutes by far the larger field, with few exceptions, furnishes all other things needed in the service, principally camp and garrison equipage, which ranges from railroads and steamships to cooking utensils and household articles. In short, the quartermaster's department comes nearer the goal of a well-managed department store than any other branch of the service.

Our army, consisting of some 150,000 men and officers, is located in some three hundred or more widely scattered military posts in the United States, Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. At each permanent post or temporary camp there is a commissary and a quartermaster officer who are charged with the supply of the troops serving thereat. Neither of these officers can buy the requisite supplies for their respective departments in the open market except in very rare instances. They must obtain them through depot commissaries or depot quartermasters situated in the principal market centers of the country upon written requisition duly approved by intermediate commanders. These requisitions state specifically what is needed, and here is where the catalogue comes into helpful use to the officer or his subordinates. From it he chooses the make, description, quality, etc., of the particular items he wants, oftentimes naming the maker and giving the catalogue number from which the information is taken. Hence the purchasing agent at the depot in the large city, going daily into the market to buy, calls for the identical article called for, and, as though obeying the mandate of the modern advertiser, "accepts no substitute."

Large depots continually carry ordinary commodities in stock, such stock often aggregating a million dollars in value. The list usually ranges from road rollers and other heavy hardware to carpet tacks and washing soap. The latitude of the stock, however, is generally governed by the demands made upon it by post quartermasters or by the requirements of the service as provided in orders. Likewise, depot quartermasters aim at all times to keep a supply of late catalogues on hand for reference in filling incoming requisitions and for their own guidance in buying for their own stock. Depots frequently write for such catalogues as they need, but welcome the unsolicited ones.

Judicious advertising to some extent influences post or station quartermasters in getting what they want, but rarely do they step beyond the catalogue. To change the metaphor, if some article is needed, the quality, make, price, etc., of which is not shown in any available catalogue, it is quite likely that the article just then conspicuously before the public in advertising may be named in the requisition—another evidence that the results of advertising cannot always be accurately checked.

The government, it is said, is inevitably the last institution to adopt modern conveniences or new inventions. To-day when vacuum processes are cleaning the interiors of our homes the old unsanitary corn broom still sweeps the barracks and the officers' quarters at the military garrison. It is also quite true that in these days of extensive advertising the army now and then indulges in a few conveniences of the age. When the bicycle held full sway as a pleasure and business conveyance no quartermaster found it possible to get one for official use. Now they are regularly supplied upon requisition, as are automobiles. Airships may soon come.

All firms doing a national business should send their latest catalogues each year to the quartermaster of each military post, as well as to the quartermaster depots in the larger cities. Most maps show the name and location of our garrisoned posts; this failing, application should be made to the War Department for a list showing them.

"Follow-up" matter should be eliminated. The government (through its agents) cannot be talked into buying anything. If it needs your wares it will buy sooner or later. If it does not, no amount of persuasive oratory or "drumming" literature will ever result in a sale. On the other hand a flood of follow-up letters and pamphlets may through annoyance create prejudice against your house.

When once you get the army in the habit of buying your products, as is now the case with reference to certain brands of soap, washing powder, lamp chimneys, stationery, inks, paste, plumbing supplies, etc., it will go on buying them to the exclusion of all other makes for an indefinite period, or until your quality degenerates or is succeeded by more modern contrivances. Uncle Sam is a customer hard to lose once you have made good with him; also, the pay is sure, yet sometimes slow. In this latter regard settlement of bills should never be pressed, as it usually requires weeks, if not months, to get vouchers supporting payments ready for the disbursement. Contrary to good business sense, the government requires a signed receipt before making payment. It frequently occurs that a business house may not receive its check for a long period after signing a receipt certifying that payment has been made in full. In Australia this requirement once caused an army officer sent there to buy remounts for the cavalry untold annoyance. British business men couldn't understand why they should acknowledge the receipt of cash which wasn't forthcoming immediately afterward.

In the post exchange, an institution conducted along the lines of an up-to-date café for the express benefit of the enlisted man, candymakers, cigar dealers, soft drink manufacturers (and sometimes manufacturers of drink which is not noted for its softness), find a sale for their wares. At some posts the exchange carries a small line of citizen's clothing, such as underwear and top shirts; also razors, pipes, musical instruments, stationery, and many other things. A lunch counter is generally a paying adjunct. Traveling salesmen regularly visit these exchanges, known among the soldiers as "the canteen," as the officers in charge of them have authority to make all purchases where they see fit without the approval of any higher official.

Ready-made clothing dealers should especially make an effort to introduce their apparel among the enlisted men. In each post there is a civilian tailor known as the post tailor. He is given a concession to conduct a shop upon the reservation so that the enlisted men may have a means of keeping their uniforms in good condition as well as have necessary alterations made in badly fitting uniforms issued by the government. Nearly every soldier keeps what he terms "a suit of cits," for use when he goes on pass or furlough. For a suit the post tailor never charges less than $40, a price which the private soldier can ill afford. Often it takes from two to six months to pay for it. But, there being no alternative, because he lacks the cash price of a "hand-me-down," he goes in debt for the more expensive outfit to the willing tailor. By having a representative at each post large clothing manufacturers should do a lucrative business in selling ready-made suits.

Upon requests from business houses wishing to send heavy catalogues to post quartermasters the latter will oftentimes forward official franks to cover carriage.

Comparatively little of what the army buys is bought under annual contract. Purchases are usually made at frequent intervals on circular proposal, any one having the right to bid.—The Book-Keeper.

HELPING OUT THE CITIES.

Of late years there have been established in New York City a number of engineering and contracting companies that find out the needs of smaller cities of that state in the way of civic or utility development, and then finance or construct or operate, as may be desired. A sample proposition—although there are all sorts of forms—is that recently made to the city of Birmingham. The company proposes to take over the electric lighting plant which the city is planning to build, operate it for three, five or more years at its own expense, and turn it over to the city at the end of the period in perfect order and repair, and in the meantime charge a stated sum for lights which is about 60 per cent of what is now paid, with a contract and bond for faithful performance. The advantage to the city would be to get its plant in successful running order before it took it over, and to have a practical basis on which to test its economy and feasibility.

SETTING ITS SEAL.

Toledo has an insignia consisting of a conventionalized block house. This is to be used on every article owned by the city where it can conveniently be placed, such as wagons, fire apparatus, etc.

MUNICIPAL DOCKS.

In the last six years New York has spent over $40,000,000 in the purchase of waterfront property and the construction of docks.—Pacific Outlook.

APPROVAL OF SCHOOLHOUSE PLANS.

On April 30 the mayor approved plans prepared by Messrs. Brigham, Coveney & Bisbee, Architects, for an electrical system for the Samuel Adams School at East Boston.

NEW YORK SUBWAYS.

Subway construction in New York on a great scale seems pretty well assured by recent actions of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and by a public address of Mayor Gaynor asserting that the city was entirely able financially to undertake the work. The plans for many new lines have been practically completed by the large engineering corps of the Public Service Commission. The first subway proved a great success from the outset and the same is true of its Brooklyn extension, but these lines were built by the company which was to operate them and was naturally vitally interested in every part of the work from the outset. This successful preliminary experience in such undertakings has not been duplicated with the second subway, the loop route connecting the Manhattan ends of the three East river bridges, the use of which still remains a question, although recently a request was received for a franchise to use it in connection with the elevated railways in Brooklyn. This was not the purpose for which the line was planned, which was to form a part of a subway route running through Brooklyn to East New York, but some of the elevated lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, which has asked for the franchise, extend through about the same territory. So the petition has some chance of favorable consideration, for the simple reason that unless the subway is so used the city is likely to possess for a good many years an unused hole in the ground representing an investment of about $10,000,000. This condition respecting the loop subway and the lack of any definite agreement concerning the future use of the city's third venture in subway building, that now in progress in Brooklyn, makes it desirable to consider whether the city is following the right policy in such work. Subways cost so much money that it is really a little venturesome for even a rich city like New York to construct one tunnel after another without any knowledge as to what use will be made of them. It is hardly in keeping with the dignity of the city to put up a sign, "tunnel to let; apply for keys at the city hall," on the entrance to these unused subterranean passages. The city should not speculate in tunnels any more than in buildings. The original subway is now carrying more passengers at faster speed than it was ever expected to; the loop subway's future is still shrouded in mystery. So while agreeing with any reasonable argument in favor of the construction of more subways, the careful critic will be likely to decide that the administrative policy which insures the use as well as the construction of subways has made a better showing than that which regards the two features as entirely distinct.—Engineering Record.

RAILROAD ELECTRIFICATION.

The Belt Line Tunnel locomotives at Baltimore afford an instructive lesson in what electrical engineers have done when put on their mettle and how the first essays to solve unusual problems have been modified in the light of experience. In 1893, only a few years after electricity had won a secure place in street railway circles, the first locomotives for the Belt Line were ordered. It was a pretty bold thing to do, but electricity was seen to be far and away the best thing for the tunnel and so, without any precedents to help them, the designers of the original locomotives built a 96-ton unit consisting of two four-wheel sections permanently coupled and capable of exerting 28,000 pounds tractive effort. These locomotives were gearless and are running to-day on passenger service. About ten years later the tunnel requirements became so great that more locomotives were needed and so the heaviest that are in operation anywhere to-day were constructed for handling freight trains. Each weighs 160 tons and consists of two halves permanently coupled together under the control of a single operator. Each half has four motors geared to the axles. A 160-ton unit is able to exert a tractive effort of 80,000 pounds at starting and 70,000 pounds at a speed of eight and one-half miles an hour. This year two more locomotives have been added to the tunnel equipment for either freight or passenger service, and are of somewhat different design from the earlier units. Each has two trucks permanently hinged together and supporting a platform carrying a steel cab running the whole length of the locomotive. Each unit weighs ninety tons, thus being comparable in weight with the first locomotive, and two of them can be coupled together under the control of a single operator if desired. Each is capable of a tractive effort of 45,000 pounds at a speed of fourteen to fifteen miles an hour, while two of them working together can haul a 1,000-ton load up a grade of eighty feet to the mile. For something like seventeen years electricity has been giving complete satisfaction in handling both passenger and freight trains in the Baltimore tunnel, so that the statement still occasionally heard about the untried nature of heavy electric traction is manifestly open to question.—Engineering Record.

STREET AND SIDEWALK REQUIREMENTS.

Street and sidewalk requirements where there are a number of high office buildings are generally not recognized as at all different from the requirements of twenty years ago, when a building 150 feet high was something of a marvel, but the fact that each of these lofty buildings contains a population approaching that of a small village or town ought to receive very careful thought from those engaged in municipal engineering. This is particularly the case where buildings of such a character are used for manufacturing purposes and the employees are of a class which spends the noon hour, or most of it, in walking about in the vicinity. On Fifth Avenue, in New York, between Washington square and Madison square, the sidewalks are almost impassable during the noon hour because the enormous population of the neighboring loft and office buildings spends that time in promenading up and down this famous street. The overcrowded condition of the sidewalks at noon is something that must be seen to be believed. In other parts of the city, where the hour between 12 and 1 is not utilized by everybody for promenading and luncheon, the crowding is not so severe on the sidewalks, since only a part of the population of the buildings leaves them at one time. Even down town, however, the sidewalks are so badly overcrowded that it is self-evident they have become inadequate for their purpose. We are becoming gradually accustomed to such conditions, and it is not until some visitor who has never attempted to force his way through such a congested mass of humanity criticises the condition he discovers in New York, as well as in certain parts of other large American cities, that we come to realize what has been developing in our midst. The sidewalks are so narrow where these lofty buildings are found, in many cases, that the roadway has to be utilized as a sidewalk, and even then overcrowding exists. While such a condition is not at present serious, although it is extremely annoying to those in a hurry to go from one place to another, it presents a problem that must be kept in mind in any general discussion of transportation facilities and congested areas in large cities.

UTILITIES LAW.

New Jersey, which only a few years ago was, with the possible exception of Delaware, the most lax state in the Union with respect to corporations, allowing them to do pretty much as they pleased, has now a public utilities law that puts under strict regulation every express company, street railway, traction, canal, subway, pipe line, gas, electric light, heat and power, water, sewer, telephone, telegraph or steam railway incorporated or operating in the state. All future issuance of securities must be passed upon by a commission, and all the bookkeeping of the companies must be open to inspection.

CITY BRICK MAKING.

How does it happen that some of the most conservative European nations have the most progressive and daring cities? Budapest in Austro-Hungary has gone beyond most European cities in its extension of the municipal function. One of its late innovations is the establishment of municipal brick yards. It is condemning large areas in the slum districts and rebuilding them with model buildings. Finding its work hindered by an unnecessarily high price for brick, as well as inadequate supply, it has gone into the business as a municipality.

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO,
Secretary.

May 3, 1910.

An adjourned meeting of the School Committee of the City of Boston was held in the School Committee Chamber, Mason-street Building, at 7 o'clock P. M., the Chairman presiding.

Present: Messrs. Brock, Ellis, Lee, Magenis and Scannell.

APPOINTMENTS OF TEACHERS.

The rules were suspended, and the appointments of teachers on probation, as reported by the Superintendent and laid over at the meeting of May 2, were approved.

APPROPRIATION FOR ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS.

The communication from His Honor the Mayor, returning without his approval, the following order passed by the Board on Apr. 8, 1910 (see p. 61), making an appropriation under Chapter 388 of the Acts of 1909, for additional school accommodations, was taken from the table and placed on file:—

ORDERED, That in addition to the amount already appropriated by this Committee for current expenses there be appropriated under Chapter 388 of the Acts of 1909, for constructing and furnishing new school buildings, including the taking of land therefor, and for school yards, and the preparing of school yards for use, the sum of $529,557.

The Chairman stated the question was on the passage of the aforesaid order, notwithstanding the objections of His Honor the Mayor.

The order unanimously passed by the following vote:—

Yeas—Messrs. Brock, Ellis, Lee, Magenis and Scannell—5.

Nays—0.

The Secretary was directed to transmit the following communication to His Honor the Mayor in explanation of this action:—

Your Honor's message, returning without your approval the School Committee's order appropriating $529,557 for land and buildings for schools, was duly received. Your Honor gives as the principal reason for your veto that you are not convinced of the need of the new school buildings which this appropriation is intended to supply. You also question whether if the need exists it should not be met by borrowing rather than out of the tax levy.

As to the method of raising the money, the School Committee believes that, in the case of an annually recurrent expenditure, borrowing should be considered the extraordinary, and raising the money directly out of the tax levy the normal, method. The present appropriation is of that sum which the Legislature has permitted the School Committee to appropriate every year for school buildings. It represents approximately the amount necessary to meet an annually recurrent need. The School Committee believes that in appropriating it to meet such need it is adopting a sound financial policy.

Tax Rate Depends on Mayor.

The making of this appropriation does not, as your Honor has assumed, necessarily involve the raising of the present tax rate by 40 cents. The former Finance Commission pointed out methods by which very large sums could be saved, without loss of efficiency, in departments other than the public schools. Some of its suggestions have not yet been adopted. The raising or lowering of the tax rate will depend to some extent, at least, upon the action of Your Honor in regard to them.

The city's annual income will be increased by a sum variously estimated at from $135,000 to $200,000 by the recent passage of Senate Bill No. 347. While this income will not affect the tax rate for this year it will furnish a sum equivalent to about 15 cents on the tax rate in future years, and this fact ought not to be lost sight of in considering the adoption of the general policy of paying for school-houses as we go.

Present Overcrowding.

As to the present need of more school buildings, the question, so far as this appropriation is concerned, is not, as Your Honor suggests, dependent upon any estimate, correct or otherwise, of future growth. In making its estimates on that point, the School Committee has always considered the effect of parochial schools. But the question now is not of future growth but of present exigency.

Nor so far as this present appropriation is concerned is the question of reducing the size of classes from 48 to 44 involved. The appropriation would be needed if no further reductions in the size of classes below the number 48 were to be made.

Unwholesome Buildings.

The needs which this appropriation will help to satisfy include such items as the following: There is the Austin School in East Boston, abandoned for school purposes as long ago as 1895, and later reluctantly reoccupied, where tide water occasionally backs up into the basement, where the rooms are so dark that the school has been frequently dismissed, where the walls are damp and the books get mouldy.

There is the Way-street School, immediately adjoining many railroad tracks, subjected to constant noise, and enveloped daily in a cloud of smoke, steam and coal gas from passing locomotives.

There is the Baldwin School on Chardon court, situated at the end of a blind alley, with the blank wall of a theatre on one side, a stable on the other and the Way-farers' Lodge on a third.

There is the Prescott School in Charlestown, condemned as dangerous to life and health by the State Board of Health, and which should be either abandoned or remodeled.

There are, besides, other instances in various parts of the city in which the health of the children, and in some cases their safety, is endangered by unfit buildings.

Halls, Basements and Corridors.

Even if all the buildings above enumerated were to be considered wholesome and proper places for the housing of the children in our schools, there would remain other needs calling for the present appropriation. There are, for instance, seven classes of children in the basement of the Washington School in the West End, and there are many other classes in halls and corridors, most of these being unfit places for classrooms and all of them interfering with the proper use of the school building for educational purposes.

Portables and Hired Rooms.

This appropriation is also required in order to permit the removal of some of the pupils from portable buildings and from hired quarters. The latter are not only unfit for school purposes and a handicap to the children placed in them, but they cost in rentals about $25,000 a year, an amount which, capitalized, more than equals this appropriation, and which can be greatly reduced if the appropriation is made.

Summary.

In brief, eliminating all question of future growth, eliminating all question of the desirability of replacing any building, eliminating all question of reduction of the number of pupils per class, the fact remains, and must be faced, that all of this appropriation is required to remedy the indisputable conditions of improper housing of school children which now actually exists.

The Improper Housing Not an Episode.

Your Honor states that the pupils in portable buildings and rented quarters are all young children. There are in fact children of all grades, including 600 high school pupils in such places. Your Honor states that being housed under such conditions constitutes but an episode in the child's school life. Such an episode, however, even if it were always confined to a single year, would be in the opinion of this Committee a serious one. It means the passing under unfavorable conditions of one of those precious years, upon the most advantageous use of which the child's whole future depends. Such an episode is too important to be slighted when we consider that the health, as well as the successful education, of the child is involved.

Overcrowded Rooms.

There are many instances in which the number of children in a room is not 44 nor 48, but 50, or even 60. Such conditions represent not only overcrowding, but the placing under one teacher of a class so large as to make it impossible that each child shall receive the attention to which he is entitled, and which is necessary to his successful education.

Your Honor's Figures.

Upon this matter of overcrowding, Your Honor has presented certain figures in regard to unoccupied desks in school buildings.

It is not clear whether, in arriving at the number of unoccupied desks, Your Honor has intended to include all the pupils belonging to the school on a given day, or whether, on the other hand, you have included only those pupils who happened to be present on a given day, and have counted as unoccupied the desks of pupils who then happened to be absent.

If the former is the basis of your figures, Your Honor has been grossly misinformed as to the facts. Take, for instance, the Wait School, the first one on your list. Your Honor has given the proportion of vacancy as 43 p.c. The total number of seats in that school is 400. The number of pupils belonging to the school on October 1 was 390, leaving a vacancy of 10 seats or of 2½ p.c. The number of pupils belonging to the school on Monday, April 25, which would probably show as low a membership as the school has had this year, was 369, leaving a vacancy of 31 seats or of 7½ p.c.

The School Committee has canvassed the other eight schools in which Your Honor has named the percentage of vacant seats, and finds that in no case does your percentage correspond, even approximately, with the actual number of vacant seats based on the number of pupils belonging.

If, on the other hand, Your Honor has intended to include all the desks unoccupied on a given date, such a figure is worthless as an indication of the number of desks actually needed in any school.

In the first place an average of about 8 p.c. of the children in the elementary schools are absent on any given day, from sickness and other causes. The desk of a child who is temporarily absent is not available for any other child. Seats in a school-room must be provided for all the children who belong; their number cannot be shrunk or expanded each day, according to the number that happen to be present.

Again, unoccupied space in a room used by one grade cannot be made available for other grades. Partitions in our school buildings not being movable, it is impossible to transfer, for instance, to an exceptionally large fourth grade the unused part of a room occupied by a seventh grade which happens to be unusually small, a condition illustrated in the Wells School, in the case of the seventh and fourth grades, and in the Roger Clap School, in the case of the first and fourth grades, both of them being instances cited by Your Honor.

Many vacant seats are in basements and corridors or other unfit places. For instance, the 25 per cent of vacant seats reported by Your Honor in the Mather School, presumably included one room in the basement which the School Committee has fortunately been able to vacate.

Again, many unoccupied desks are in rooms containing 56 seats, in which the number of pupils has been reduced to 45 or 50. The utilization of this space would represent not economy, but waste, if we regard the education, rather than the mere housing, of the children as the object to be attained. The Mather School is one of the instances cited by Your Honor in which this condition obtains.

Finally, the total number of vacant seats has in any case little bearing on the question of overcrowding. A child in East Boston, for example, cannot utilize an unoccupied desk in Dorchester, or even in a distant part of East Boston itself—as in the case of the Bishop Cheverus School, cited by Your Honor—without involving an expense in transportation which would be greater than his share of the cost of a new school building in the district in which he lives.

Save the Present Pupils.

The existing overcrowding in the schools is not a matter of theory or of estimate, but a fact. It is a matter upon which the School Committee has spent much thought and as to which it believes itself to be fairly accurately informed. It represents a very serious situation now existing.

The remedy for this condition should be immediate. Your Honor asks whether the city can afford to build these buildings now. So far as the children now in the schools are concerned, the remedy must be applied now if it is to have the desired effect. If adopted some years hence, it will be too late; the loss to them, and to the city through their impaired health, or want of proper schooling, will be irreparable.

Mayors Not School Committees Responsible for Expensive Buildings.

Your Honor has alluded to the heavy expenditures for school buildings which, with this appropriation, will be made this year. It is true that the expenditure is heavy, namely, $1,329,557 in all. But of this amount $300,000 is for the High School of Commerce, the erection of which will not affect the overcrowding in the elementary schools, and the cost of which will be in great part covered by the sale of the Mason-street and Winthrop School sites. You allude also to the expenditure of $848,319 for interest and sinking fund. This last is a burden which would not now rest upon the tax payers if the policy of pay as you go, which the School Committee has now adopted, but which Your Honor opposes, had been applied in past years.

It may well be questioned, moreover, whether, if the money raised for school buildings in past years had been economically expended, the present appropriation would be necessary. We would respectfully point out, however, that the money has been spent by the Schoolhouse Commission, controlled under past administrations, as it is now, not by the School Committee, but by the Mayor. The responsibility for any extravagance that may have existed is not therefore with the School Committee.

But whatever the extravagance may have been, and wherever responsibility for it may properly be laid, its effects, at all events, should not be visited on the children.

Health of the School Children Paramount.

As to the wisdom of a parsimonious policy where the health of the school children is involved, as compared with other kinds of economy that might be exercised, the School Committee is convinced that economies in other departments are to be preferred. Your Honor suggests that the School Committee wait until the Finance Commission can investigate this question. But the question is one upon which the Finance Commission could not intelligently pass without making an investigation not only of the School Committee, but of all the other departments of the City Government in order to judge intelligently between them as to where restriction could be most wisely made. Such an investigation would necessarily occupy more than an entire year, as was shown in the case of the previous Finance Commission, and would seem to be unnecessary while so many economies recommended by the former Finance Commission remain to be adopted. It seems clear, without waiting for a second investigation, that it would be more economical to eliminate some of those expenses which the previous investigation has shown to yield little or no return to the citizens, rather than to omit an expenditure necessary to the health and well-being of the children in the public schools.

Conclusion.

The School Committee knows that severe overcrowding exists in the public schools to an extent calling for a much larger appropriation than that which Your Honor has vetoed. The School Committee believes that the best way to raise the money to remedy this condition is by appropriation and not by borrowing. The appropriating of the money out of the tax levy will not necessarily result in an increase of 40 cents in the tax rate if Your Honor should decide to adopt some of the economies recommended by the former Finance Commission. The School Committee believes that such economies as it is thus within Your Honor's power to make without impairing any service that the city now renders to the citizens are to be preferred to a saving of money at the expense of the well-being of the children in the public schools.

The School Committee has in this matter of the existing improper housing of the school children the legal right, and therefore the responsibility, of applying the remedy, so far as the present appropriation will permit. This is a responsibility which it can neither ignore nor delegate. The entire burden of this responsibility the School Committee cheerfully accepts. Therefore, with great regret at having to disagree with Your Honor upon this question, the School Committee has again, by unanimous action, voted the appropriation of 40 cents in the tax levy which it is by law authorized to make.

TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT OF ACHILLE FORTE.

STANDARDIZATION OF EDUCATIONAL ACCOUNTS.

Auditors of boards of education all over the United States soon will organize for the standardizing of public school accounts. The general diversity in the educational accounting systems of the country makes it impossible accurately to compare, for purposes of economy, the receipts and expenditures of various schools. Realizing, with others, the need for united effort on the part of auditors of school departments in cities to establish a uniform system of accounting, the writer has taken the initiative in a movement to organize a National Association of Educational Auditors.

It is encouraging at the outset to have the support of the highest educational officer in the land. The United States Commissioner of Education has entered heartily into the plans of the association, and he has suggested that the initial meeting be held in Washington, where, at its inception, the organization can receive the direct assistance of the Bureau of Education and the Census Office.

Mr. Henry R. M. Cook, Auditor of the Board of Education of New York City, and the recognized head of the school auditing profession in the United States, has given his unqualified support to the new organization and will assist in its formation. School auditors of Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and other large cities also are in accord with its plans.

The Association will endeavor to do for boards of education what the Association of Railroad Accountants has done for the railroads of the country in the standardizing of their accounts. In this branch of business so much had been accomplished by organizations of accountants, that the Interstate Commerce Commission, when it took up statistical railroad accounting, made but little improvement in the system except to enlarge upon the capital and primary accounts.

A city board of education alike handling vast sums, and with the added responsibility of public trust, encounters difficulties in its accounting system when seeking ways and means of economy. A board may find that in one of its elementary schools the average expense per pupil for a given time is $1.50, while in another city, in a school of the same size and kind, it is 75 cents. The difference between the averages can be found, but the reason for it can not be discovered because the systems of accounting in the departments are unlike. A point of dissimilarity may be in the segregation of expenses. In one system of accounting all salary and wage expense may be consolidated, with no distinction between kinds of service, whether officers', janitors' other employes' or teachers', and with no division of teachers' services into high school, elementary or special; while in another system the salary expense account may be divided, and subdivided.

Lack of uniformity of practice in school accounting systems not only hampers, but subjects to criticism the work of those most responsible for results.—The American City.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LOAN BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 2, 1910.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Upon the conclusion of the series of district meetings held by your honorable body in conjunction with myself during February I submitted to various departments of the city government a brief synopsis of the suggestions made by the organizations and individual citizens at those gatherings, requesting in each case a report upon the cost, feasibility and importance of the proposed improvements. With one or two exceptions the heads of departments have replied to these requests. I beg now to submit their replies, together with the original suggestions, arranged by districts and departments, to your honorable body for consideration. I believe this material affords an excellent insight into the needs and expectations of the people in different parts of the city, checked as it is by the more critical views of the department heads as to the practicability of their demands.

It is my intention to call a meeting in the old Aldermanic Chamber for Tuesday, May 10, at eight o'clock, and to invite the representatives of the local improvement associations and other public bodies. I respectfully request that the members of your honorable body attend this session, at which the loan bill for the current year will be discussed on the basis of the suggested improvements and the departmental reports herewith submitted.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

STREET LIGHTING.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,

Boston, May 2, 1910.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission respectfully calls the attention of the Mayor and City Council to certain facts in the street lighting situation.

The Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, which for twenty-two years has had contracts with the city for street lighting, or furnishing lighting equipment, is now providing gas, lamps, mantles, etc., for about 12,000 street lights, at the rate of $23.60 per lamp per year. The contract which terminated on September 15, 1909, has twice been extended, the first time to January 31, 1910, the second to July 31, 1910. The latter extension was made in order to allow the city sufficient time to procure bids for a long term contract at lower prices than those now obtained. One-half of this extended time has already elapsed, but the city is no nearer equitable terms than it was in the beginning. Bids were solicited on March 19, 1910, but only one bid was received, namely, that of the Rising Sun Company at the old rate of $23.60 a year. Last year there were two bids and three the year before, but, for some reason unknown to the commission, competition seems to have entirely disappeared in the present year.

The Superintendent of Streets has not awarded the contract on this bid of $23.60, and the commission believes it should not be awarded as this price for a lamp with an upright burner, such as is furnished by the company, is excessive; and therefore the commission recommends that the Mayor and City Council take steps immediately to prevent the city from being compelled to renew the contract with the company at the present rate. The willingness or unwillingness of the company to reduce its price should be ascertained at once. The negotiations should not be permitted to drift so as to leave the city near the time of the expiration of the existing contract without effective means of securing better terms than those now offered. Unless the position of the company is made known at once the city will be at a disadvantage in making a bargain, as the company owns the lanterns and can if it chooses deny their use to the city after July 31, 1910, when the existing contract expires. If the company takes this course some parts of the city may be left in darkness until new lanterns are substituted for those now in use.

If the Rising Sun Company is willing to reduce its price substantially, and also to have a provision in the contract for still further reduction in the event of the city deciding to use automatic lighting and extinguishing devices, a contract on such terms should be made; but if the company is unwilling to make these concessions, the city should seek protection by other means. The Boston Consolidated Gas Company should be requested to furnish the service on the terms stated in its letter to the Superintendent of Streets, namely, at the rate of $20.51 per lamp per year.

The letter is as follows:

July 23, 1909.

Guy C. Emerson, Esq.,
Superintendent of Streets,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—I desire to inform you that our company is willing to guarantee the city that the cost of street lighting with gas on a five-year contract, beginning February 1, 1910, shall not exceed $20.51 per lamp provided the city furnish the lamps and equipment. If a contractor cannot be secured to execute the contract at this price, or less, we will undertake the work ourselves.

Yours very truly,

E. N. WRIGHTINGTON,
Second Vice President,
Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

If this contract is made with the gas company, and the city furnishes the lamps and equipment mentioned in the above letter, the cost, assuming the life of the lamp to be fifteen years, will be considerably below $23.60, the prices now offered by the Rising Sun Company. The Superintendent of Streets, in a letter to the Mayor, dated February 7, 1910, estimated that the gross cost of lighting with gas under such a contract would be $22.01 for a lamp with an inverted burner, and $21.33 for one with an upright burner. The annual saving to the city will be about $19,000 if the inverted burner is used, and about $27,000 if the upright burner is used. Thus, under a five-year contract, the city will save from $95,000 to $135,000.

The city has another resource which can be availed of if favorable terms cannot be obtained either from the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company or the gas company. It can extend the existing contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company so as to provide for the installation of tungsten lamps, which, under its contract, can be obtained at the rate of $22.31 per lamp per year. There are two objections, however, to the substitution of electric lamps for the entire 12,000 gas lamps. Serious consequences might result from giving the Edison Company, which now has a large street lighting contract, a practical monopoly of the city's business. There is also danger that storms would extinguish the electric lights in those parts of the city which are served by overhead wires. The contract with the Edison Company could, however, be safely extended so as to provide 5,000 electric lamps which could be served by underground wires, thus avoiding the danger from storms. In this event 7,000 gas lamps would be retained, and to this extent monopoly by the electric light company would be prevented. If the electric lighting contract is thus extended the city should begin at once to install its own gas lighting equipment for the 7,000 lamps, so as to be independent of the Rising Sun Company and similar companies at the earliest possible moment.

The commission recommends:

1. That the bid of $23.60 of the Rising Sun Company be rejected.
2. That an appropriation of $175,000 to provide the necessary equipment for 12,000 lamps be made.
3. That the city avail itself of the offer of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, contained in its letter of July 23, 1909, unless the Rising Sun Company makes a substantial reduction in its price.

4. That in the event of failure to procure favorable terms from either the Rising Sun Company or the Consolidated Gas Company, the city extend the contract with the Edison Company so as to provide for 5,000 tungsten lamps in parts of the city served by underground wires.

5. That any contract for gas lighting should contain a provision for a reduction in price in the event of the city deciding to use automatic lighting and extinguishing devices.

Respectfully submitted,

by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PROBATION OFFICER, CHARLESTOWN COURT.

Municipal Court of the Charlestown District, April 26, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Commission on Probation having certified, in accordance with section 1 of chapter 637 of the Acts of 1908, that the appointment of a probation officer for wayward and delinquent children is necessary in this court, Henry W. Bragg, Esquire, Justice of this court, has this day appointed such probation officer, and has directed me to advise you and the City Council that he has fixed the salary of such officer at twelve hundred dollars a year, and that he submits such action in regard to salary for your approval, as County Commissioners, in accordance with the provisions of the act above cited.

Very respectfully,

MARK E. SMITH, Clerk.
Referred to Committee on County Accounts.

BUREAU OF MUNICIPAL RESEARCH.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
Boston, April 26, 1910.
To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission is in receipt of the order of your honorable body, dated April 25, 1910, which is as follows:

Ordered, That the Finance Commission be requested to organize a bureau of municipal research.

The commission assumes that the object of the request is to increase the scope of its work, thereby enabling it to furnish the City Council information respecting the administration of the city government. The request does not seem to contemplate any change in the powers of the commission, but evidently was intended to leave the commission entirely free to exercise its statutory powers in the manner which seems to it best adapted to secure the objects for which these powers were given.

The commission will be pleased to comply with the request, and will take steps at once to establish the bureau.

Respectfully yours,

by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

ESTABLISHMENT OF ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 30, 1910.
To the Honorable the City Council,
City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen,—I am asked by your body for my opinion with respect to the right of the City of Boston to establish zoological gardens and aquariums and to maintain the same out of the income of the Parkman will and under its provisions.

In reply I would say that Mr. Parkman left this money to the City of Boston as trustee, the income to be expended by the city in the improvement and maintenance of the Common and public parks existing at the time of the making of the codicil to his will, in which this bequest was made. I think that a zoological garden or an aquarium would be an improvement within the meaning of the will, and that such improvements could be made out of the income of the fund, provided the zoo or aquarium was a part of a park existing at the date of the codicil.

Yours truly,

THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Placed on file.

VIOLATION OF CHARTER AMENDMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston, Law Department,
73 Tremont Street, April 30, 1910.
To the Honorable the City Council,
City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen,—I am asked for my opinion upon the following cases:

1. A member of the City Council requests a head of a department to reinstate an employee of that department who has been suspended. Is the member of the Council liable to fine or imprisonment under section 8 of the new city charter?

2. A member of the City Council asks the heads of two departments to consent to the transfer of an employee in one department to the other department. Is the member of the Council liable to fine or imprisonment under section 8 of the new city charter?

3. A man is seeking employment in a city department. He is on the civil service list, and he asks for a recommendation from a member of the Council to the head of the department. The member of the Council writes a recommendation addressed "To all whom it may concern," and then gives the recommendation to the applicant. Is the member of the Council liable to fine or imprisonment under section 8?

4. If a member of the Council requests the head of the Street Department to transfer an employee from one division to another division of the Street Department, is the member of the Council subject to fine or imprisonment under section 8?

5. A member of the Council asks the head of the Street Department to give a certain set of employees a half holiday on Saturday. Is the member subject to fine or imprisonment under section 8?

6. The City Council passes unanimously an order requesting the head of the Park Department to put all its employees on full time. Is each member of the City Council subject to fine or imprisonment under section 8 of the new city charter?

7. In each of the above supposed cases, the member of the City Council sees the Mayor instead of the head of the department. Does that in any way alter his liability, if any?

8. In each of the above supposed cases, the member of the Council sends a friend to interview the head of the department or the Mayor instead of going himself. Does that in any way alter his liability, if any?

9. In each of the above supposed cases, the member of the Council tells the employee asking the favor, that in case the head of the department communicates with the member of the Council, he will give him the requested information. Does that in any way alter his liability, if any?

10. Just what, in the opinion of the Corporation Counsel, does said section 8 mean?

I do not know exactly what your honorable body meant to ask me, but suppose that it was intended to ask me as to whether the different things enumerated would be a violation of the provisions of section 8 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, being the charter amendments, so-called.

Said section provides, among other things, that neither the City Council nor any member or committee thereof shall, except as otherwise provided in this act, directly or indirectly, take part in the employment of labor or in the conduct of the executive or administrative business of the City of Boston, nor in the appointment or removal of any municipal or county employee.

In my opinion a member of the City Council who did any of the things mentioned in the first five cases, so-called, would violate the provisions of this section.

In my opinion if the City Council passed such an order as is mentioned in the sixth supposed case it would be violating the provisions of section 8.

In reply to the seventh supposition I would say that I think that the member of the City Council who asked the Mayor instead of the head of the department to employ or keep a man, would violate the provisions of section 8.

I make the same answer to question 8. I do not think that such action of the member of the Council as is specified in supposed case 9 would be a violation of the letter of the statute, although it would be of the spirit.

In reply to the tenth question I would say that section 8 seems to me quite clear and I cannot state its meaning any plainer than the section itself. If any question relating to the discharge of the official duties of your honorable body, or of any of your committees, arises under this statute I will give my opinion to your body or to any committee thereof as required by the ordinance.

This opinion is upon the law as it exists at the present time. I am informed that there is a bill before the Legislature which only awaits final enactment which gives to your body the power of discharging or suspending laborers and other employees of the city who are veterans. There may be other acts before the Legislature which may modify the sweeping provisions of section 8.

Yours truly,

THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ACTION ON APPOINTMENTS.

The President called up No. 1, unfinished business, viz.:

1. Action on appointments, submitted by the Mayor April 25, of constables for the term ending April 30, 1911, as contained in Document 71.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if in order I would most respectfully move that this matter be referred to the Executive Committee. I would state that it has been called to my attention that one of these candidates for the position of constable, not connected with an official position, is a resident of and taxpayer in Somerville. I called that matter to the attention of the Mayor's clerk, Mr. Butler, who informed me that he was unaware of that fact when the name was sent in. I wish this referred to the Executive Committee, so that it may be possible to consider the matter there, and then we can perhaps act upon all of them with the exception of that individual.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, May 2, 1910.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Commission respectfully calls the attention of the Mayor and City Council to certain facts in the street lighting situation.

The Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, which for twenty-two years has had contracts with the city for street lighting, or furnishing lighting equipment, is now providing gas, lamps, mantles, etc., for about 12,000 street lights, at the rate of $23.60 per lamp per year. The contract which terminated on September 15, 1909, has twice been extended, the first time to January 31, 1910, the second, to July 31, 1910. The latter extension was made in order to allow the city sufficient time to procure bids for a long term contract at lower prices than those now obtained. One-half of this extended time has already elapsed, but the city is no nearer equitable terms than it was in the beginning. Bids were solicited on March 19, 1910, but only one bid was received, namely that of the Rising Sun Company at the old rate of $23.60 a year. Last year there were two bids and three the year before, but, for some reason unknown to the commission, competition seems to have entirely disappeared in the present year.

The Superintendent of Streets has not awarded the contract on this bid of $23.60, and the commission believes it should not be awarded at this price for a lamp with an upright burner—such as is furnished by the company—is excessive, and therefore the commission recommends that the Mayor and City Council take steps immediately to prevent the city from being compelled to renew the contract with the company at the present rate. The willingness or unwillingness of the company to reduce its price should be ascertained at once. The negotiations should not be permitted to drift so as to leave the city near the time of the expiration of the existing contract without effective means of securing better terms than those now offered. Unless the position of the company is made known at once the city will be at a disadvantage in making a bargain, as the company owns the lanterns and can if it chooses deny their use to the city after July 31, 1910, when the existing contract expires. If the company takes this course some parts of the city may be left in darkness until new lanterns are substituted for those now in use.

If the Rising Sun Company is willing to reduce its price substantially, and also to have a provision in the contract for still further reduction in the event of the city deciding to use automatic lighting and extinguishing devices, a contract on such terms should be made, but, if the company is unwilling to make these concessions, the city should seek protection by other means. The Boston Consolidated Gas Company should be requested to furnish the service on the terms stated in its letter to the Superintendent of Streets, namely, at the rate of $20.51 per lamp per year. The letter is as follows:

July 23, 1909.

GUY C. EMERSON,
Superintendent of Streets,
Boston, Mass.:

DEAR SIR,—I desire to inform you that our company is willing to guarantee the city that the cost of street lighting with gas on a five-year contract, beginning February 1, 1910, shall not exceed $20.51 per lamp provided the city furnish the lamps and equipment. If a contractor cannot be secured to execute the contract at this price, or less, we will undertake the work ourselves.

Yours very truly,
E. N. WRIGHTINGTON,
Second Vice-President,
Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

If this contract is made with the gas company, and the city furnishes the lamps and equipment mentioned in the above letter, the cost, assuming the life of the lamp to be fifteen years, will be considerably below $23.60, the price now offered by the Rising Sun Company. The Superintendent of Streets in a letter to the Mayor, dated February 7, 1910, estimated that the gross cost of lighting with gas under such a contract would be $22.01 for a lamp with an inverted burner, and $21.33 for one with an upright burner. The annual saving to the city will be about $19,000 if the inverted burner is used, and about $27,000 if the upright burner is used. Thus, under a five-year contract, the city will save from $95,000 to $135,000.

The city has another resource which can be availed of if favorable terms cannot be obtained either from the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company or the gas company. It can extend the existing contract with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company so as to provide for the installation of tungsten lamps which, under its contract, can be obtained at the rate of $22.31 per lamp per year. There are two objections, however, to the substitution of electric lamps for the entire 12,000 gas lamps. Serious consequences might result from giving the Edison Company, which now has a large street lighting contract, a practical monopoly of the city's business. There is also danger that storms would extinguish the electric lights in those parts of the city which are served by overhead wires. The contract with the Edison Company could, however, be safely extended so as to provide 5,000 electric lamps which could be served by underground wires, thus avoiding the danger from storms. In this event 7,000 gas lamps would be retained, and to this extent monopoly by the electric light company would be prevented. If the electric lighting contract is thus extended the city should begin at once to install its own gas lighting equipment for the 7,000 lamps, so as to be independent of the Rising Sun Company and similar companies at the earliest possible moment.

The commission recommends:

1. That the bid of $23.60 of the Rising Sun Company be rejected.
2. That an appropriation of $175,000 to provide the necessary equipment for 12,000 lamps be made.
3. That the city avail itself of the offer of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, contained in its letter of July 23, 1909, unless the Rising Sun Company makes a substantial reduction in its price.
4. That in the event of failure to procure favorable terms from either the Rising Sun Company or the Consolidated Gas Company, the city extend the contract with the Edison Company so as to provide for 5,000 tungsten lamps in parts of the city served by underground wires.
5. That any contract for gas lighting should contain a provision for a reduction in price in the event of the city deciding to use automatic lighting and extinguishing devices.

Respectfully submitted,

by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

EMPLOYEES AND COST OF FIRE DEPARTMENTS.

The accompanying table shows the relative strength in number of firemen, together with salaries paid to officers, etc., in the fifteen largest cities in the United States. It will be seen that Boston maintains a larger number of Fire Department employees than any city in the country, with the exception of New York. Although Philadelphia has an area three times as great as Boston, and a population more than double, her fire department numbers but fifty-four more regular firemen. St. Louis, although considerably greater in area and population, maintains a department numbering 186 less regular firemen than in Boston.

The column showing the number of regular firemen per 10,000 inhabitants, per 1,000 acres of land area, and per 100 miles of paved streets affords an excellent opportunity for a comparison of the relative strength of the departments in the different cities. Measured by the number of regular firemen to each 1,000 acres of land area, Boston maintains a department double the size of the average for the entire fifteen cities; while the figures per 10,000 inhabitants show the Boston Fire Department to exceed that of New York by 50 per cent, practically equal, on this basis, to the combined departments of Chicago and Philadelphia, and two and a third times that of St. Louis.

As regards number of firemen to each 100 miles of improved streets, while Boston is surpassed by New York and San Francisco, it should be borne in mind, when making a comparison on this basis, that in New York there are 1,250 miles of unimproved streets, in Chicago 2,675 miles, in Philadelphia 472 miles, in St. Louis 530 miles, in San Francisco 501 miles; in short, among the fifteen cities there are 7,850 miles of unimproved streets to be considered as against but five miles in Boston. These figures give emphasis to the statement that Boston, by reason of her peculiar position as the center of the metropolitan district, must support a fire department disproportionate as to size and cost to that actually required for the protection of the lives and property of bona fide residents of the city.

The per capita cost of providing fire protection in the ten leading cities in the list during 1907 was as follows: New York, $1.88; Chicago, $1.42; Philadelphia, $0.94; St. Louis, $1.67; Boston, $2.49; Maryland, $1.27; Pittsburg, $1.64; Cleveland, $1.55;

Buffalo, $2.21; Detroit, $2.03. It appears from the foregoing that Boston paid, by far the highest per capita cost in the group; greater, in fact, than the combined cost per capita in Chicago and Philadelphia. It may be interesting to note that neither Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore nor Detroit paid anything for water service; while New York paid $78,024, and Buffalo $73,832.

The following figures, based on computations recently made by the United States Geological Survey, show an astonishingly low per capita cost for fire protection among European cities; Berlin, 26 cents; London, 19 cents; St. Petersburg, 22 cents; Paris, 21 cents; Milan, 17 cents; Stockholm, 23 cents. A comparison with the per capita costs in American cities as given above might be misleading, and give rise to the impression that the service in this country was, as a general thing, extravagantly conducted. The high cost of lumber in Europe and its cheapness in America, as compared with the brick and stone construction of European buildings, and more general use as building material, accounts for a great part of the difference. In addition, consideration should be given to the stricter building regulations abroad, more nearly fire-proof buildings, and greater precautions taken to prevent the occurrence of fires.

A QUESTION OF ECONOMY.

A new courthouse site in New York City has been under consideration for about seven years. The courthouse board has recently repeated a former recommendation that the site of the present structures, in City Hall Park, be used. The new building, however, would be much higher than the present ones and occupy more ground. The discussion of the report in the press has brought out the various factors which need consideration in intelligent city planning. The board contends that the park is no longer used for recreation, and that encroachment on the space is, therefore, not a serious matter. It estimates that the project would cost $10,000,000 if the present site is used, and $25,000,000 or more if a site must be purchased. This is considered a very desirable saving by many, but the opponents contend that money should not be an object when the sacrifice of existing park space is at stake, and when the saving would result in preventing the development of a civic center suited to the dignity of the city. The conclusion, when it is reached, should be of interest to all who have followed the growth of the movement for better city planning, since similar problems will undoubtedly require solution before long in many of our large cities.—Engineering Record.

TURNING THE TABLES.

There are various ways of avoiding grade crossings over railroads. One is sinking the track, another is elevating it. But a railway at Fort Worth sought to solve the difficulty by refusing to allow the authorities to build a street across the company's right of way. The city thought best to be in possession before its rights should be contested in court, so a small army of men and teams went to work after nightfall and by midnight had all the interfering fences removed, and a good practicable gravel road built over the five tracks of the railway. This kind of thing has often been done by the railroads, but it seems quite like anarchy when a city ventures to do it.

VACANT LOT GARDENS.

In Chicago, Kansas City, Philadelphia and many other Eastern cities, the allotment of vacant ground within the city to those who wish to grow gardens is systematically carried on. In Philadelphia there are 450 families now raising vegetables in this way. A charge is made of $1 a lot to pay small expenses.

LESSON FROM EUROPE IN MUNICIPAL ENTERPRISE.

The municipal enterprise of many German cities is something that ought to be investigated and recorded in some form which will attract the attention of thoughtful Americans. It is commonly believed that the only way in which a city can show business enterprise is by operating public service utilities, but there are many examples of something far more important afforded by the conduct of German civic affairs. Take the way in which Mannheim has retained its prosperity. It is 160 miles above Cologne, and is the highest Rhine port to which large boats can ascend from Rotterdam when fully loaded. For a long time it was a transportation rather than industrial center on this account. When it became apparent that the deepening of the Rhine to Basel and the construction of the Rhine Main canal were likely to occur before long, the authorities recognized that the continuation of the prosperity of the city depended upon a development of industries to counterbalance the probable future losses in shipping business. Fifteen years ago, therefore, the city bought 350 acres of marsh on the river front, filled it in, built quays and docks and provided railroad spurs, thus making exceptionally good factory sites. The work cost about $17 per capita before it was finished, but it has built up the town industrially at such a rate that the population increased 41 per cent in ten years. The money invested has all been repaid, with interest, but this feature of the undertaking is really less significant than the shrewd business sense evinced in the whole proceeding. The future of the city was investigated, the means of overcoming probable declines in existing activities were examined, and a plan of action was developed and followed under adequate technical advice and business sagacity, just as if the city were a wise private corporation. Instances such as these are so numerous in Germany, and point to such a high order of administrative ability and sagacity, that it is a pity we do not hear more of them. They reveal a side of municipal enterprise that is too generally considered to lie entirely within the province of boards of trade and similar unofficial bodies.

MILWAUKEE'S NEW MAYOR PLANS FREE PLUMBING FOR THE CITY'S POOR.

A city plumbing department which shall be devoted especially to placing plumbing and sanitary improvements at cost in the homes of the poor in Milwaukee, is one of the first fruits of the new social democratic administration. Mr. Seidel is also searching the country for a health commissioner for Milwaukee a man of ability, willing to take the job with a salary of $6,000 a year and who will devote his time exclusively to the office.—Domestic Engineering.

MUNICIPAL MOVING PICTURE SHOWS.

Chief of Police Steward of Chicago is advocating the establishment of municipal cheap theatres or moving-picture shows. He says the educational value of these is enormous, and that under private enterprise they are largely demoralizing in spite of all the police can do. He thinks the booths should be constructed of corrugated iron, so they can be moved about from place to place, and that only such a charge be made for admission as will just pay expenses. Young children should perhaps be admitted free.

POST CARD REFERENDUM.

The Chicago Board of Local Improvements has adopted a new plan for getting the views of the property owners in a district where some change or improvement is contemplated. They send out a set of return postals, and go by the result. This plan was adopted after the Board found itself involved in difficulty in deciding whether to reduce the roadway of Wabash avenue from 50 feet to 32 feet. Many of the residents desired it, but others objected. There is no provision under the law for an official vote, but this arrangement gives an unofficial referendum.

(6) Report on message of the Mayor, order and report of Committee on Public Lands (referred May 2), that the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, subject to the approval of the Mayor, to sell at public auction land at 492 and 494 Chelsea street, East Boston—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted, the order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, we have gone into this matter at a previous hearing, but in order that it may be a part of the record I want to read to you, sir, and through you to the members of the Council, a letter addressed to me as chairman of the Committee on Public Lands, from Guy C. Emerson, Superintendent of Streets.

In answer to your verbal answer regarding the advisability of disposing of certain lots of land in the custody of this department, I beg leave to report as follows: The East Boston lot on Chelsea street I have already recommended to a previous City Council for disposal. This land was originally purchased for a city yard; but as the city yard in East Boston should have dock facilities and the lot in question cannot be adapted to the needs of water transportation without a large amount of expensive filling, in my opinion, it will be better for the city to continue hiring a yard than to attempt to utilize the Chelsea street property. I therefore recommend the sale, but at a price not less than $20,000."

Last year or the year before the then Mayor of Boston submitted this question to the Finance Commission, and as a result of its investigation said commission reported that it could see no reason why the city should not dispose of this land, but had nothing to say as to the price. As will be seen by the report of the Committee on Public Lands, an upset price of $20,000 has been placed upon it, and there is also an amendment to the effect that the money received shall be devoted to the sinking fund for the liquidation of the city's debt.

The order was read once and passed, yeas 6, nays 0.

(7) The reports on petitions (severally referred to-day) for sidewalks—recommending the passage of orders that the Superintendent of Streets make sidewalks along the following-named streets in front of the hereinafter named estates, said sidewalks to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width and to be built as hereinafter specified, the owners to furnish said material, viz.:

REFORM OF WASHINGTON SLUMS.

The report on bad housing conditions in the nation's capital showed that 2,000 white people and 17,000 negroes were living in alleys in tumble-down, unsanitary buildings. It developed that the rent these people were paying would provide ample dividends on an investment that would build structures suitable for human habitation. The effort to get Congress to act by condemning these regions as plague spots failed. That was too radical and revolutionary. So a private organization with a minister at its head is trying to get subscriptions to "do work among these slum people" and to assist them in leading better lives. In the meantime these rotten holes are breeders of crime and disease.

OLD MEN IN CHICAGO POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Chicago's new chief of police finds that there are 370 men on the force who are over 50 years of age and many of these are very old and decrepit. He proposes that a special physical examination be given all such and that those unable to pass be retired on pension.

FIRE DEPARTMENT EQUIPMENT.

EQUIPMENT FOR FIRE PURPOSES MAINTAINED BY THE LARGEST AMERICAN CITIES DURING 1907.

In connection with the table published in the City Record last week showing the relative strength in firemen of the various departments, it will be seen that Boston maintains a department greater in number of men, while her fire equipment exceeds, in many particulars, that maintained by other cities in the group.

Thus Boston maintains more first-class fire engines than either Philadelphia or St. Louis; this character of equipment is naturally the most important part. As presented in the accompanying table these engines are classified by size, the first size including those having a capacity of 800 to 1,200 gallons per minute, the second averaging 700 gallons, and the third those averaging 500 to 600 gallons.

The departments in Philadelphia and St. Louis include a large number of combination chemical engines and hose wagons, while the Boston department includes combination equipment of ladder truck and chemical engine, hose being carried on separate reels or wagons. In the matter of ladders it is notable that, although Boston maintains fewer ladder trucks than six cities in the list, in length of ladders she is excelled, only by New York and Chicago, her trucks carrying a length of ladders equal to that of Philadelphia and St. Louis combined. New York alone exceeds Boston in number of wagons; Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis together have but nine more; in number of horses used in the department Boston exceeds Philadelphia and St. Louis.

The large number of private fire alarm boxes reported by Chicago include 11,500 private signal boxes in use at the stockyards.

New York and Pittsburg depend, in part, on privately owned water supply, while the supply of San Francisco and New Orleans was entirely under private control in 1907, the year reported. Separate fire mains, to supplement the regular water service, are in operation in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit and Milwaukee; while New York and Philadelphia maintain, in addition, separate pumping engines for the fire service. The report of the Bureau of the Census gives forty pounds to the square inch at the hydrant as the water pressure of Boston, with New York 15 to 60 pounds; Chicago, 25 to 40; Philadelphia, 100 to 300; St. Louis, 30 to 80; Baltimore, 20 to 110; Pittsburg, 20 to 220; Cleveland, 35; Buffalo, 40; San Francisco, 55, and Detroit, 12 to 60. The water pressure at hydrants is based upon the pressure in the general business district. The high pressure system in operation in Philadelphia accounts, in part, for the great difference in water pressure reported for that city as compared with that of other cities in the list. High pressure systems are becoming recognized as an absolute necessity in the fire department service of our great modern cities. In many instances the available water service has been found insufficient to afford adequate protection, unless supplemented by facilities for directing a number of powerful streams upon a fire; while many of the engines are not of sufficient power to elevate streams upon the high buildings now common to the business section of all large cities.

PRIVATE WATER SUPPLY.

The city of Chester, West Virginia, gets its water from a private corporation. For some time a fight had been in progress between this company and the citizens, and things had come to an acute stage, when a fire broke out in a livery stable not far from the business center. There was a stiff breeze blowing in the right direction to do a great deal of damage. The Fire Department turned out, but found the hydrants dry. The water company had shut off the water. For several hours the firemen stood and watched the fire, until property valued at $125,000 had been destroyed. Then, when it was evident that most of the city would burn up, the people made a charge on the water plant and compelled the employees under threat of violence to turn the water on. Nine residences were burned, two bakeries, one clothing store, a five-story brick building and the stable where the fire originated. It is a safe guess that the people of Chester are now all for municipal ownership. The people of Independence,

Kansas, are in a row with their private water company over the question of paying rent for meters, and the city attorney advises the citizens that they need not pay the charge.

ELECTION SOAP.

The Mayor of Kenosha, running for re-election on a platform of a "cleaner city," gave away 5,000 cakes of toilet soap as campaign cards, each bearing his name and portrait. He was re-elected.

The only cities of the over-100,000 class in the United States that do not own and operate their water plants are San Francisco, Denver and Indianapolis. Public sentiment in the first of these three is overwhelmingly in favor of public ownership, and it will probably be accomplished before long.—Pacific Outlook.

DUST ON VEGETABLES.

Omaha is having a crusade for cleanliness and better health. Among other things the barber shops are being thoroughly overhauled and put under proper regulation, and grocers and others are forbidden to expose vegetables and fruits on the sidewalk or where they may receive the dust of the street and other forms of contamination.

The Supreme Court of Illinois holds that any law that creates a position and fixes a compensation therefore is unconstitutional in its entirety, provided it mentions in its title both the office and the compensation. As the Legislature has followed this practice for many years in the places it has created and in its revision of laws to change salaries, the effect of the decision is to upset or put out of business about half the administrative boards and officers of the state. Great is law and it must be revered, even when it looks off-hand like a cross-section of some comic opera.

GARBAGE AND ALCOHOL.

A proposition has been laid before the authorities of Oakland to use the garbage of that city in a reduction works to make denatured alcohol. Anyone who has gotten a whiff of the breath of a man who had a couple of drinks an hour or so ago can testify to the close relation there is between garbage and alcohol. The scheme ought to be a success.

REDUCTION OF RENT.

The following was received:

Boston, May 16, 1910.

To the City Council:

I forward, for your consideration, the accompanying petition, signed by eight lessees of stalls in New Faneuil Hall Market, requesting that the rent required under their leases be reduced by the amount of certain assessments.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

To the Mayor and City Council of the City of Boston:

The undersigned respectfully represent that they are lessees of stalls in New Faneuil Hall Market, under renewal, dated December, 1909, of old leases with the understanding that the leases carried the right to occupy certain portions of the sidewalk adjoining the stalls; subsequently the Board of Street Commissioners of the city were required by statute to assess for the use of sidewalks of the city, and, as we are informed, the commissioners considered that they had no discretion to exempt your petitioners and therefore assessed us.

Your petitioners respectfully ask that the rent required under the lease be reduced by the amount of the assessment, and that the assessments paid be refunded.

HALF HOLIDAY, CEMETERY EMPLOYEES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 16, 1910.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Cemetery Department, containing a reply to your order requesting that the employees of the said department, whose services can be dispensed with, be allowed a half holiday on Saturdays.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Cemetery Department,
Boston, May 9, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—We herewith return to you the communication received by you from the City Council regarding half holiday on Saturdays for laborers in the Cemetery Department.

As per our previous correspondence on this subject, this can be only granted by a direct order from the City Council, and we do not construe the communication received from you to that effect. Upon this subject we would like to say that inasmuch as our appropriation for this year was decreased by five thousand dollars, and that if we should grant this half holiday it would mean a loss of three thousand dollars more, we feel that some provision should be made, in case the City Council passes this order, to increase our appropriation this amount, for the work of the department is increasing rapidly and we really need more laborers.

Very sincerely yours,

CHAS. E. PHIPPS,
Chairman Cemetery Trustees.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

EXPENDITURE OF PARKMAN FUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 16, 1910.

To the City Council:

In accordance with a suggestion made by the United Improvement Association, I requested the heads of the Park, Public Grounds, Music and Art Departments to prepare a program for the expenditure of the income of the Parkman Fund this year, and submit it to the City Council on or before May 15.

The inclosed letters from the chairmen of the first two departments named present, with some divergences in detail, the results of their deliberations.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Public Grounds Department, May 13, 1910.
Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Referring to your communication of the 2nd ult.—requesting the heads of the Park, Art, Music and Public Grounds departments to confer, with a view to submitting a schedule of suggestions and estimates for the use of the income of the Parkman Fund this year, I beg to report that we had the conference on these matters yesterday, at which it was agreed by all who were interested, considering the fact that the plans in preparation by Messrs. Olmsted Brothers for the renovation and improvement of the Boston Common are not yet completed, and that it is, for this reason, impossible to estimate the cost of the improvements therein contemplated; that the income from the Parkman Fund now available should be equally divided between the Park and Public Grounds Departments.

It was also agreed by the Music Trustees, and understood by the Public Grounds Department, that the band stand for the Common should be erected from the amount appropriated to the Public Grounds, and it was also agreed, with the consent of the Art Department, that the expenses for relocating the monuments in the Common and Public Garden should likewise be included in the same appropriation.

Respectfully,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.
City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
Boston, May 13, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Following your request of April 22, the heads of the Park, Public Grounds and Music Departments have conferred together regarding the use of the income of the Parkman Fund this year.

We all agreed that it would be well if, this year, one-half of the available money could be given to the Public Grounds Department to spend on their own work and on such work as concerns the Music Department, and that the other half could be given to the Park Department for their purposes.

We all think it would be wiser if these amounts are given in bulk, rather than as appropriations for definite amounts for definite objects. The intention of the Park Commission would be to use such sums as are given them in advancement of the work on one or all of the following subjects, and to such extent as a further study of the plans would render in their judgment advisable:

Zoological Garden at Franklin Park.
The Aquarium at South Boston.
Music Court and "Greeting" at Franklin Park.
Loam in Franklin Park.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.
Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

Such a measure is entitled to the earnest consideration of your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

HOSPITAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 16, 1910.
To the City Council:

I submit the inclosed communication from the President of the Hospital Trustees, relating to a proposed expenditure for a new building for infectious diseases, for the fireproofing of the medical, surgical and administration buildings and for certain minor changes made necessary by these improvements.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, May 14, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, May 13, a subject which is of paramount importance, namely, the enlargement of the department for infectious diseases, was considered. The wards are overcrowded. Quite a number of patients have been sent to the Haines Memorial Hospital, and a certain number have been sent to Brookline. The accommodations for infectious diseases in the City of Boston are not sufficient in an emergency. This matter has already been considered by your Honor. The trustees, after a careful study of the matter, are of the opinion that it will require $165,000 to erect the proper buildings, exclusive of the land.

A second matter which was carefully considered at the meeting of the trustees was the importance of fireproofing the surgical pavilion, medical pavilion and administration building. This would require about $60,000. In addition, $5,000 would be required for certain minor changes and repairs, making a total of $230,000, which is itemized as follows:

South Department, new buildings and modification of the old.....	$165,000
Fireproofing of medical, surgical and administration buildings.....	60,000
Minor changes made necessary by these improvements.....	5,000
	$230,000

It is important that this work should be commenced during the summer months.

Regarding the installation of new refrigerating apparatus and electric apparatus, and fireproofing the power house, to which allusion was made in a previous letter, the trustees consider that these matters may wait for a short time; that they are not of such great importance as new buildings at the South Department, and fireproofing the medical, surgical and administration buildings.

The President, Mr. Codman and Mr. Shillaber, a committee of the Board of Trustees, will call upon your Honor in a short time and make a definite statement regarding the price for which the land adjoining the South Department can be bought.

The trustees wish to take this opportunity for thanking your Honor for the continued spirit of co-operation that you have manifested towards them and the hospital.

Respectfully submitted,
For the Trustees,
A. SHUMAN, President.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I was going to say in connection with this order that I have received a communication from one of my constituents in the Tenth Congressional District, which reads as follows:

Boston, Mass., February 23, 1910.

Councilman James M. Curley,
City Hall:

My dear Councilman,—There is always a first time, and this is the first time I took the liberty to bother you.

When Mr. Hennessey was alderman I forwarded to him my idea of an amendment to the ordinance so that any person having 3,000 or more feet of vacant land should, on application, be granted a permit by the Board of Health to keep poultry. The Board of Health approved my plan, but in that year something happened,—anyhow the Committee on Ordinances did not meet, and as a result the ordinance was not amended. You will readily see, if you make the change as I suggest, many poor families would be benefited at breakfast, but as the ordinance stands to-day, any vicious neighbor or spiteful policeman can cite any person into court even if a person had acres of vacant land.

All I ask is that you amend the ordinance so that your high toned Board of Health issue a permit, if the applicant can show that he has control of the required number of feet of vacant land.

Yours truly,

ED. W. BURNS,
85 Auckland st., Dor.

I would like to have communication go with the order.

The communication was referred with the order to the Committee on Ordinances.

ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS.

The following preamble and order were offered:—

Recognizing the urgent requirements for additional permanent school accommodations, the School Committee has recently appropriated the sum of $529,557 from the tax levy to be expended for that purpose. In pursuance of the provisions of Chapter 473 of the Acts of 1901, the School Committee now designates the school districts within which the additional accommodations shall be provided. The School Committee is perfectly well aware that the cost of these accommodations will far exceed the total amount which it has appropriated for the purpose, and that the urgent needs of a number of districts must, for the present, remain unsatisfied. It has, however, now exhausted its legal powers in its endeavor to provide adequate school accommodations, and it remains the duty of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners to see that the funds recently appropriated are expended promptly and to the best advantage. In the opinion of the School Committee, the accommodations which are provided from the appropriation that has been made should be completed and ready for occupancy not later than September 1, 1911. In order that the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners may undertake its duties without delay, it is hereby ORDERED, That the following-named school districts are hereby designated as the districts within which additional school accommodations are to be provided under the order passed by this Board on May 3, 1910, appropriating the sum of $529,557 for additional school accommodations from the tax levy:—

CO-OPERATIVE WAREHOUSES.

The union warehouse system which has been developed with marked success at several railway centers in the Central States, is to be tried in a modified form on the New York water front. The Bush Terminal Company, which has been constructing wharves, factories and warehouses in South Brooklyn has just let contracts for two reinforced concrete structures, 150 feet square and six and eight stories high, respectively, to be erected on the bulkhead of two piers. The company proposes to use several floors in each building as public receiving, storing and shipping warehouses, maintaining a force of men to attend to the work for its tenants. In this way, just as in the co-operative warehouses in St Louis and Nashville, there is a minimum amount of handling of the goods. The water front is the ideal place for warehouses in New York, since they can be reached by lighter and car float, the cheapest form of transportation there is. Few companies need even a 150 by 150-foot floor for storage, and yet, no matter how small may be the space they use, they must maintain at least one man for shipping, although he is probably idle most of the time. The co-operative idea has never been popular in New York, and consequently there has been little chance of union warehouses to reduce the burden imposed by the present system, except they were undertaken by a private company. It has been generally expected that the first venture of this sort would be made by some company working in harmony with railroad interests and erecting a warehouse near one of the car-float docks on the Manhattan water front. The South Brooklyn proposition is something of a surprise, therefore, although the Bush terminal property has been developed along lines which made the semi-co-operative warehouse an inevitable feature. It is one of those new things on the borderland between engineering and commerce which is equally interesting to both and presents problems of design and management that are likely to have most satisfactory consequences when handled correctly.—Engineering Record.

AGAIN THE POSTER SYSTEM.

The City of Washington, which is very thoroughly up to date in the character of its municipal improvements, is installing a red light police system, and the authorities are very enthusiastic over the simplicity and effectiveness of the device. Gradually all the progressive cities of the east are adopting this system. People who are familiar with recent local events in Los Angeles will remember that eight years ago the Municipal League undertook to get this system—by which the flash of a red light calls a patrolman in the residence district to his telephone box, thus making one man as good as four or five—adopted in Los Angeles where it was invented. Commercial bodies backed up the demand, and every chief of police begged that he might be allowed to put it in. But until the present administration came in nothing could be done. Why? Because the councilmen, elected from wards under the old regime, were enough of them in the pay of a competing signal system to keep it out. They had no argument against the red flash light system—they did not pretend to have. They just voted against it every time. That is what cheap partisan politics does for a town. Fortunately we have found it out.

SAVING OF LIFE.

Holyoke, Mass., established three large ice skating rinks this last winter, and at the end of the season attention was called to the fact that no children were drowned skating this year, whereas heretofore there have been each year from two to five lives lost in that way. During the summer the skating ponds will be wading ponds.

LIFE SAVING DEVICE.

The patrol wagons used in Pittsburg are supplied with an oxygen appliance for saving life. It was recently used with success on a man who had been overcome by the fumes of oil and gas in a refinery.

PUBLIC PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS.

COMPARISON OF THE NUMBER, AREA, VALUE, ETC., OF THE PUBLIC PARKS MAINTAINED BY THE PRINCIPAL CITIES IN THE UNITED STATES, 1907.

Citizens of Boston have long since grown accustomed to the general praise bestowed upon the public park system of the city; few, however, are aware that more than 10 per cent of the entire city's land area is devoted to park purposes; a proportion, relatively, three times as great as the average for the fifteen largest cities in the country, and five times the average for all the cities in the country with a population above 30,000. Neither does the public realize that in point of value, Boston's parks and playgrounds are exceeded only by those of New York; nor that they represent a value greater by $10,000,000 than the combined value of the park systems of Philadelphia, St. Louis and Baltimore. These figures do not include Boston's proportionate share in the value of the Metropolitan Parks, upon which she paid in 1907 an assessment amounting to $579,317.

In the matter of acreage of public parks owned by the city, Boston is on a par with Baltimore and St. Louis; but it should be borne in mind that, in addition to city owned parks, Boston pays the greater portion of the cost of maintaining the 10,237 acres of Metropolitan parks and parkways located outside the city limits. Including their area, Boston maintains, in whole or in part, a park system almost double in area that of New York.

That Boston recognizes in the public playground an important factor in the moral and physical welfare of the youth of the city is indicated by the fact that the aggregate area of her playgrounds exceeds the combined areas of all the public playgrounds maintained in the cities of Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Pittsburg and Buffalo. No playgrounds were reported for New Orleans in 1907.

The playgrounds listed below include only those equipped with special apparatus.

The policy of providing special instructors for duty at playgrounds is rapidly becoming an important feature of this development, with a view to securing to the children the greatest possible benefit from their exercises and games. As a general thing the largest number of playgrounds are those maintained primarily for the benefit of the public school children. Except in the case of cities having a separate supervisor of playgrounds, the general control is vested in the Park Department or School Committee; thus in Boston, during 1907, 18 playgrounds were in charge of the School Department and 5 under the direction of the Park Department.

Six cities in the list, New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburg, Buffalo and Washington, have regulations providing that boys and girls shall play separately. In New York, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Buffalo and Cincinnati, the larger and smaller children are separated; while all the cities except Milwaukee report kindergarten teachers in attendance.

AFTER THE SLUMS.

A new form of municipal crusade is beginning in Chicago, and if it is carried out in the spirit with which it seems to be conceived, it will write a new chapter in American municipal history. Ten of the very best men in the city's Building Department have been appointed to make a thorough inspection of all the congested portions of the city, which means about six square miles, seek out every infraction of the city's building code and sanitary regulations, order reconstruction or demolition, whichever is needed, and follow it up by rigid enforcement of the orders.

That is the program—which if actually carried out, will mean the tearing down and rebuilding of huge areas. In fact if any American city would sincerely and honestly carry out an undertaking like this, assuming, of course, that its building laws and sanitary regulations were up to standard, it would just about put an end to the slum in that city. Chicago is one of the most daring and in many ways most progressive city in the country, but its slum district is just about the worst in America. It is an excellent place to try the experiment. In London, however, it was found that the only way to root out the slum was to condemn the land and houses for city ownership, tear down and reconstruct, and then sell. This not only effected a clean-up, but also a good deal of a profit.

NEW JERSEY PUBLIC UTILITIES LAW.

New Jersey has been passing a public utilities law similar to that of New York. It establishes a commission whose members get $6,000 a year. They regulate all public utilities, and among other things see to it that the companies issue no false capitalization.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, May 26, 1910.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

SIR,—The Finance Commission respectfully calls your Honor's attention to the danger of the passage of House Bill No. 1624, which authorizes the Metropolitan Park Commission to maintain a public bath house on the bank of the Mystic River in Somerville, near a bridge, between the cities of Somerville and Medford.

Under the bill $25,000 is appropriated to be paid from the treasury of the Commonwealth out of the Metropolitan Parks maintenance fund, which is to be repaid to the Commonwealth by the cities and towns in the metropolitan district. If the bill is passed Boston will be called upon to pay about 62 per cent of the cost of the land and building and the maintenance of the bath house.

The bill was opposed before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs by a representative of the City Law Department, acting under Your Honor's instructions; and it was also opposed before the House Committee on Ways and Means, by the Chairman of the Metropolitan Park Commissioners, acting in pursuance of a vote of the Metropolitan Park Commission. The Chairman of the Metropolitan Park Commission stated to the committee, among other things, that the project seemed to be one which would benefit a particular locality, but would not, to any great extent benefit the people of the Metropolitan Park district, generally. It is extremely unlikely that the citizens of Boston will receive any benefit whatever from the expenditure of money for this purpose, although they will be obliged to pay nearly two-thirds of the entire expense.

Notwithstanding the opposition of the official representative of the city, the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs reported the bill favorably, without dissenters, although seven of the fifteen members of that committee represent Boston districts, and three of the seven are members of a political party, which, at election time, makes a political issue of the increasing burdens on the taxpayers of the City of Boston due to metropolitan district improvements. The House Committee on Ways and Means reported that the bill ought not to pass—the Boston representatives on that committee voting against the bill, the four dissenters representing districts outside of Boston. The House, disregarding the protests of the Mayor of the City of Boston, the Metropolitan Park Commission and the House Committee on Ways and Means, passed the bill by a vote of 119 to 78—thirteen Boston representatives voting in the affirmative, eight of whom are members of the political party, which, theoretically at least, is opposed to the policy of making improvements in the metropolitan district at such great expense to the City of Boston.

The bill is now in order for consideration by the Senate Committee on Ways and Means, and the Chairman of the Finance Commission has requested the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means to give another hearing on the subject so as to permit the Mayor of the City of Boston and a representative of the Finance Commission to oppose the passage of the bill, and thereby to protect the financial interests of the city.

The commission respectfully suggests that Your Honor, in person, or by a representative of the Law Department, attend the hearing and oppose the bill, as otherwise it is quite possible that it may be passed.

Respectfully submitted,

by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

HOW TO REACH THE PEOPLE.

The Municipal Affairs Committee of the Board of Trade of Grand Rapids has established a Municipal Reference Bureau, which, though primarily for the Board of Trade, is to be accessible to and convenient for the entire city. It is made up of maps, photographs, books, magazines, etc. The committee is preparing in connection with this Bureau a series of exhibits for some illustrated lectures to be given evenings in the school buildings on the general subject, "What your city is doing for you."

For an opposite purpose—to reach the city officials, the little monthly magazine, The Municipality, published by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, compiles each month a bibliography of current magazine articles of especial interest to city officials. These lists have a very wide range, from purely technical news about garbage disposal and construction notes in the Municipal Engineer to articles of more general interest, as "The Business Outlook for 1910," in Munsey's. The wide scope of these articles makes the lists of value to any one interested in civic affairs and improvement.

CHICAGO GUIDE AS A TEXT-BOOK.

The Guide To Chicago, published by the Chicago Association of Commerce for the benefit of strangers visiting the city, is now used as a text-book in the public schools. The decision to conduct a Chicago course for pupils in the eighth grade of the schools started a quest for a suitable text-book. As the course is designed to familiarize students with the history, industrial development, educational facilities, etc., of Chicago, the Guide to Chicago has been found to be the best book printed for that purpose. The Chicago Association of Commerce has printed an edition of 25,000 for free distribution and this has been practically exhausted, so great has been the demand. The association is now considering republishing the Guide for the use of the school.

CITY TO DEAL IN REAL ESTATE.

Mayor Seidel has evolved a plan which he believes not only will increase the prestige of Milwaukee as a manufacturing city, but will bring many dollars to the municipal treasury. The Mayor proposes that the city buy land at low prices, plat it in accordance with his plans for increasing railroad facilities and resell it for factory sites at a comfortable margin of profit.

Tar painting is now practiced on most of the roads of the Walmer Urban District in England, according to Mr. R. H. Lapage, and has reduced the annual total cost of maintenance and repairs about 4½ cents a square yard on the main highways, as compared with the cost when tar was not used.

PAVED AND UNPAVED STREETS.

BOSTON HAS SMALLER MILEAGE OF UNPAVED STREETS THAN ANY GREAT CITY IN THE COUNTRY.

The value of well paved and well lighted streets is universally recognized as an important factor in promoting the general development of cities. That Boston has but 5.4 miles of unimproved streets as compared with 7,854 miles of unimproved streets in the other fourteen cities in the list indicates the extent of Boston's efforts in this direction. It may surprise some to learn that over 60 per cent, or 2,675 miles, of Chicago's streets are unimproved; that about 30 per cent of the street mileage of New York is unimproved; 40 per cent in St. Louis, 50 per cent in Pittsburg; while Buffalo, credited with being one of the best paved cities in the United States, has about 50 per cent of her street mileage unimproved. In this connection it is interesting to note that Boston is accredited with the first paved street in America; while in the opinion of travelers the best paved cities in this country are given in the following order, Washington, Boston, Buffalo and Manhattan Burrough. Boston, Buffalo and Washington have been called the best paved cities in the world. Among American cities Chicago is rated as the poorest paved of the ten greatest cities in this country. Baltimore ranks but one grade better; Milwaukee, Cleveland, Minneapolis and St. Paul being until recently included in this list.

Few citizens of Boston could to-day tell the location of the three-tenths of a mile of city streets paved with the old fashioned and jolting cobblestone pavement; yet practically 70 per cent, amounting to 366 miles, of all street pavement in Baltimore is of this character. Even in Buffalo more than 20 per cent, or 80 miles, of her streets are cobble paved; while the wood block pavements of Chicago are of the old fashioned large block variety, uneven and unsanitary. A most important factor in estimating the value of various kinds of street paving is the item of cost of cleaning. It is readily believable that a street paved with cobblestones, laid as they usually are in loose earth, can never be thoroughly cleaned, while the smooth surface of granite block, asphalt or other material may be kept in a slightly and sanitary condition at a greatly diminished cost.

Granite and Belgian block paving are perhaps the most costly as well as the most lasting form of pavement now in use. No other substance, however, will so satisfactorily resist the wear and tear so consequent upon hauling of heavy loads through the congested business sections of all large cities. The use of brick as a paving material appears, as a general thing, to be confined to western cities. This is due partly to its cheapness, and in some measure to local conditions, which render its use economical. In so far as mere length of street is concerned, New York heads the list of cities using asphalt and asphalt block paving; but it should be remembered that considerable difference exists in the character and quality of this form of pavement. Nor must we overlook the importance of climatic conditions as affecting the life of this kind of pavement. Here in Boston the effects of our celebrated east wind upon asphalt paving is something little thought of by the lay mind. In many of the sea-coast cities of the world it has been found impossible to maintain asphalt pavements at anything like the figures attained by inland cities. In the city of Glasgow, to cite a specific example, its use is almost absolutely prohibited by reason of its rapid disintegration through the action of the heavy fogs and salt air peculiar to that locality.

A comparison of the figures in the list shown below with similar figures prepared in 1905 indicate an increase in brick pavements amounting to 13 per cent, a 17 per cent increase in asphalt pavement, and a 70 per cent increase in bituminous macadam pavement.

PROGRESS IN THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE DETROIT RIVER.

One of the most extensive inland waterway improvements now in progress of construction by the United States Government is the excavation of a channel in the Detroit river to provide a minimum depth of 22 feet for downbound and of 21 feet for upbound traffic. This river is a short strait connecting Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie, with an average width of about 1.5 miles. Near its mouth it is naturally shallow, however, so that a large amount of work has been required, to provide a channel depth sufficient for the increasing demands of commerce on the Great Lakes. The project now being executed involves much larger quantities than the work formerly done, and when it is completed one of the greatest obstacles in the Great Lakes to vessels of the draft mentioned will have been removed.

The present work extends from the 22-foot depth of water in Lake Erie to a point about five miles above the mouth of the river, with a total length of close to 14 miles, in which two separate and distinct channels are being dug. One of these, the Livingston channel, will be for vessels passing down the river, while the other, known as the Amherstburg channel, will be utilized exclusively by vessels bound up the river. The improvements that have been made in the past have been confined to the latter channel, which is at present in use.

—Engineering Record.

ERRATUM.

A typographical error in the comparative table of figures on parks and playgrounds in the May 21 issue of the CITY RECORD made the total acreage of parks for Boston appear as 5,755.9. It should have been 2,755.9.

APPROPRIATION FOR CHELSEA BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 23, 1910.

To the City Council:

I recommend the passage of the appended order, authorizing the City Auditor to transfer fifteen hundred dollars ($1500) from the appropriation for Congress Street Bridge to the appropriation for Chelsea Street Bridge, for the reasons given in the letters of City Engineer Jackson and Lieutenant Colonel Burr, herewith appended.

Respectively,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Engineering Department, May 17, 1910.

Hon. JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Owing to transfers which have been made from the appropriation for rebuilding the Chelsea Street Bridge, East Boston, the sum of $1,500 is required to complete the work, and I respectfully request that a transfer be made from the unexpended balance on account of the reconstruction of the Congress Street Bridge.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM JACKSON, City Engineer.

City of Boston,
Engineering Department, May 17, 1910.

Hon. JOHN F. FITZGERALD,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I inclose copy of letter this day received from Lieut. Col. Edward Burr for your information.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM JACKSON, City Engineer.

War Department.

United States Engineer Office,
Room 1015 Barristers Hall, 25 Pemberton Square,
Boston, Mass., May 16, 1910.

Mr. William Jackson, City Engineer,
50 City Hall, Boston, Mass:

Sir,—Referring to your letter of March 7, 1910, notifying this office that the Chelsea Street Bridge over Chelsea creek, East Boston, was completed on March 1, 1910, I have to advise you that an inspection of the bridge shows that condition 2 of the permit of the Assistant Secretary of War of June 29, 1908, has not been fully complied with. This condition provides that the old piles used in the reconstruction of the bridge shall be removed from the river, but it is noted that a portion of the old guard fender at the Chelsea side of the former draw-way has not been removed, and extends about 15 feet beyond the line of the sides of the bridge. In sounding through the bridge an obstruction of wood was found at about 13 feet depth below mean low water at the center of the bridge, within about 10 feet of the East Boston side of the draw opening. Wood was also found on a shoal close to the East Boston side of the draw opening at a depth of about 12 feet at mean low water. In other respects the bridge complies substantially with the terms of the permit, but before submitting my final report on the completion of the bridge I request that you take such steps as may be necessary to cause the removal of the old guard fender referred to above as well as the wood obstructions found through the draw. Kindly advise this office when the work has been finally completed.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD BURR,
Lieut. Col., Corps of Engineers.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) from the appropriation for Congress Street Bridge to the appropriation for Chelsea Street Bridge.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PURCHASE OF PLAYGROUNDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 23, 1910.

To the City Council:

One of the urgent needs of the city is the purchase and equipment of playgrounds in the congested sections. No demand was more frequently made at the district meetings attended by your honorable body in February. The instinct of the people in this, as in so many other matters, may be accepted as a safe guide in the shaping of legislation.

The value of such breathing spots, in imparting physical and moral energy to the rising generation, offsets their cost many times and renders them one of the most profitable forms of municipal investments. Where playgrounds are wanting juvenile crime flourishes and disease decimates the households of the poor. Their establishment invariably transforms the entire tone of a neighborhood.

Believing that such recreation centers are far more important than the embellishment of the larger parks, desirable as many improvements suggested for the latter certainly are, I recommend the passage of the accompanying loan order for one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) to be devoted to the purchase and construction of playgrounds.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the authority of chapter 292 of the Acts of 1892 and other acts or parts of acts in conformity therewith, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) be appropriated for the purchase and construction of playgrounds, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

LIGHTS FOR SCHOOL HALLS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 23, 1910.

To the City Council:

It has been frequently suggested that the halls of the grammar schools be used as neighborhood centers by Improvement Associations, Home and School Associations and similar bodies. One difficulty in carrying out this plan in certain sections has been the absence of lights in several of the halls. The appended list, prepared by the Schoolhouse Commission, shows the cost of installing lighting apparatus in those school halls which are not now lighted.

I respectfully submit this material to your honorable body, in the belief that an appropriation for the installation of lights in some, if not all, of these halls will be justified by the benefit to the communities in which the schools are located.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

CITY EXHIBITS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 23, 1910.

To the City Council:

At the request of the local secretary of the National Education Association, I have directed the heads of the Bath, Park, Health, City Hospital, Library, Street and Music Departments to reinstall in the old Art Museum, which is to be the headquarters of the convention of that association during the week of July 2 to 8, the exhibits prepared by them for the Boston 1915 Exposition, held in the same building last fall. The total cost of this restoration is estimated at about ten hundred and fifty dollars ($1,050), all of which will be defrayed from the departmental appropriations, excepting about four hundred and fifty dollars ($450), the estimated cost of the City Hospital display, which will be provided for by a transfer from the Reserve Fund. This association, which is composed of the most distinguished educators in the country, will be honored by an address from President Taft on Independence Day, and is in every way deserving of the fullest hospitality on the part of the city.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RESOLUTION CONCERNING JAMES A. GATELY.

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO VISIT DORCHESTER.

Coun. COLLINS offered an order—That the Committee on Finance be requested to visit the Meeting House Hill district of Dorchester.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, that part of Dorchester has grown more rapidly during the last fifteen years than any other suburb. It has become the home of three-family houses, with the result that there is considerable congestion there. There is a positive demand there on the part of all the people for a playground. For that reason I have introduced the order and trust that the Committee on Finance will give it their serious consideration.

The order was passed.

RESIGNATION FROM MEMORIAL DAY COMMITTEE.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I wish to resign as chairman of the Committee on Memorial Day, and to ask that the committee be discharged because of the fact that as chairman of the committee I have been unable to find out what the duties of the committee are. I have not been able to get any information as to what we should do if we have a meeting this week, and I find that this week the Mayor has delegated two employees of his office to take charge of Memorial Day. Knowing that a committee of this Council had been appointed to apportion whatever money was to be given to the different G. A. R. organizations, etc., he delegated two of his employees in the office to take charge of that work. I don't think the committee has any work to do, and I shall resign and ask that the committee be discharged.

President BALLANTYNE—The Chair will accept the resignation of Coun. McDonald from the Memorial Day Committee.

Order, That a special committee of three be appointed to sit as an investigating committee and hear evidence in connection with the allegation set forth in the petition of the Independent Milk Dealers and Storekeepers Association, presented to the City Council on May 23, 1910, and also as to the cause, reason, propriety and necessity of the regulation of the Board of Health of said Boston, passed July 29, 1909, and now suspended till June 15, 1910, with full power to summon such witnesses and such documents, books and papers as said committee may require in the premises, and make such report of its findings with such recommendations as it may deem necessary to the Council not later than June 28, 1910.

No person or corporation shall sell or offer, expose or keep for sale, deliver or have possession or custody of with intent to sell mixtures of any of the substances named above. No person or corporation engaged in the sale of milk or cream other than condensed, concentrated or other evaporated milk, shall keep in his place of business condensed, concentrated or other evaporated milk except in an unopened can or receptacle.

IMPORTANCE OF NEW YORK'S TUNNELS.

The construction of the tunnels under the North River and the East River, particularly the latter, were engineering feats of the first magnitude, but they were so costly that doubts are occasionally expressed as to whether the many millions spent on them have been warranted by any possible return in increased traffic. It is impossible to understand fully why the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has been willing to embark in an expenditure of about $160,000,000 in New York and the immediate vicinity without studying carefully what will be accomplished by the numerous improvements explained elsewhere in this issue. Not the least important of these will be the magnificent suburban service from Long Island into the heart of Manhattan. Only those who are acquainted with the suburban service out of the Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Philadelphia, can fully appreciate what will happen on Long Island after the improvements are completed. New York did not have a suburban service comparable with that at Philadelphia or Chicago until the electrification of the New York Central and New Haven lines made something of the sort possible, and the completion of the Pennsylvania improvement will furnish a more comprehensive service of the same character throughout the western end of Long Island. The improvement also means a great convenience in through passenger traffic from the West and South into New England, for trains will be run without change of cars from all important points on the Pennsylvania system to Boston as soon as the New York Connecting Railroad is finished.

The magnitude of the passenger transportation problem which the new facilities of the Pennsylvania and Long Island Railroads will go a long way toward solving is readily shown by a few figures. The population within a radius of 19 miles of the New York City Hall was 3,327,000 in 1890, in 1900, it was 4,612,000 and in 1905 it was 5,405,000, an increase in ten years of 38 per cent. The company's engineers estimate that in 1913 the population will be about 6,000,000, and in 1920 about 8,000,000. Railroads on the west bank of the Hudson River opposite Manhattan carried nearly 59,000,000 people in 1886, in 1890 they carried over 72,000,000, in 1896 more than 94,000,000, and in 1906 about 140,000,000. Transportation figures like these indicate very clearly what a volume of travel may be expected through the tunnels leading under the North River to the Seventh Avenue station. But these figures are by no means complete. In Brooklyn and Queens there is a great population which has been cut off completely from all direct communication with the mainland, and even the communication with Manhattan has been very imperfect. The improvements of the two railroads will give these 1,500,000 people direct connections to and from New England and the southern and western states, resulting in changed conditions that are likely to make themselves felt in a very few years after the new service begins.—Engineering Record.

CONGESTION OF POPULATION.

The congestion of population in New York and methods of preventing it are to be investigated by a commission of ten aldermen and nine citizens. The subject is certainly one needing investigation, although it is questionable if it has, as yet, been approached from the side which will ultimately afford the solution. It is generally said that the way to avoid congestion is to induce people to move away from the crowded parts of the city to the outlying suburbs. In the latter they will have plenty of good air, plenty of playgrounds for their children, and far more healthful surroundings than exist in the crowded tenements. Theoretically this is a delightful picture, but practically it ignores the fact that the classes which now live crowded together in houses where rents are low object strenuously to being removed from such places into the more open suburbs. Another fact to be kept in mind in considering this matter is that the congestion in the tenement house district is probably no greater than that in the office building district during working hours. This latter congestion is never taken into account, and yet it is the cause of more trouble, outside of public health circles, than the tenement house congestion. It puts a tremendous burden on the transportation systems of a city during a few hours of the morning and evening, and it overcrowds the streets and sidewalks in a more serious manner, even, than the overabundant population of the tenements. For example, the crowds on the streets of the tenement house district of New York on last Sunday were far less heavy than those to be seen any day on Broadway, Nassau street and Broad street during week days. It is questionable if any material relief from so-called congestion will be afforded until commercial houses break away from each other and appreciate the fact that the telephone has introduced a new element in business methods which renders it largely unnecessary to crowd together in one spot, as was formerly the case when communication was entirely by messenger or by personal visits. When business people stop crowding together, the people working for them on low wages will naturally be dispersed, for they prefer to live near their place of employment.—Engineering Record.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

On May 24 the Mayor, in view of the representations made in the accompanying letter, granted authority for the award, without advertising, of a contract for metal furniture for the Registry of Deeds.

To the Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—On March 22, 1910, you approved an authorization, which authorized me to obtain proposals and make a contract for metal furniture for the Registry of Deeds, at the Court House, Pemberton square, satisfactory to the Suffolk County Court House Commissioners and myself and for which the city appropriated the sum of twelve thousand (12,000) dollars.

It was the intention to add this work to the contract of the George A. Fuller Company, which concern is now doing the work of enlarging the building, but it now appears that this cannot be done as the George A. Fuller Company has refused to accept the responsibility of the same without getting the benefit of its commission on the work.

Plans and specifications were prepared by Mr. George A. Clough, the architect for the commission, and proposals asked for. The proposals received on the first request far exceeded the appropriation and then certain eliminations of work were made and second proposals asked for and received. These also were in excess of the appropriation and then further eliminations were made from the plans and specifications and the third proposals were asked for which also exceeded the appropriation.

The following is a list of proposals received:

ART METAL CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.

	First.	Second.	Third.
85 days	$26,000
90 days		$18,500	$14,763
100 days		18,000	13,763
110 days		17,500	13,263

VAN DORN IRON WORKS COMPANY.

	First.	Second.	Third.
85 days	$22,997
90 days		$15,797	$14,297
100 days		15,000	13,500
110 days		14,797	13,297

GENERAL FIREPROOFING COMPANY.

	First.	Second.	Third.
85 days	$29,984
120 days		$22,900	$12,343

Library Bureau did not submit any proposal.

At a recent conference of the Suffolk County Court House Commissioners and myself it was concluded that the proposal of the Van Dorn Iron Works Company be accepted by me on the basis of one hundred days for the completion of the work with the stipulation that the Van Dorn Iron Works Company deduct certain parts of the furnishings specified, thereby reducing the amount of their proposal to or below the amount of the appropriation and for such eliminations the Suffolk County Court House Commissioners will pay the amount exactly as eliminated on the submission of a bill for the same to them.

The Van Dorn Iron Works Company have advised me that they will agree to eliminate the step, also cases designated as I, J, K and L by the plans and specifications, and do the balance of the work for the sum of eleven thousand eight hundred (11,800) dollars. For these eliminations they allow the sum of seven hundred (1,700) dollars, the same to be furnished and paid for by the commissioners from their funds.

The proposal of the General Fireproofing Company was not considered as they bid on a basis of 120 days, which was not specified.

The commissioners and myself are of the opinion that these four firms include all who are competent to do the kind of work that is necessary for these cases and that the most satisfactory results will be obtained without advertising.

I therefore request your authority to award the contract to the Van Dorn Iron Works Company without publicly advertising, for the sum of eleven thousand eight hundred (11,800) dollars.

Yours respectfully,

G. W. MORRISON,

Superintendent of Public Buildings.

On June 1 the Mayor approved a contract with the Van Dorn Iron Company for doing the above work for the sum of $11,800.

LONDON FOGS ARE FALLING DOWN.

Modern smoke prevention in London is also ridding the city of its fogs. Not only are London's fogs one of its chief characteristics, famous in story and song, but they have also been a big handicap. It is estimated that a genuine "London" brand fog costs the city $750,000 in loss and interruption of business. In 1905 there were forty-four fogs recorded. Since that year there has been a steady decrease in the number, until this year there have been almost none, and this is directly attributed to the work against the smoke nuisance. It is an accepted fact now that the fogs over London would be no more dense than over the adjoining countries if it were not for the quantities of London smoke which have mixed with the fogs.

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred twenty thousand dollars ($320,000) be and the same is hereby appropriated, to be expended by the City Engineer for the reconstruction of the following bridges:

Chelsea Bridge, South (temporary bridge).....	$80,000

Broadway Bridge, rebuilding draw span,.....	115,000
	$320,000

and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the City of Boston to said amount.

City of Boston,
Engineering Department,
50 City Hall, May 25, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—Your attention is respectfully requested to the need of proceeding at once with the reconstruction of the Chelsea Bridge, South (over South channel of Mystic river); of the Meridian Street Bridge (East Boston to Chelsea), and of the draw span of Broadway Bridge (over Fort Point channel).

The estimated appropriations to be provided for now are as follows:

Chelsea Bridge, South:
Temporary bridge.....	$80,000
Meridian Street Bridge:
New steel draw span and reconstruction of present pile bridge..	125,000
Broadway Bridge:
Rebuilding draw span—amount needed in addition to appropriation now available.....	115,000
	$320,000

I inclose memorandum relating to these bridges for your information.

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM JACKSON,
City Engineer.

Chelsea Bridge (over South Channel, Mystic River).

The present bridge is a pile structure with an iron draw, the latter having been built thirty-three years ago to provide for loads not exceeding fifteen tons in weight, which loading was considered ample for highway traffic. Since then the highway and street railway traffic have greatly increased, and street cars weighing forty tons are daily using the bridge. The structure is not a safe one for use under these loads, neither is it of sufficient width to accommodate the highway travel. The bridge should be rebuilt, and a temporary bridge provided to accommodate traffic during reconstruction. The temporary bridge should be built at once, the estimated cost being $75,000. A permanent bridge should then be built at a cost of about $375,000, or making the total cost of the work about $450,000.

It is recommended that an appropriation of $80,000 be made to provide for the construction of the temporary bridge, and the preparation of preliminary plans for the permanent bridge.

The temporary bridge may be used for at least five years and the building of a permanent bridge delayed for that length of time.

Meridian Street Bridge (East Boston to Chelsea).

Meridian Street Bridge is a wooden pile bridge with a wooden turntable draw on a pile foundation. The original structure was built in 1858 and the draw span was rebuilt in 1878, and the remainder of the bridge was widened and rebuilt in 1884. Extensive repairs have been made from time to time, particularly on the woodwork of the draw trusses, and in 1906 and 1907 the bridge was strengthened by the Boston Elevated Railway Company to carry heavier street cars.

The bridge has long been an important thoroughfare for highway traffic, and since the opening of the East Boston Tunnel street car traffic over it has become very heavy. Chelsea river, also, is a very busy waterway, and no drawbridge has to be operated more frequently than the draw of this bridge, which is opened for the passage of vessels from twenty to fifty times per day, a total of over 10,000 openings in a year. The bridge is an old structure wholly inadequate to meet the needs of present traffic, both on the street and through the waterway. The pile portions of the bridge are in bad condition and in need of extensive repairs. In the draw span the movable parts and operating machinery are almost completely worn out, the wooden trusses are more or less decayed and are permanently out of adjustment and the draw generally is in such poor condition that at any time it may have to be closed to travel. No amount of repairs will make the draw a suitable structure for the present heavy street car and highway traffic, and an appropriation for a new bridge or for rebuilding the draw span should be made at once. An entire new bridge of permanent type, consisting of steel spans on masonry foundations, will cost $800,000, exclusive of land damages.¹ This figure includes the cost of a temporary bridge.

The cost of building a new steel draw span of the same size as the present draw span, but strong enough for heavy street car traffic, and of reconstructing the deck of the present pile bridge will be $125,000; and the bridge as thus reconstructed will be sufficient to provide for the next ten or fifteen years.

The appropriation of $125,000 for building new steel draw span and reconstructing the present pile bridge is recommended.

Broadway Bridge Draw Span.—Proposed Rebuilding.

Broadway Bridge over Fort Point channel is, with the exception of the draw span, a modern steel structure, built in 1901-04 for heaviest city traffic. The draw span, however, was built thirty-five years ago and is wholly unsuited to the requirements of present traffic; the floor beams in particular are too light for the street cars now passing over them and some of the connections are of such a character that at any time they may fall under an excessive load, causing a serious accident. The draw span should be rebuilt at an estimated expense of about $150,000. There is available an unexpended balance of an appropriation amounting to $37,889.69.

It is recommended that an appropriation of $115,000 be made, which with the funds available will be sufficient to do the work.

Broadway Bridge Draw Span.—Memorandum

In connection with the proposed rebuilding of Broadway draw span attention may be called to the fact that none of the bridges leading to South Boston over which the street cars now operate are of sufficient strength to carry modern street cars of the semi-convertible type. If Broadway draw span is rebuilt it will provide a route over which the modern high speed electric cars may be run to the South Boston district.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, this is, of course, a very important and serious matter and should be examined into by the members of the Council before any action is taken. Therefore, I move that this matter be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The motion was carried, and the message and order were referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Council adjourned at 1.21 p. m., on motion of Coun. CURLEY.

Tuesday, May 31, 1910.

Special meeting of the City Council in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, at one o'clock p. m., President BALLANTYNE presiding and all the members present.

The meeting was held in pursuance to the following call:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1910.

To the City Council:

You are respectfully requested to assemble in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, at one o'clock to-day, for the purpose of taking appropriate action on the death of my predecessor, ex-Mayor George Albee Hibbard. I trust that every member will be able to attend this meeting and thus express his sympathy for the bereaved family and testify publicly to the sense of loss felt by the entire community.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

¹ Including land damages the new bridge would probably cost $1,000,000.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend for your adoption the accompanying resolutions on the death of ex-Mayor George Albee Hibbard and to invite your honorable body to join with me in such official action as your sense of the proprieties of this sad occasion may suggest.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Resolved, That the death of George Albee Hibbard, under circumstances of peculiar pathos, calls for a public expression of sorrow on the part of this body, most of whose members have enjoyed official and personal relations with him.

As it was our privilege to have known and honored him in life it is our duty in this hour of general mourning to pay tribute to his rare public virtues. Selected by his fellow citizens to serve as their chief magistrate, at a crisis in the affairs of the city, he assumed a task which from its very nature involved misunderstanding and criticism. Only those who knew his simple and sensitive nature realize what the performance of this duty cost him in mental and physical suffering. There is reason to believe that the experiences of his two years in the mayoralty shortened a life that amid more peaceful surroundings might have been preserved for the rewards and honors of a happy old age.

All the more should his fellow citizens now by their tributes of esteem repair the injustice of a period in which feeling ran high and passion blinded many to the honorable purposes of a man whose lot it was to have accepted a difficult commission from the people and to have endeavored to execute their commands literally, strictly and to the best of the ability that God gave him.

Resolved, Therefore, that in tendering our sympathy to his sorrowing family, who better than all others knew his loyal and affectionate nature, we record our sense of the deep obligation under which George Albee Hibbard laid his fellow citizens by the admirable example of duty fearlessly and uncomplainingly performed, which he afforded as Mayor of Boston.

The message was placed on file, and the question came on the adoption of the resolution.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, in rising to move the adoption of the resolutions by a rising vote of the City Council, I desire at this time to give expression to my feelings with relation to the late Mayor, George Albee Hibbard. As one of the party of the opposite political faith I want at this time to state what I publicly stated in an interview in the Press—that, in my opinion, of all the men who ever held the honored office of the Mayor in the history of the great City of Boston no man was less understood as Mayor than the late chief executive. He possessed the rare virtue, rather uncommon in men in public office, of being an absolutely honest and incorruptible public official and withal a quiet, simple, painstaking Mayor of this great city. His faults, if there were any, were not of his own making or desire. Elected on a policy and a platform of retrenchment and economy, if he had been permitted to work out that policy according to the dictates of his own conscience and to the best of his own ability, in all probability the same economies would have been put into operation and the same benefits would have resulted to the city, and perhaps in a larger degree than was possible under the conditions as they actually existed during his administration. The public clamors from time to time about reform and the necessity for it become particularly insistent, and the person who is unfortunate enough to be placed in an executive position and who is expected to put into operation reforms, when such an hysterical wave as we have seen in this city in the last five years is in evidence, must inevitably suffer. The really great men in the history of this country have been the simple, plain, everyday citizens. The greatest character known in the history of the country was one of the most simple men, and his cardinal virtue was, as in the case of the late Mayor of this city, George A. Hibbard, an absolute and incorruptible honesty of character and of purpose. The man whose name will be best remembered by future generations, the greatest President ever known in the history of this country or who possibly ever will be known, was a man of simple tastes, a man who pursued his own ideas in an unobtrusive way, a man who was beyond and above corruption in the lamented martyred President, Abraham Lincoln. Another great man and a simple man, but withal a man of absolutely honest character, whose name will never be effaced from the history of this country, was Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. As it was in the case of these two simple, great men in the history of our country, so it was in the case of the former Mayor of this city, Mr. Hibbard. Every office he ever held he filled in such a way as to win the commendation of those under him and the respect of all classes in the community. I sympathize, as a member of the city government, with his family in their great bereavement. I regret, as a public official who served under him for two years, that his demise was so sudden. I regret that it was not his good fortune to have lived to a ripe old age, to have witnessed the changes that may take place in this city within the next twenty-five years, when the people will have had an opportunity to learn his true worth from the reforms put in operation by him, when they will have an opportunity to truly appreciate the tremendous sacrifices made by him. The carping critics who, with a desire to shield their own wrongdoing, with a desire to cover up their own faults—such men as pose as reformers in every community—are the kind of men who hastened, in a measure, the death of the Hon. George A. Hibbard. If they had been placed in the same position in which he was placed for the last two years the papers would have been rife with stories of their corruption, stories of the graft in which they were interested, stories of wrongdoing in this city. Let it be said to his memory and to his credit that his administration was not marked by corruption, was not marked by graft, that it typified and represented the administration of an honest man, whose sole desire was that all who worked under him in carrying on the affairs of this great city might be actuated by the same noble purpose and by the same high ideals that actuated him as chief executive of the city. As one man who did not always agree with him in his policy I want at this time to take occasion to say that I believe that he was an absolutely honest man, that he was an able man, that he was a capable man, and that, left to act according to his own impulses, he would have proven the same sturdy, stalwart, sterling character as Mayor of the city, guarding the interests of all classes in the community, that he showed himself to be in every office that it was his honor to grace. I desire at this time to express as a member of the city government my heartfelt sympathy to his wife and family in their bereavement, and I want to say that, great as will be the suffering that his sudden demise will entail upon his family, they will certainly have occasion to rejoice in the knowledge that every office he held he filled with honor, with credit, with distinction. In retiring from his last office—the most trying position ever held by any man—he was universally held, from one end of the country to the other, in the highest esteem in which anyone can be held by his fellow men. He retired from that office an honest man, poorer in purse after two years of service than he was when he was first elected to the office. That is certainly a sufficient honor, a great honor, an honor in which his children can glory and take pride until they go to their graves.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, in seconding the resolutions I speak from what might be termed a novel point of view. I have never served in any city government before and have not been associated politically or socially with the late ex-Mayor; but, as one who has been in the service of the city but a few months and who has had occasion to study the appropriation bills of ex-Mayor Hibbard in the last two years, I cannot help at this time reiterating the remarks of the last speaker when he said that ex-Mayor Hibbard's era in this city government was one of retrenchment. I prefer, however, to put it in another way. His administration was not what might be termed a constructive nor was it a destructive one. It was what Boston needed at the time, one of the most crucial periods in her history, and what he gave was not a constructive but a corrective administration. Suffice it to say—it is common knowledge, but it bears reiteration—that his administration was prudent, businesslike and honest; and in seconding the resolutions and the remarks of the last speaker I know I am voicing the sentiments of us all when I say that ex-Mayor Hibbard's memory deserves to be kept green in the pages of our municipal history.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I wish briefly to second the resolutions which have been presented and to express my sincere sorrow at the death of ex-Mayor George A. Hibbard. While during the two years that I served under him in this city government we differed at many times, it was simply the difference that is sometimes inevitable between any persons in political or public life, and it was simply a difference that may naturally arise. I believe, however, that when he was elected to the high office of Mayor of the City of Boston he took up his duties with a singleness of purpose—to serve his city honestly, fearlessly and to the best of his ability. I think he endeavored in every way to administer its affairs in the same careful, painstaking manner in which he filled the offices which he had previously occupied, and it seems to me that, on the whole, his services were sincere and were of the highest order. I believe that the citizens who have been so ready to criticize in the past will be the first to praise him in the future, and as years roll by I believe he will be more appreciated as the services which he rendered stand out in striking relief with the services rendered by others who have filled the same office. To-day, in common with the other members of the old Board of Aldermen of 1908 and 1909, my heart goes out in sympathy to the bereaved family, to the wife and children who are left behind. The differences of the past are forgotten, and nothing but kindly feelings are left. I have nothing but words of praise and commendation for him, and I believe, as Coun. Curley has said, that the crowning glory of his service here lies in the fact that he left the office an honest man. I believe that he has to-day the respect, love and praise of all citizens of this city.

The resolutions were passed by a unanimous rising vote.

President BALLANTYNE offered an order—That the City Clerk be directed to transmit to the bereaved widow of George A. Hibbard, late Mayor of this city, an engrossed copy of the resolutions adopted to-day by the City Council, the expense thus incurred to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to procure a suitable floral tribute, to be sent on behalf of the City of Boston to the funeral of the late ex-Mayor George A. Hibbard.

Passed.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the flags be displayed at half-mast in the squares and public grounds and also on all city buildings on the day of the funeral of the late ex-Mayor George A. Hibbard.

Passed.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the entire City Council attend in a body the funeral of Hon. George A. Hibbard, late ex-Mayor of Boston.

Passed.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the expenses incurred in procuring a floral tribute and displaying the flags at half-mast in the squares and public grounds on the occasion of the funeral of the late ex-Mayor George A. Hibbard, be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

President BALLANTYNE—The Chair would state that another special meeting has been called for to-day, but it seems to be the desire of a majority of the Council, as a mark of respect to the late ex-Mayor, that all business shall be suspended until after the funeral.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, as a further mark of respect to the memory of ex-Mayor Hibbard I move that the Council do now adjourn.

Adjourned at 1.38 p. m.

THE RELATIONS OF RAILWAYS TO THE CITY PLAN.

The American Institute of Architects has done a great service to the cause of better planning of cities and the revision of plans of our larger cities to suit modern conditions, by bringing together for thorough discussion of the problems of the relations of railways to city development a number of experts from among the railway managers and engineers and the architects, and publishing the papers and discussions in a special volume, which can probably be obtained from the secretary of the Institute, Glenn Brown, Washington, D. C.

The problem is much more complicated than would seem probable until it has been studied. President Delano of the Wabash Railroad read the first paper and called attention to the differences in topography as making the most pronounced differences in the solutions of the problem for various cities. Height of buildings, with the concentration of people in the districts of high office buildings; the methods of housing the population, whether in tenements downtown or in houses farther out; the size of the city, and the fact that the smaller cities want the railroad stations, especially the passenger and mercantile freight stations, as near the center of the city as possible, are other important factors, according to Mr. Delano.

And the character of the passenger and freight traffic also makes a material difference in the treatment of the problem of terminals. Thus rapid transit trains within the city and immediate suburban limits; interurban electric traffic, which is omitted from Mr. Delano's consideration; local trains; through traffic; whether the city is a terminal or a way station or both, require differences in treatment. Then, too, the freight service to and from the mercantile districts, the manufacturing districts, the building and other bulky material districts, demand differences in treatment.

In the large cities there is now a strong tendency to make the distribution of both freight and passenger traffic from the railroad terminals to the congested districts by tunnels or subways.

Mr. A. M. Long, architect for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, treated the subject from the point of view of the plan of the freight houses and tracks, their architecture and the arrangement of in and out-bound freight, cars and tracks.

The vast Hudson Terminal Station in New York, and the handling of passengers and baggage and their transfer from trains to rapid and other city transit lines were described in considerable detail in a paper by J. Vipond Davies and J. Hollis Wells. The service by tunnel and subway to the station are well developed, as well as the financial reasons for the construction of the great office building over the station. The latter are mainly based on the economic necessity of raising sufficient income to carry the heavy investment in land under which to construct the station. The problem of station stairways is treated in this paper also.

John R. Rockart, architect, and I. D. Waterman and C. W. Lord, engineers for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, show the relations of the railroad buildings, retaining walls, bridges and their surroundings to city development. The wonderful work done in Washington in fitting the railroad structures to the beautiful city plan; the fitting of the railroads and stations along the Cleveland lake front into the civic center plan; the relation of the railroad station and tracks to the proposed New Haven, Conn., improvements; and the work in foreign cities, such as Paris, Genoa, Hanover, Budapest, are set forth briefly; also the defects in such large schemes as the terminal stations in Boston, the new Pennsylvania station in New York. Some of the difficulties and successes in the treatment of the small suburban or through stations within the city limits or the well populated suburbs are also shown.

The lack of study of the problem of distribution of freight is deplored, and the Chicago plan for a central freight terminal, where the carloads will be broken up and the freight distributed in the district by subways, is mentioned. The use of electricity in moving the traffic within the city limits is asserted to be more economical than the use of steam.

Mr. George Cary, the designer, described the plans for the new Buffalo railroad terminals. Mr. Albert Kelsey discussed briefly interurban stations and trolley traffic in city streets.

The entire series of papers is well worth close study, and, while none of them are complete, and but few are so thoroughly worked out as to disarm criticism, they show, as a whole, the great importance of the problems and what have been the successes in the treatment of a few of them. One can read between the lines the probable success or failure of others among the projects still under discussion.

SURE CURE FOR STRIKES.

Des Moines, in order to avoid any possibility of a tie up of the city's car lines with strikes, has inserted a clause in the road's franchise that it must stipulate in contracts with employees that all differences are to be arbitrated. In case of any question arising, each side will choose a representative. If they cannot reach an agreement, they may jointly choose a third, or the third person will be chosen by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

LENGTH AND CLASSES OF SEWERS IN AMERICAN CITIES.

BOSTON HAD FIRST COMPLETE SEWERAGE SYSTEM IN THE COUNTRY AND CAN TO-DAY CLAIM THE MOST PERFECT.

The problem entailed in the disposal of the sewage of a great city is equal in importance to that of securing an adequate supply of pure water. In any consideration of this question it should be borne in mind that, while other cities are concerned with the task of handling this service within their own boundaries, Boston, in addition to providing sewer service for the city's area of 43 square miles, pays the larger part of the sewerage expenses in a metropolitan district covering 121 square miles. Boston's appreciation of her duty in this direction is indicated by the fact that she had the first completed sewer system in this country and can to-day claim the most perfect in many respects.

In an article dealing with this subject, Moses N. Baker, C. E., says:

"Sewerage systems convey sewage, either with or without surface or storm water, from streets, house roofs and yards. In the separate system of sewerage one set of conduits receives and conveys domestic and perhaps manufacturing wastes, and a second and larger set of conduits conveys storm water. These two sets of conduits are called sanitary and storm sewers, respectively. In the combined system of sewerage a single network (of combined sewers) conveys both sewage proper and storm water. In the smaller cities or in backward communities of larger size either sanitary or storm sewers alone may be provided. Of the two, sanitary sewers are now generally built first. Some decades ago it was not uncommon for cities to have storm sewers, but not sanitary sewers. In Paris it was not until well toward the close of the nineteenth century that water-closets were allowed to be connected with the sewers of that city."

Up to 1905 Baltimore had practically nothing but storm sewers. How scanty had her provisions been in this particular can be seen from the fact that in 1907 she reports but 62 miles of sewers as against 720 miles in Boston. Since 1889 Chicago has spent millions in the construction of a sanitary district. In that year a general law of the Illinois Legislature created sanitary districts throughout the state; its purpose in the case of Chicago being to protect from sewage pollution the waters of Lake Michigan, the source of the city's water supply.

It may surprise some of our citizens, who are hearing of the superiority of European cities in all matters of public service, to learn that previous to 1872 there was no drainage system worthy of the name in Berlin. The present elaborate plan is the direct result of the vigorous agitation by Professor Virchow. In Birmingham the present system was adopted in the early seventies. In 1871, with more than 73,000 houses in the city, there were less than 4,000 water-closets. At that time the so-called Rochdale system of closet pans and ash tubs was introduced. Even to-day many of the houses in that city are supplied with these pan closets; heavy galvanized cylinders, 18 inches in diameter and 18 inches deep. Once every week, in the night, the closed vans of the Health Department remove them and substitute clean pans. Underground sewers were entirely unknown in London until 1831, and not a single large underground main had been constructed up to 1855. Such as they were, the sewers and drainage ditches poured their pollution directly into the Thames at frequent intervals along its banks, and at times the river was so befouled and clogged with filth that navigation was interfered with. The present main drainage system comprises less than 500 miles. In Dresden and Lyon storm water sewers comprised the entire system at a recent date. In Amsterdam only part of the city is supplied. St. Petersburg still uses the old wooden sewers.

UTILIZING WASTE SPACES.

The Treasury Department in Washington has ruled that 138 sites for future buildings, for which building appropriations have not been made, may temporarily be used for children's playgrounds managed by local authorities or by philanthropists interested in betterment of social conditions. Until buildings come, children may romp. There is much vacant land controlled by private owners, increasing in value each day through unearned increment derived from social expansion, which might be set apart similarly to improve the condition of the young of our towns and cities.

DENVER DAY IN SCHOOL.

On the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce of Denver, a day is set aside to be known as Denver Day, which will be observed in the schools by special instruction about the city's interests and undertakings.

CHICAGO EXHIBITS IN BERLIN.

A very striking feature of the city planning exhibition, which was held this month in Berlin, was the 100 pictures of the Chicago beautification plan prepared by the artists of the Burnham Commission. It is said that these pictures aroused great enthusiasm among the visitors to the show. It is barely possible that they would not have made so much of a hit if the Berliners had understood that they are a little more than a dream.

THE CHARTER OF INDIANAPOLIS.

[By CALEB S. DENNY, Ex-Mayor]

Twenty years ago, when I was mayor for the first time, Indianapolis had a patchwork charter, or rather a mere collection of laws very different from the present charter. There was a common council and a board of aldermen, and committees from these practically controlled the city. The mayor had a little executive power and was also judge of the police court. But committees of the council appointed the police, fire and street officials, city attorney, etc.

That condition so unfavorably impressed our business people that they made up their minds to change it. In 1891 a new charter was adopted, which in 1905 was superseded by a general charter law for the state. Under it the so-called "federal system" of Indianapolis was adopted and applied to all cities of the first to the fifth class. Indianapolis is and will long remain the only city of the first class, and her charter comes nearer to embodying the federal plan than any other city in the country; and Indiana is the foremost state in giving this plan to all cities and towns in the state. In my opinion this plan is the only proper one, concentrating as it does great power and responsibility in the mayor, and keeping the executive, legislative and judicial branches independent of each other.

Under this system the most important branch of the city government is the executive. The mayor is in almost absolute control, and on him is thrown almost all the responsibility. Aside from the council, there are only three officers elected by the people, the mayor, the clerk and the police judge, all for four years. The mayor appoints all other important officers including four boards, and does not have to submit his appointments to the councils. He appoints the three members of the Board of Public Works (only two being of the same political party), the two members of the Board of Public Safety, Board of Health (two), Park Commission (four); he also appoints the Controller, Corporation Counsel (City Attorney), and the City Engineer. His boards appoint (usually with his knowledge and consent) their own subordinates.

The judicial department is entirely independent of the mayor.

So also is the legislative department, though not so distinctly, for there are some connections between the council, mayor, and, for instance, the Board of Public Works, which have concurrent power in granting franchises to and entering into contracts with public utilities corporations.

Also the council may act concurrently with a board, as where the Board of Public Works begins improvements against which affected property owners file a protest, the council by a two-thirds vote may intervene, override the protest and cause the improvement to proceed.

In general, however, the executive, legislative and judicial branches are independent.

The council has as its chief function the levy of taxes and appropriation of funds. Last winter a radical change was made in the council. Previously it had twenty-one members—one from each ward and six at large. Since the change it has but nine members.

The process of nomination is peculiar and includes the nomination by each political party at the primaries (which are party primaries, pure and simple) of a candidate for councilman for each of the city's six "districts."

But all the voters throughout the city vote for nine men. This means that there are six Democratic nominees, six Republicans, and so on; six nominees for each party; one from each district, but all are candidates-at-large. Now when a Republican (for instance) has voted for the six Republican nominees (as the average partisan voters would do) there are three more candidates to vote for. So he selects, from another party, or other parties, the seventh, eighth and ninth of his choice.

You can readily see two unusual features of the council elected under this law. One is that it is possible for some district to be left without a representative—possibly but not probably; and even if it turned out so, the at-large feature would prevent any unfairness. The other feature is that the council cannot by any chance be composed exclusively of members of a single political party; there are bound to be at least three of the party not in power in the city, and possibly more than three. This is the chief novel feature of the council.

Now as to the mayor. People are likely to say that he has too much power and too much responsibility. It is likely to seem so to the mayor, too. I, for one, felt the responsibility very seriously, under the charter of 1891. The mayor is not only responsible for the acts of the four boards before mentioned, but for all the appointees of those boards. It is not a plan universally approved, but I believe it to be the only correct one in this age of great public works.

It means that when a man is elected mayor all he has to do to keep out of trouble and be successful is to appoint honest and capable men on his boards. If perchance anything goes wrong in spite of all his care, it is the easiest thing in the world for the mayor to obtain the public's pardon by discharging the man or men who have failed. I was one of those obliged to do that; I requested the resignation of a board and appointed another board in its place. That the mayor has absolute power to remove is the strong point of the federal system and the success of the plan. It sounds dangerous, but it is the reverse and is a good plan for a progressive city.

As to public improvements conducted by the Board of Public Works. The charter of 1905 provides that where a street (for instance) is to be improved, and an assessment district therefor is established, if anyone is dissatisfied with his assessment he has a right to appeal from the levy to the court. That is, he could file a complaint against the city. The court would immediately appoint three appraisers, who within three days would report to the court the amount of benefit which would result to the plaintiff. If the appraisal fell 10 per cent or more below that of the Board of Public Works, the court would award to the plaintiff a reduction of his assessment and the city would have to pay the difference between the original assessment and the one fixed by the court. This law was upheld by the supreme court. Under it a case is tried as any other issue is tried, the court deciding on the evidence.

But there is very little tedious litigation arising out of improvements by the Board of Public Works. The proceedings of the board are, furthermore, the most expeditious imaginable, and one feature is especially commendable. The board can start, carry through and finish an improvement all within two months, notwithstanding any opposition of property owners. The work goes on in spite of protests, and the protest also may go on (by suit brought in court as already described) at the same time. The protesting property owners are awarded damages (if really damaged or excessively assessed), but they cannot tie up the improvement proceedings.

After a careful study of the federal system of municipal government I have tried to sketch for you I made up my mind a few weeks ago that another improvement can be made in it—at least as applied to Indianapolis and the county of Marion. I commend the improvement to you here also in case you ever wish to discuss a city and county government.

Indianapolis covers more than a township; it covers and contains about nine-tenths of the county's population, and more than nine-tenths of the assessed valuation. Therefore I think there is no sense in continuing two separate governments.

The federal system can be applied to both the city and county just as well under one set of officers as under two. The two together can be better conducted by even a smaller number of officials than the city alone has to-day—better and much more economically. I know it can be done in Indianapolis and Marion county. I believe it can be done here.

There is no provision in Indianapolis for the initiative, referendum or recall, though they were discussed and strongly urged. The only provision in the charter for removing an official is by impeachment—a harder system to make effective than yours here. The recall would work well with the federal system.—Municipal Journal.

TOWN-PLANNING COMPETITION.

A great Town-Planning Competition will be announced before long by the High Commissioner for the Commonwealth of Australia, who is almost ready to go ahead with the construction of the new federal capital. This has been located at Yass-Canberra in New South Wales, about equally distant from Sidney and Melbourne, and 100 miles inland. Here a tract of some 900 square miles has been turned over to the Commonwealth, and engineers, and surveyors have been busy for some time obtaining topographical data relating to it, for the purpose of the proposed international competition. One feature of the undertaking is unusual; the land cannot be sold but can only be obtained on lease from the federal government. Consequently, while the administration buildings must inevitably be constructed by the government, there is considerable uncertainty regarding the way in which houses for the officials and members of parliament should be provided. This is the first occasion since the laying out of the City of Washington when a national capital has been presented to engineers and architects for complete planning. Moreover, this capital is for an entire continent, so that the competition has an unusually unique character. The site is apparently one which will call for great skill in its development, for a river winds through it and there are irregular, rather gentle hills everywhere. The river can be dammed in order to make a small lake, if desired, and on this account the variety of plans that may be prepared for the development of the site is very great. The authorities are apparently proceeding in a very careful manner, with the intention of leaving the design wholly to the competitors, furnishing merely topographical information and a statement of the accommodations needed by the government.—Engineering Record.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, June 4, 1910.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled:

The Finance Commission respectfully submits for the consideration of the Legislature the following statement respecting Senate Bill No. 410, entitled "An Act to authorize the Boston Elevated Railway Company to purchase and hold the stock and bonds of other street railway companies."

It appears that the Boston Elevated Railway Company presented to the Legislature in 1908 a bill which provided for the consolidation of the West End Street Railway and the Boston Elevated Railway Companies, and for the acquisition by the latter of stock and bonds in other street railway companies. The Legislature authorized the consolidation of the West End Street Railway Company and the Boston Elevated Railway Company by chapter 551, of the Acts of 1908; but no authority was granted in that year to acquire securities of other companies, as requested in the bill introduced by the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The contemplated consolidation has not yet been effected. In 1909 the Legislature passed a resolve (chapter 85) requesting the Board of Railroad Commissioners and the Boston Transit Commission, sitting jointly, to investigate and report to the General Court, on or before the second Saturday of January, 1910, whether or not in their opinion it is advisable, expedient and in the public interest:

First. To amend chapter five hundred and fifty-one of the Acts of the year nineteen hundred and eight by providing for a distribution of any of the assets of the West End Street Railway Company among its stockholders, or by changing the terms and conditions of the first and second preferred stock to be issued by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and if so, in what matter and to what extent;

Second. To authorize the Boston Elevated Railway Company to acquire and hold the stock and securities of other street railway companies, elevated railroads or electric railroads, and if so, under what conditions and limitations;

Third. To authorize the Boston Elevated Railway Company to extend its elevated railroad from Sullivan square to the City of Medford, and if so, under what conditions and limitations.

The Joint Board submitted its report to the Legislature under date of January 10, 1910. The Finance Commission is not concerned with the first and third of these questions. The Joint Board answered the second question by stating that it would be advisable to authorize the Boston Elevated Railway Company to acquire and hold stocks and bonds of other street railway companies, under certain conditions enumerated in its report. (Senate Document 22, pp. 14-16.) The Committee on Street Railways received from the counsel of the Boston Elevated Railway Company a draft of a bill intended to embody the recommendations of the Joint Board. This draft was submitted by the committee to the chairman of the Railroad and Transit Commissions, with a request to draft a bill for the committee which should provide for the acquisition by the Boston Elevated Railway Company of the stocks and bonds of other street railway companies, subject to the limitations recommended by the Joint Board, and which should also contain a provision suggested by the Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston respecting the extension of the existing leases of the East Boston and the Washington Street Tunnels, and the subway, and the fixing of the rentals thereof. The two chairmen made the draft as requested, and submitted the same to the Committee on Street Railways, but the wisdom of providing in the bill for the extension of the existing leases and the fixing of the rentals was not considered by the Transit Commission or the Railroad Commission, and no report from either commission was made to the Legislature upon this important question. The bill reported by the street railway company, however, not only provides for the acquisition and the holding of the stocks and bonds of other street railway companies by the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company which subject was fully considered by the Joint Board, but it also provides for the extension of the leases of the subway, the East Boston and the Washington Street Tunnels, respectively, from the dates of the expirations, namely, September 1, 1917, June 10, 1922, and November 30, 1933 to the dates when the bonds issued by the city to pay for the construction shall become due, namely to 1942, 1947 and 1949, respectively.

From the foregoing record it is apparent that neither the Transit Commission nor the Railroad Commissioners, the two bodies most competent to consider the questions involved in the pending bill, has passed upon the important questions of extending the existing leases for long periods of time of fixing the rentals so far in advance, or of providing that the new leases shall expire upon the same date.

In the opinion of the Finance Commission the proper decision of these three questions is of such importance to the City of Boston that they should receive independent consideration by these two boards before the Legislature is called upon to act.

The suggestion that a provision for the extension of the leases should be incorporated in the bill was first made to the Committee on Street Railways by the Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston at the hearing on March 29, 1910, and there was only one more hearing, namely, on April 5, 1910. In the six days between the dates of these hearings the public did not have sufficient opportunity to consider and discuss this unexpected amendment of the original bill. The Finance Commission believes that these important questions should not be decided in the closing days of the legislative session.

The counsel of the Boston Elevated Railway Company has stated to the Finance Commission that he would prefer the passage of the pending bill without sections 8 and 9, which provide for the extension of the leases, the fixing of the rentals and the acceptance of the bill by the company and the city. The Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston has stated that he would oppose the passage of the bill if sections 8 and 9 were eliminated, as he believes that the question of extending the leases and fixing the rentals should be determined before the Boston Elevated Railway Company is given the opportunity to acquire the stocks and bonds of other street railway companies, as he fears that such acquisition would result in the absence of competition for the leases of the tunnels and subway, and that the city, as a result, would be forced to accept the terms offered by the Boston Elevated Railway Company for the new leases.

The Finance Commission does not believe that the opinion of the Corporation Counsel respecting the absence of competition and its consequences is conclusive. On the other hand, it believes that it would be unwise to pass a bill without provisions for the renewal of the leases and the fixing of the rentals, until the questions involved in the opinion of the Corporation Counsel shall have been fully considered by the Transit Commissioners and the Board of Railroad Commissioners and the public.

The Finance Commission believes that no important interest will be jeopardized by the postponement of legislation for another year. The Boston Elevated Railway Company would like to receive this year legislative authority to purchase the stocks and bonds of other street railway companies, as such stocks and bonds may possibly, during the present year, be secured by the company on advantageous terms. This is an entirely legitimate desire on the part of the Boston Elevated Railway Company; but the granting of such authority does not seem to the Finance Commission to be of sufficient advantage to the public to warrant the passage of a bill such as that now pending, without full opportunity for consideration by the Joint Board and the public of all the questions therein involved.

The commission therefore recommends that the Legislature defer action on the pending bill, and that a resolve be passed authorizing the Railroad Commissioners and the Transit Commissioners, sitting jointly, to hold public hearings on the questions involved in the pending bill, and to report to the next General Court a bill providing for the acquisition of stocks and bonds of other railway companies by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, for the extension of the lease of the tunnels and subway, and for the determination of the rentals.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Friday, June 3, 1910.

Special meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at one o'clock p. m., President BALLANTYNE presiding and all the members present.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. BRAND, to dispense with the reading of the records of the last two meetings.

The Clerk read the call for the meeting as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1910.

To the City Council:

I request your honorable body to meet in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, Friday, June 3, at one o'clock p. m., for the consideration of certain plans relating to the improvement of the old Art Museum property on Copley square, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before you.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RELEASE OF LAND RESTRICTIONS.

A petition was received, signed by the trustees of the Copley Square Trust, for release of restrictions on land formerly used for the Museum of Fine Arts.

In connection with the petition the following communications were received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 2, 1910.

To the City Council:

Messrs. Moses Williams and J. Morris Meredith, Trustees of the Copley Square Trust, have submitted simultaneously to your honorable body and myself a proposition relating to the estate known as the old Art Museum property. The proposition amounts substantially to an exchange of values between the city and the trust, and the only question for us, as public officers elected to serve the interests of the people, to consider is, whether this exchange is an equitable and desirable one.

We are given to understand that it is the intention of the Trust to erect a first-class hotel at a cost of at least two million dollars. Such a hotel is much needed in Boston and the site is certainly an excellent one for this purpose. The plans of the Trust have been submitted to the Corporation Counsel and to Mr. John C. Kiley, my real estate expert, and have been approved by them with certain modifications, suggested by Mr. Kiley, in the original draft.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

[COPY.]

Boston, Mass., May 26, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Referring to the letter of Mr. Henry Whitmore of the office of Meredith & Grew, agents for the Copley Square Trust, to you, dated May 7, 1910, asking the city to release certain restrictions applying on their property, known as the old Art Museum site, Copley square, I make the following report:

At present any building to be erected on this site must be set back 25 feet from the streets on which it bounds, except on St. James avenue, where the building line is further back than 25 feet for a portion of the frontage.

The trustees of the property will convey to the city for street purposes a strip of land 12 feet wide the entire length of their estate on Dartmouth street, Stuart street and Trinity place. This conveyance will enable the city to widen Dartmouth street from 60 feet to 72 feet, Stuart street from 40 to 52 feet, and Trinity place from 40 to 52 feet, all of which are desirable improvements to make. They will also convey to the city for widening Copley square to St. James avenue all the "bow piece," so called, on St. James avenue, which will be an important acquisition for the city if St. James avenue is to be widened in connection with the proposed developments in Park square.

For this conveyance the trustees ask the city to release to them the restrictions against building on any part of the remaining land now restricted so that the entire area within the new street lines could be built upon. They also ask the privilege to extend the basements below the sidewalk level to a distance 12 feet beyond their building line.

I am of the opinion that it is advantageous to the city that the restrictions on the above property be released and that the conveyance of the strip of land from the trustees be accepted in order that the above widenings be made. The restrictions on this property were placed thereon at a time when Copley square and its vicinity were quite different than at present, and are such as will now retard the natural development and best use of this land.

As to granting to the trustees the right to use the space below the sidewalks, I feel that were it absolutely necessary for the proposed building to have this space, it would be aiding an excellent project to grant it, but I think in view of the fact that the new charter makes it possible for the city to charge for space under the sidewalks throughout the city, it is perhaps establishing a precedent that might be used in other cases to get these rights without the payment of rent.

I think the trustees of the Copley Square should be satisfied if the city were to release the restrictions and accept the conveyance of the strips of land for the proposed widenings, and leave the matter of sidewalk privileges for the future. After they have definitely decided on their building plans, this privilege could be secured from the Street Commissioners subject to the same conditions and terms as apply to the owners.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN C. KILEY.

May 26, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor, City Hall:

Dear Sir,—Since writing the inclosed report pertaining to the release of restrictions on the real estate formerly occupied by the Museum of Fine Arts, I have been requested to say by Mr. Henry Whitmore, representing the owners, that they are willing to waive their request for vault privileges under the sidewalks in connection with the proposition they make.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN C. KILEY.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 3, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letters from Laurence Minot, Esq., and Francis R. Hart, Esq., protesting against the release of certain restrictions on the estate known as the old Art Museum property which has been asked for by the Copley Square Trust.

Respectfully,
WALTER BALLANTYNE, Acting Mayor.

Boston, June 2, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—I see by the morning paper that you have called a special meeting of the City Council for to-morrow afternoon to consider a proposition made by the trustees of the Copley Square Trust for the release by the City of Boston of certain restrictions and setbacks on their property, and that you have recommended acceptance of the offer made by the trustees.

I desire to call your attention to the fact that the release of these setbacks as now proposed would be entirely at variance with the logical development of the streets which your Honor has recently approved on the property of the Park Square Real Estate Trust.

Stuart street, so called, was designed by the trustees especially with a view to its future extension to Dartmouth street and with particular reference to the fact that a 25-foot setback existed on that portion of the old Art Museum lot between Trinity place and Dartmouth street, so that that portion of Stuart street could at any time be widened to 65 feet without disturbing any buildings.

The widening of Providence street to 100 feet was especially designed with a view to the widening and extension of St. James avenue at a similar width from Copley square to Arlington street, and was designed especially in view of the fact that the vacant land in front of the old Art Museum was subject to restriction and could at any future time be taken so as to conform to a widening of St. James avenue without interference with any buildings.

The trustees of course realized the great difficulties in the way of widening and extending St. James avenue as proposed and it may not in the end prove to be a feasible thing to do, although my own belief is that with time and patience it may be accomplished, and it was on the strength of that belief that the Park Square Trustees were willing to widen Providence street at the present time so that the way might be kept open for the widening and extension of St. James avenue. Should the widening of St. James avenue be further blocked by the release of the restrictions on the Art Museum lot, it is very doubtful whether the Park Square Trustees would care to proceed with the widening of Providence street, and if the setback on the Museum property, opposite Stuart street, is released by the city, it is at least questionable whether the trustees would care to proceed with the extension of that street on their own property. The construction of these streets has already begun, but I have ordered the work stopped pending the result of the city's action in regard to the offer made by the Copley Square Trustees.

The acceptance by the city of the offer made by the Copley Square Trustees would do irreparable injury to the property of the Park Square Trust, would reopen the entire question of streets on that property, cancel all work and negotiations now in progress, and probably delay the development of this whole territory for a year. The proposed release of these setbacks would further permanently block what seems to be the best opportunity for procuring a much needed thoroughfare from the Back Bay to the South Station and for relieving the congestion on Boylston street.

I therefore feel that in justice to both public and private interests the offer of the Copley Square Trustees should not be hastily acted upon, and I ask that the trustees of the Park Square Trust and the public generally be given an opportunity to be heard on this question before definite action is taken. I am to-day writing to the members of the City Council making the same request of them.

Yours truly,
LAURENCE MINOT.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology,
17 Court street, Boston, June 2, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—As a member of the Executive Committee of the Corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to whom the matter of the Institute's real estate holdings on Trinity place has been referred as a special committee, I have noted with some anxiety the action regarding Stuart street requested by the Trustees of the Copley Square Trust, as in my opinion the future development of that section is likely to require conversion of Stuart street into a broad thoroughfare, connecting the territory to the east with Dartmouth street. For this reason I urge upon your Honor the expediency of taking no hasty action which will prejudice the opportunity in the future of making the section of Stuart street now being considered the requisite width to meet the conditions likely to arise. I sincerely trust, therefore, that before any action such as is suggested is taken by the city, an opportunity will be given to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to be heard in the matter.

I have taken the liberty of writing this letter on behalf of the Institute, as the President of the Corporation is ill, and its treasurer abroad.

I beg to remain, your Honor,

Your very obedient servant,
FRANCIS R. HART,
Member of Corporation,
M. I. T.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, this seems to be a matter of great concern, particularly with respect to the development of this district, and there seems to be a strong opposition to the petition being granted. Accordingly, sir, I do not believe that at this time we should act hastily upon the proposition, but should refer it to the Executive Committee with instructions to give a public hearing. I also understand that there are a number of gentlemen who are here to-day to say a word concerning this matter. If it is the pleasure of the Board, I move you, sir, that we hear them forthwith.

Coun. CURLEY moved as a substitute that the subject be assigned for two weeks.

The question came on Coun. Curley's motion to assign for two weeks.

Coun. Curley's motion to assign for two weeks was lost.

President BALLANTYNE—The question comes on Coun. Collins' motion that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee with instructions to give a public hearing.

Coun. BRAND moved as a substitute motion that the gentlemen be heard today.

President BALLANTYNE—The question is on Coun. Collins' motion to refer to the Executive Committee with instructions to give a public hearing.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I would call your attention to the substitute motion which I made.

President BALLANTYNE—The motion of Coun. Collins takes precedence of the substitute motion of Coun. Brand.

Coun. Collins' motion, to refer to the Executive Committee, with instructions to give a public hearing, was declared carried. Coun. BRAND doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

Coun. Collins' motion was declared carried, yeas 8, nays 0.

BIDS FOR STREET LIGHTING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 27, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to forward a letter of the Superintendent of Streets, in reply to a request contained in your order passed May 16, that he "invite bids for installing, equipping and maintaining with gas or electricity 12,000 lamps, more or less, for such streets, parks and alleys as may from time to time be designated by the city for alternative periods of five or ten years from July 31, 1910."

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Street Department,

City Hall, Boston, May 26, 1910.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In the matter of the inclosed order of the City Council, under date of May 16, 1910, "That the Superintendent of Streets of the City of Boston be requested to invite bids for installing, equipping and maintaining with gas or electricity 12,000 lamps, more or less, for such streets, parks and alleys as may from time to time be designated by the city for alternative periods of five or ten years from July 31, 1910," I have considered the matter contained and still hold to the opinion expressed in my letter of February 7, 1910, to you on the subject of lighting, that it is exceedingly doubtful if additional bidders or lower prices would be obtained for gas lighting by readvertising.

In the matter of electric lighting I am again informed by authorities of the Edison Company that the conditions existing under their present contract are the only ones that they care to make, the present contract being capable of extension to replace all the gas lamps for the price of $22.31 per lamp year, or for a ten-year period at the price of $21.13 per lamp year. Moreover, the preparation of specifications for combined gas and electric lighting would require a time beyond the limits of my incumbency in this office. If, however, you desire that I shall readvertise for gas lighting, please advise me.

The order is directed to the Superintendent of Streets and I would request that you transmit the above to the City Council if you deem such action advisable.

Respectfully,

GEY C. EMERSON,
Superintendent of Streets.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

DAY OFF FOR CITY LABORERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 1, 1910.

To the City Council:

The employees of the Park Department belonging to section 7576 of the Knights of Labor have requested permission to hold their annual picnic or outing without incurring a loss of wages for the day. As they are all laboring men or mechanics who, unlike salaried employees, receive no annual vacation, it seems to me only proper that they should be permitted to enjoy this brief respite from toil without being deprived of wages which most of them can ill afford to lose. It is the opinion of the Corporation Counsel that while the heads of departments cannot legally grant holidays without loss of pay, the City Council has the authority to do so.

I recommend that your honorable body take such action as will authorize heads of departments to grant holidays without loss of pay under circumstances similar to those that have arisen in the Park Department.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

In connection with the message Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 587 of the Acts of 1908, the officer or board in charge of any department be hereby authorized to grant a holiday, without loss of pay, to the employees of his or their department on the day of the annual picnic of such department.

Message and order referred to the Executive Committee.

Whereas, The Superintendent of Streets, now having charge of said strip of land, has notified the City Council that a certain portion of said strip of land is no longer required for public purposes;

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized, in the name and behalf of the city, and in accordance with the provisions of chapter 25, section 50, of the Revised Laws of Massachusetts, to execute a deed conveying to Patrick Meehan the following described portion of the land taken as above, namely:

A triangular strip of land bounded northeasterly by Rossmore road, formerly Keyes street, about 2½ feet; bounded southeasterly by land now or formerly of Patrick Meehan, by a broken line about 72½ feet; bounded northwesterly by land of the City of Boston about 73½ feet, and containing 74 square feet of land, more or less, as shown as an addition to a plan marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 190, Sewerage Works, Stony Brook, West Roxbury, July 28, 1906, William Jackson, City Engineer," said addition having been made May 10, 1910, and said plan being deposited in the office of the Street Department, Sewer Division; the consideration of said conveyance to be a release by said Patrick Meehan to the City of Boston of a parcel of land containing about 28 square feet, taken by the Board of Street Commissioners for the improvement of Stony brook on July 23, 1908, and also shown on the plan above described, and a release of all damages on account of said taking.

On May 16 the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was read a second time and again passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

Coun. HALE called up unfinished business, No. 4, viz.:

4. Report of the Committee on Public Lands, recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized in the name and in the behalf of the city to release to Patrick Meehan a certain strip of land containing seventy-four square feet, more or less, situate in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury, southeasterly from Rossmore road, formerly called Keyes street, and northwesterly of land of said Meehan, adjoining land of the City of Boston, taken for the relocation of Stony brook under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners of July 23, 1908, and shown on a plan, numbered one hundred ninety, sewerage works, William Jackson, City Engineer, on file in the office of the City Engineer. The consideration of said release is that said Meehan shall release to the City of Boston a strip of land containing twenty-eight square feet, more or less, next to and adjoining said strip of seventy-four square feet, being a part of said taking for Stony brook relocation under the aforesaid order of July 23, 1908.

Indefinitely postponed, on motion of Coun. HALE.

ADJOURNMENT.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I move that we adjourn and reassemble as in Executive Committee.

The motion was lost.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I move that we take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I move as a substitute motion that we do now adjourn. I don't see the sense of reassembling after this session is over. We are to have another important matter to consider this afternoon, and we have our own business to attend to. I see no necessity of reassembling for a meeting in this chamber after we have heard the gentlemen who are here to be heard.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, if there were any real reason for reconvening later, I would be perfectly willing that we should reconvene, but, as I understand it, we have transacted the business that was before us to transact in our meeting and the only thing left for us to do is to give a hearing in Executive Committee to certain petitioners. After that there will be no further business for this body, as I understand it. I would like to be informed, therefore, why we should not adjourn at this time.

President BALLANTYNE—The Chair understands that there is no further business to come before this meeting.

Coun. KENNY—So if we adjourn now there is nothing to prevent our reassembling as in executive session for the hearing?

President BALLANTYNE—There is nothing to prevent our assembling in executive session for the hearing.

Coun. KENNY—Then, why should we not do that?

President BALLANTYNE—That is for the members of the Board to decide.

Coun. Brand's motion, that the Board take a recess, subject to the call of the Chair, was lost.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 1.30 p. m., to meet on Monday, June 13, at 3 p. m.

NEW YORK LOOKS AFTER WHITE PLAGUE PATIENTS.

The Board of Aldermen of New York City has concurred in the Board of Estimate resolution authorizing the issue of $50,000 in corporate stock for the completion and equipment of the West Tuberculosis Pavilion, at the Metropolitan Hospital, Blackwell Island.

Commissioner Drummond told the Aldermen's Finance Committee that at present the Department of Charities was forced to house 875 tuberculosis patients at the Metropolitan Hospital but had proper accommodations for only 500. The new West pavilion will provide for 224 patients and the East 112. Both these pavilions can be used as soon as the money appropriated becomes available.

MONTHLY CONFERENCE.

Boston, June 6, 1910.

First monthly conference, under ordinance of May 16, 1910, between the City Council and heads of city departments, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at three o'clock p. m.

Mr. William P. Fowler, of the Institutions Registration Department, presided, and in calling the conference to order, said:

The meeting will please come to order and the City Clerk will read the ordinance that calls for the meeting.

The Clerk read the ordinance, as follows:

City of Boston,
In City Council.

In the year Nineteen Hundred and Ten.
An Ordinance Providing for Monthly Conferences of Heads of Departments.
Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

The City Council of the City of Boston and the heads of the following departments: Bath, Building, Engineering, Fire, Health, Hospital, Library, Park, Public Buildings, Public Grounds, Schoolhouse, Street Commissioners, Treasury, Water and Wire, and of such other departments as may be designated by the Mayor, shall meet at the City Hall at three o'clock on the first Monday in every month for discussion and co-operation concerning the business of the city and the respective departments. The Mayor, or such person as he may designate, shall act as chairman, and on organization the City Clerk shall act as secretary and he shall mail notices of all the meetings.

The City Council and the heads of departments so assembled shall in their discretion, upon application of accredited representatives of associations and organizations interested in city affairs, designate a time when such representatives may appear before them and be heard upon the subject of their application.

The Clerk also read the following:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 27, 1910.

John T. Priest, Esq.,
City Clerk, City Hall:

Dear Mr. Priest,—I am directed by his Honor Mayor Fitzgerald, to notify you that the regular monthly conference of the City Council and the heads of certain departments should be called for Monday afternoon, June 6, at three o'clock. He has designated William P. Fowler, Esq., Institutions Registrar, to preside at the meeting.

Yours very truly,

WILLIAM A. LEAHY, Secretary.

Placed on file.

Coun. BRAND—The first duty of the meeting, I presume, is to appoint a permanent chairman. I therefore move you that Mr. Fowler be designated as chairman of this meeting. Those in favor of the motion will signify it in the usual manner.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I don't think that motion is necessary. The chairman is designated by the Mayor.

Chairman FOWLER—The ordinance says that "the Mayor, or such person as he may designate, shall act as chairman," so, no matter whom we might elect at this particular meeting, my interpretation of the ordinance would be that the person so designated by the Mayor is the one who should act as chairman of the particular meeting for which he was so designated.

Coun. BRAND—I understood that the Mayor designated yourself as the chairman to call the meeting to order, and I presumed that it was then proper to elect a permanent chairman.

Coun. BALLANTYNE The ordinance says that the Mayor shall preside or designate the presiding officer, and the Mayor in this case has designated Mr. Fowler as chairman of this meeting.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, that being so, I move that the City Messenger and his assistant be designated to act as messengers for the meeting.

Coun. Brand's motion was carried.

Chairman FOWLER—The chair is ready to receive any motion. The members of the conference called here to-day would, I suppose, be very glad to know something of the reasons why this conference is called and the objects of our meeting here to-day. Not being very familiar myself with those objects, except in a general way, I have asked Mr. Sturgis, the chairman of the Schoolhouse Commission, to speak to you briefly, to tell us all what the design of this conference is and why it was brought about.

Mr. R. CLIPSTON STURGIS—Mr. Fowler, before the meeting proceeds with its regular work and before I attempt to outline the object of this meeting, I would suggest that it might be desirable to have the roll called so that we may know what heads of departments are represented, and who is present. No one, of course, is authorized to be present except those designated by this ordinance.

The roll was called and Coun. Ballantyne, Brand and McDonald responded. (The other members of the Council appeared later.)

The following heads or representatives of departments responded: Building Commissioner, Mr. Arthur G. Everett; Dr. John H. McCollom, representing the Hospital Department; Library

Trustee, William F. Kenney; Park Commissioner, Mr. Robert S. Peabody; Public Buildings Superintendent, Mr. George W. Morrison; Public Grounds Superintendent, Mr. D. Henry Sullivan; Schoolhouse Commissioner, Mr. R. Clipston Sturgis; Street Commissioners, Mr. James A. Gallivan and Mr. John H. Dunn, Wire Commissioner, Mr. James E. Cole.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, I move you that those who are not entitled to be present in the room withdraw until the business meeting is over.

Mr. GALLIVAN—Mr. Chairman, I move that the press be admitted to this conference.

(Mr. Gallivan's suggestion was accepted by Mr. Sturgis.)

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. Chairman, I would say that there are representatives of different city governments here who have been invited to be present by those who are to show the pictures to-day, and I would move that those gentlemen be invited to sit with us.

The motion, with the two exceptions noted, was carried, and others present were requested to withdraw.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, ever since I have been on the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners I have been struck by the difficulties encountered, owing to the fact that I was not familiar with the work going on in the city in other departments, work intimately connected with that of my department, which I simply did not know about and which I could not readily find out about. It has not been the fact that the other departments were not ready to co-operate. They always were, but the trouble was that the various departments did not know just what was going on. The result was that over and over again we have done things that have caused delay and expense to the City of Boston in my department, simply owing to the fact that there was not definite co-operation with other heads of departments. I think I can perhaps make this clearer by giving a single instance. The City of Boston bought land and prepared to expend about three-quarters of a million in building the Normal School and the Girls' Latin, the common building between the two, and the Patrick A. Collins School. At that time the land that we took adjoined land that belonged to the City of Boston, the Park Department. It adjoined land that had already been laid out by the Board of Survey as a Board of Survey street; it adjoined Worthington street, that had already been accepted by the city but had not yet been paved, laid down, or equipped with sewers. Our first step, and a step which took time, simply because of lack of this sort of co-operation, was with the Park Department. We wanted the right to cross their property to reach the school. They were very courteous about it, met us halfway, agreed to let us have the footways across the park that we wanted; but it took three times as much time as should have been necessary to get that through, and in order to do it we were obliged to pay for the paving of the paths. That was right and proper. We had also to pay for the paving of the whole length of sidewalk that bordered the park property. We then wanted the Board of Survey street taken and paved and the sidewalk paved. After a good many efforts to get that street taken—and it was adjacent to city property where three-quarters of a million was to be spent—we finally were forced to take the width of the sidewalk ourselves, pay for the land and pave the sidewalk. As soon as we started on the undertaking we reported that we wanted to have connection with the metropolitan sewer, which was the only sewer deep enough for our low boiler work. Eventually we got that connection, but it took six or eight months' work before that connection was made, and meanwhile cost the City of Boston, the School House Department, $3,000 for pumping to keep our excavations dry, because the sewer was not in. That was not the fault of any one of the other departments, it was simply the fault of the system. Six months ago I suggested to two heads of departments with whom I happen to come into pretty frequent contact that it would be a good plan if the heads of departments could get together at intervals. They seemed to think it would be of advantage, that it would be of interest to every one of us to know what was going on in the various parts of the city, so that the things in which we were interested might dovetail together, instead of being done haphazard and not fitting together. The next step I took, therefore, was to suggest the matter at a monthly meeting of the Boston Society of Architects. In order to thresh the subject out I asked Mr. Charles to be our guest, and I had also Mr. Upham, a lawyer, who is always interested in public affairs of various kinds, and Mr. A. D. Hill, who is equally interested in such matters. Addresses were made, and the society voted to appoint a committee and request the Mayor to draw up an ordinance calling together the City Council and the heads of certain departments for a monthly conference. Mr. Upham, with his legal knowledge, very kindly drew up the terms of the ordinance, and about two months ago it was presented to the Mayor, who received it very favorably, said he thought it would be a good idea and that it would be of advantage to every one of us who were working for the city to be able to know what was going on in the various departments and how these things are going to be dovetailed together. It was not until this notice came to me that I knew that the thing had really been done, and I don't see how this particular meeting can be anything except preliminary, because the idea of the meeting was that each head of a department should come to the meetings loaded with all the things that he wanted to bring before the others, everything in his department that he thought had a bearing on one or more of the other departments, and that then we could have a general discussion, kept in order by the Mayor, who should preside, so as to hold the speakers to the subject, and get things settled one after another—or, at all events, get things going along in the right line. It was too late for me to prepare the long list of things I have touching other departments, but I have in my list here perhaps twenty odd items of new school propositions that are in every stage, from being nearly complete to the stage where we have only just advertised for land; and we have never taken one step in connection with a school building but what we have touched some of the other departments of the City of Boston—it may be the Street Department, the Sewer Division, the Park Department, the Public Grounds Department, the Public Buildings Department. There are half a dozen departments that we touch here and there in almost every project we undertake. When we bought land on Ferdinand street there was a general rumor that Arlington street was going to be extended. If we had had this meeting at that time the heads of departments could have got together and there whether it was desirable for the City of Boston, through its Schoolhouse Department, to set that big building back so that the street could be widened or not. On my own responsibility I kept the building back 20 feet so that Ferdinand street could be widened by 20 feet. That was all I could set it back without purchasing more land, and I didn't feel justified in purchasing more land. The Board has now purchased land for the High School of Commerce. There is a proposition that is going to involve an expenditure of at least the appropriation of $600,000, and there is no sewer there that we can get into with our boiler plant. The nearest sewer—we are between Common and Warren streets—is away down Washington street, at the corner of Bennett, a sewer down low enough for us to get into. There is a pressing question right there. If the city is going to put $600,000 into that school it wants to be sure just how it is to take care of the different problems connected with it. I don't want to take up any more time in giving you instances. What I have said simply shows what was in my mind as showing the necessity of our getting together and arranging for these conferences. My feeling is that, as far as to-day is concerned, none of the departments have come prepared to make definite statements about what to bring before this joint meeting. Personally it seems to me that about all we can do to-day is to discuss the general situation and see whether the heads of departments are in accord with the idea.

Chairman FOWLER—Gentlemen, you have heard Mr. Sturgis, and you know now why we are here. I shall be very glad to hear from any member of the conference as to plans which may have a bearing upon our future usefulness as a conference. The Chair is ready to hear any motion. There is a very full representation of the Council, and I think there are some eleven or twelve heads of departments here; and it would seem as if there might be some ideas generated in the brains of some of these gentlemen as to the future usefulness or the management of these conferences.

Mr. ROBERT S. PEABODY—Mr. Chairman, I would like to express my belief that these will be very useful sort of meetings. I don't know as it will be so useful to-day, because we are not prepared with different subjects. But Mr. Sturgis and I in the last day or two have had for consideration, a matter concerning the Paul Revere School which involves his department, the Bath Department and the Park Department. Those three departments come together in the matter, and any difficulties might very well be straightened out in a conference of this kind. We are not prepared to go into that here to-day, but that sort of subject could very well be talked over in such a meeting, with great advantage. I believe in these meetings, although I don't suppose we are prepared to do anything definite to-day.

Mr. EVERETT—Mr. Chairman, I think it might be necessary to take some steps to notify the different organizations in Boston who may desire to appear before us, so that they may have an opportunity to do so. They may not all know of this ordinance, and I think it might be wise to send notice to the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

Chairman FOWLER—Do you make that as a motion?

Mr. EVERETT—I move, Mr. Chairman, that the clerk or secretary be directed to notify the organizations in Boston interested in city affairs, so that they may have an opportunity to consult with the Council and heads of departments.

Chairman FOWLER—The City Clerk suggests that you particularize at least somewhat, if possible, Mr. Everett, so that he may know to whom to send the notice if the vote is passed.

Mr. EVERETT—Might that be left for future consideration? I think there are several organizations that might be thought of whom it would be wise to notify. Several of us might get together and send a list of such organizations to the secretary.

Chairman FOWLER—Your motion includes organizations, the names of which may be furnished to the City Clerk by members of the conference?

Mr. EVERETT—Yes.

Chairman FOWLER—That notices be sent to such organizations as are interested in civic affairs, so that they may have this opportunity to appear before a conference composed of the City Council of Boston and the heads of the various departments meeting monthly throughout the year under the new ordinance.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, as chairman of the Committee on Ordinances that drafted the ordinance, I would say that it was the intention at least of the Committee on Ordinances that all civic organizations throughout the city and the improvement associations be invited to attend these conferences of the heads of departments with the City Council. A list of these organizations or associations can be obtained at the office of the Mayor. It was our intention that the City Clerk, who has some leisure occasionally, should be given an opportunity to notify those various organizations. I feel that perhaps it is unnecessary to press Mr. Everett's motion, in view of that fact.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, I don't know whether it is in order at this time to speak about a matter that I wish to bring to the attention of the body or not; but the heads of departments are here, and I understand that it is the intention of the members of the City Council to take advantage of this opportunity to make such inquiries regarding pending matters as to them may seem expedient and proper. In the early part of this year the City Council transferred $35,000 which had been appropriated a year ago for the specific purpose of enlarging the women's bath at the L Street Bath House, so that the entire amount was made applicable to the whole plant there. About that time the former chairman of the Bath Commission called at my office and said that the Bath Commission was anxious to have that brought about in order that they might go forward with the development of a plan which they had looking to the enlargement of the L street baths. Acting on that recommendation I recommended to the City Council that that money be made available for the entire plant at L street. Subsequently I was informed that there was some difference of opinion, or that there was some friction, between the Bath Department and the Park Department, which prevented the extension of the bath on the water front, and that they would not be able to proceed,—go forward with that contemplated development, enlarging the bathing facilities there. I would like to know from both those departments just what the status of that matter is—whether they intend to go forward this year and spend any part of that $35,000 which we appropriated, or if they are in accord at this time on the matter of the extension of the bathing facilities on the water front. I understood that it would take $4,000 or $5,000 to bring about certain renovations,—to make certain improvements,—owing to the storms of last winter, to put the bath in proper condition for opening this summer, but that if the entire work could be started and finished as contemplated under these plans, that money might be saved so that the expenditure of $35,000 of itself would cover everything. I would now like to be informed, as a member of the Council, just what has been going on between the Bath Department and the Park Department in that matter.

Chairman FOWLER—That would be quite in order, it seems to me, but I think we ought first to dispose of the motion made by Mr. Everett. Have you withdrawn the motion, Mr. Everett?

Mr. EVERETT—It seems hardly necessary.

Chairman FOWLER—Then, perhaps representatives of the Bath and Park Departments can answer the query proposed by Coun. Kenny—or if they have any objection to doing so they may state it.

Mr. PEABODY—I don't know whether any representative of the Bath Department is here to-day, but it seems to me that is the very kind of thing that ought to be debated at these meetings; that you could not name a better subject. In the first place, I want to say that, as far as I know, there is not the slightest friction between the two departments. If there is, I am perfectly unaware of it. Certainly the Park Department knows of no friction in the matter. Of course, the Bath Department is the one handling the appropriation, and they know about that. But a year ago a plan was presented to the Park Department for the extension of the L Street Bath Houses along the boulevard, and to our mind—to our judgment—it seemed a pity to wall the boulevard off from the street by a much longer barrier than exists there to-day. Besides, it would wall up the ends of the streets, and we objected to that; and while we were discussing that the season advanced so that nothing happened. There was a proposition that the bath should be turned over to the care of the Park Department, and while that was under discussion, the season got so far advanced that nothing was done. A little while ago the recent chairman of the Bath Department told me that he had three or four designs for new arrangements of bath houses there and was going to bring them down and talk them over with us, and expected to build one of them at once, and he wanted to know if we would be ready to put it through at once—since which we have heard nothing of that. So there is nothing before the Park Commission at this moment on the subject, but we should be very glad to consider it. We have the use of that particular bath as much at heart as anybody can have, and want to see the thing carried through properly. I am ready to give it every attention myself, and I know the other commissioners feel the same way. But we don't know at the present time what the Bath Commission wants. We shall be very glad to look into the matter and study it. But we have a profound conviction that the thing might be studied and arranged so that it would not cut off an expensive boulevard from the view of the sea, and the first proposition would have done that. We were defending the view of the ocean from the park,—that is all. I don't think there is anybody here representing the Bath Commission. That is the way the matter stands from the point of view of the Park Commissioner.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, I very much regret that there is not some one here from the Bath Department. I referred to what I supposed was friction, because I understood that the Bath Department had a plan to extend the men's department at L street some 200 feet toward M street, going easterly from the present location, and that the Park Department objected to that extension. That is what I referred to as some friction between those departments. I am now anxious to hear from the Bath Department, because I want to find out what is to be done with that $35,000. That was the object of my rising.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. Chairman, while we are on this subject I would like to inquire from chairman Peabody just what is the jurisdiction of the Park Department and the Bath Department on matters of this kind—not in regard to the appropriating of this $35,000, but as to the jurisdiction which each should exercise in places like L street, McKenzie Beach, etc.?

Mr. PEABODY—I am afraid for an absolute answer to that you will have to appeal to some higher authority than myself. As I understand it, the Bath Department expends that money in places where they simply have to receive our approval. Just an exact statement of our relations I have not on my tongue's end. We have nothing to do with the expenditure of that money except to approve or disapprove plans, and I suppose as to the placing of buildings on the park property. Only recently at McKenzie Beach there has been quite a long discussion in relation to replacing the bath houses destroyed by the storm. They were a very shabby set of houses and it was proposed to put them back in exactly the same way and we protested. If we are going to have some bath houses, we had better have them decent and respectable. Finally a plan was made for buildings, not very extravagant but they are simply going to be neat. That is the process we go through. I don't know exactly the legal relations we bear to each other, but we have acceded to their desire to have those bath houses placed there, and I suppose they will place them there now.

Coun. COLLINS—On matters of this kind I would like to ask Mr. Peabody through you, Mr. Chairman, if he does not think it would be a wise thing, where the jurisdiction is concurrent, that both boards should sit jointly on matters of that kind?

Mr. PEABODY—Mr. Chairman, I don't know just exactly what that would involve. I think we ought to act together in some concert. I do want to say, however, that what has happened has not involved friction. We simply do our duty as we see it, and there is no friction—certainly none that I know about.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, if there is no other business I move that we adjourn.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I sincerely trust that Mr. Sturgis will withdraw that motion. As I understand it there is some representative of a street surfacing company that desires to give an exhibition here; and there are members of the Council present who desire to ask some questions that can only be answered by heads of departments who are here this afternoon.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, I don't understand that the heads of departments are called together for this purpose. Unless a certain definite organization asks to be heard on a definite subject, I don't understand that the heads of departments are called together for the purpose of having various commercial propositions exhibited.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I feel that it would be advisable for Mr. Sturgis, if he doesn't understand it that way, to read over the ordinance. If he will withdraw his motion, I have a question that I desire to ask of the head of the Public Grounds Department.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, I certainly will withdraw the motion. I thought there was no more business.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask Mr. Sullivan what progress is being made in the extermination of the moths in the city.

Mr. D. HENRY SULLIVAN—The work is not satisfactory, owing, of course, entirely to the amount of the appropriation. We have been trying for four or five years to obtain what we considered sufficient money to do that work. We have been co-operating with the state authorities, who are familiar with the conditions and our work has been inspected by the State Commission. Last year we received $40,000 for the work. This year we receive practically the same. We know from our experience that it will cost about $75,000 to do the work. The state advises that the work be done in this way—to go through the entire state on destruction work, and later, in the spring and early summer, to go through the entire state spraying which, in the opinion of the State Commission, is the proper way to do the work. But with the money that we have available we go through one-half of the city on destruction work and the other half on spraying work. The state authorities, as well as myself, are satisfied that if we had perhaps for three years an appropriation of $75,000 we could get the infestation under fair control, and after that perhaps $25,000 or $30,000 would be ample. But the way we are doing the work to-day is not entirely satisfactory. With the amount of money available we cannot do any more than we are doing.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I should like to ask Mr. Sullivan in the manner in which they have been conducting their campaign against the moths, there is any possibility of their exterminating or reducing the number of moths.

Mr. SULLIVAN—Well, now, they tell me that they want to keep them in a fair state of suppression, but we cannot do it with the amount of money we receive.

Coun. CURLEY—As a matter of fact, you think it will require about $75,000 a year for about three years in order to have the work effective?

Mr. SULLIVAN—Yes, for three or four years.

Coun. CURLEY—Have you asked for that money?

Mr. SULLIVAN—Did one year.

Coun. CURLEY—Have you any objection to asking for it again?

Mr. SULLIVAN—I should ask for it every year if I thought there was any chance of getting it.

Coun. CURLEY—Do you take charge of the work on the trees in connection with the public schools?

Mr. SULLIVAN—No, sir.

Coun. CURLEY—Why don't you?

Mr. SULLIVAN—Well, we haven't any right to enter that property.

Coun. CURLEY—You haven't been invited, have you?

Mr. SULLIVAN—Yes, we did the work one season, but the School Committee paid for the work. They called on us the following season, but we didn't really have sufficient men to do our own work and we had to refuse to do the work.

Coun. CURLEY—About how much money, Mr. Sullivan, has been expended up to the present time in the work of suppression and extermination?

Mr. SULLIVAN—The first year, if I remember rightly, about $52,000; I think the second year, 1907, was about the same; the amount in 1908 was $25,000; last year it was about $39,000. This year we have an appropriation of $40,000.

Coun. CURLEY—All told you have spent about $208,000?

Mr. SULLIVAN—But the greater part of that money has been refunded by tax levy.

Coun. CURLEY—Well, if you did spend $75,000 a year, about the same proportion would be refunded as is now refunded on the amount you spend?

Mr. SULLIVAN—A greater proportion. The greater the amount of work you do the greater the percentage that comes back.

Coun. CURLEY—Now, if your department started in on a campaign and spent $75,000 a year and the Park Department did nothing or next to nothing it would be impossible for your work to be successful, wouldn't it?

Mr. SULLIVAN—Well, they always do some work.

Coun. CURLEY—They do some work; that is new.

Mr. SULLIVAN—Of course, we expect co-operation. I know that the outside towns are willing to co-operate with us.

Coun. HALE—Mr. Chairman, nobody can be more in favor of this kind of monthly conference than I am, but I think there are very grave dangers connected with it. I think it is apt to simmer down to a mere discussion of generalities, or no discussion at all in the proper sense of the word, and I would like to make a motion that I think would help to obviate that difficulty. I would like to move that any member of the conference—that is, any head of a department or any member of the Council who is interested in any particular subject—shall notify the chairman of the conference some time within a week before the conference is to be held as to the subject he wishes to bring up; that those subjects, as sent to the chairman, be put in the form of a docket; and that the discussion at each meeting be confined to the subjects on the docket. That is the way a great many of this kind of conferences are run and I think it would make these meetings a great deal more successful and satisfactory than a conference that has no plan of that kind. I would make that motion.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, do I understand that any other subject will be excluded except the subjects upon which such due notice is given?

Chairman FOWLER—I so understood the motion—that the conference be confined to the subjects upon which this notice of a week has been given.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, I think that would be a ridiculous proposition. I think that any member of the Council or head of a department who has a matter to bring before the conference should have the privilege of bringing it before the conference when we meet. It may be desirable to send out advance notices of some important matters, as Coun. Hale has suggested, but we should not exclude other subjects.

Mr. STURGIS—I think that the object of the ordinance was perfectly clear. It reads, "shall in their discretion upon application of accredited representatives of associations and organizations interested in city affairs, designate a time when such representatives may appear before them and be heard."

It was certainly the intention of those who worded this ordinance that it should enable every public body interested in city affairs—whether the improvement associations of Dorchester, the Chamber of Commerce, or other organizations—to make formal application to the City Clerk and ask for permission to be heard upon certain definite subjects; and that this conference of members of the City Council and heads of departments would receive those requests, act upon them, and fix a time when the subjects would be heard. My own feeling about it is that if every one of us who has a right to be here in this meeting were allowed to give permission to anybody else or any other body of men to appear here at the next meeting, in July, we might find ourselves so swamped with matter that might or might not be relevant that we would not have time to attend to the things we had met for—because I anticipate that as these meetings become more definite in their form, the head of every department will have a certain number of things of general importance that he will wish to bring before the meetings. It seems to me that the City Clerk should be notified in advance, so that we may know that there are so many items and so that there can be a definite list of the things to be taken up and discussed. We ought in these conferences to be able to so arrange the work as to allow for complete consideration of the things that are to come before us in that way, and we can then perhaps devote some time to the hearing of things outside of that list which may be just as pertinent. For instance, the general improvement societies may have something to bring before the conference just as important as any item on the list of any head of a department, but it should be for the conference to decide and say whether that should be given the right of way over the regular order.

Chairman FOWLER—Do I understand that you are speaking in opposition to or in support of the motion made by Coun. Hale? (Laughter.)

Mr. STURGIS—How far back did that motion go?

Chairman FOWLER—His motion practically, I understand, was that there should be a docket prepared by the City Clerk from notices sent in by the heads of the departments or members of the City Council a week before the conference was to take place.

Mr. STURGIS—I am speaking in favor of that, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman FOWLER—Then your other remarks are only as to the organizations to be represented here?

Mr. STURGIS—Yes.

Coun. HALE—Mr. Chairman, in regard to Coun. Brand's criticism, of course the purpose of my motion was to systematize and not to stop discussion. Naturally, if any subject comes up at the meeting, after we have got through with the docket it may be considered. My motion was not intended to limit debate but to systematize it so that we might get through with the business before us.

Chairman FOWLER—In other words, after the discussion of the docket other matters may be taken up?

Coun. HALE—Yes.

Chairman FOWLER—I think that will appeal to all the members present as a reasonable method of conducting business. Does that meet the objection of Coun. Brand?

Coun. BRAND—No; I think it would tend to exclude or keep away members of the city government or heads of departments who would naturally come otherwise. If some particular things that they were not interested in were coming up, they would not come here, and I think you would find that it would work just opposite to what you anticipate. Instead of it having the effect of simply placing definite subjects for discussion before us, this would be the result. We would look at a docket and perhaps find nothing on the calendar that interested us, and the heads of departments or the members of the City Council who did come would do so with a feeling that they were wasting their afternoon in coming and listening to a discussion of the particular things on that docket. I think the meetings should be open. I supposed that this idea was inaugurated in order to harmonize the interests of the various departments of the city and to bring in closer touch the members of the city government and the heads of departments, so that, instead of working at cross purposes, we might work as one harmonious whole. Now, if you are going to invite the various improvement associations and civic organizations of the city and we are going to have a calendar, having these subjects printed a week ahead, I don't believe we are going to reach any particular point. I think the meetings should be open, and if something should come up within a week, or even within a day or two of the time for the meeting, it should be the privilege of any head of a department or member of the Council to bring it before the Council.

The question came on Coun. Hale's motion. Mr. GALLIVAN—Mr. Chairman, I move that the motion be postponed until the next conference. I understand that Mayor Fitzgerald will be here at the next conference, and I guess he will tell us all what is to be done.

Chairman FOWLER—The question is on Coun. Hale's motion.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, I second the amendment of Mr. Gallivan.

Mr. GALLIVAN—Mr. Chairman, I don't think you gave anybody a chance to second my amendment. I insist that the amendment be put before the body. I understand that the Mayor will preside as a general thing, and I know that the Mayor will come pretty near telling what the conference will or will not take up. It is the most natural thing in the world, I should say, that a department head should favor the motion of Coun. Hale. If that motion prevails and a printed docket is sent out for these meetings hereafter, we are going to know what is to be discussed here and if we are not interested we are going to stay away. The idea of these conferences, I understand, is to bring the department heads here so that if they are wanted for something that may come up during the meeting they will be here to answer. The only way to get a full attendance of department heads is not to know what is going to take place here. For that reason I think the motion of the councilor ought not to prevail and I hope it will be postponed until the next conference. I press my motion.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, in reply to what Mr. Gallivan has said and on his amendment, I would say that I speak with a certain amount of authority. This was drawn up with the express idea not of bringing all the heads of departments together so that they might discuss general questions that might be fired at them, but so that the departments that had mutual interests might be sure to be brought together when those mutual interests were under consideration. In talking this matter over with the Mayor when it first was presented to him I told him just exactly what was in mind, that that was the intention of this thing. If on the docket Mr. Gallivan should see something that concerned the Street Commissioners he would say, "Well, there is a matter on which I had better be present at this meeting and hear what is said in regard to it," but if he went down the docket and found not a single item referring to the Street Commissioners at all, he would stay away, naturally. So would I, if there was not an item that touched my department in any way. The idea of this is to bring heads of departments together when things of mutual interest are to be decided, so that the heads of departments in the presence of the City Council and the Mayor may settle at once, for good and all, just what is for the best interests of the city on that subject; and it is not with the intention of having a general discussion of city affairs that the heads of departments are called together in this way. I think you mistake what is the object of this ordinance and of this conference, and I think the Mayor understood it in the way I have stated.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask Mr. Sturgis what earthly use there is, then, of the members of the City Council coming here and spending the afternoon, if his theory of the interpretation of the ordinance is correct?

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. Chairman, I don't think there is anybody here who understands the ordinance as drawn up but Mr. Sturgis. He says he drew it up. I was present when it was adopted here, and I got a different impression of what it meant and of what we were to be brought here for. I understood that the City Council were to meet the heads of the different departments and have a general discussion upon all matters of interest to the City Council, the heads of departments and the public in general. That was my understanding. If that is not so, if the ordinance does not mean that or was not drawn up to meet that, I think we ought to draw up a new ordinance or, if we have these conferences, if we are going to come here and discuss only some particular, specific thing, as has been suggested, some matter in which a particular improvement association or civic organization may be interested, why have a general conference for that purpose? It seems to me it would be useless and that the conference would mean nothing. There could be no valuable results from a conference like that. I think we ought to come here to discuss anything of interest to the city government, the heads of departments or to the public in general, to find out why things are or are not being done, to find out what rights we have in the premises, to find out the situation of things generally. If we are not to have that right, I should certainly move to amend the ordinance so that we will have that privilege. As Mr. Gallivan said, wait until the Mayor comes back and tells us what we should do. If he tells a different story from what has been told by Mr. Sturgis, we can hear it then. Let us find out where we fit. I certainly do not want to come here and waste an afternoon upon a certain small specific matter which does not call for any such general conference. If we are to come here of an afternoon let us discuss public questions of interest to the City Council, the heads of departments and the public, and let us come here with that purpose. I do not object to our having a docket. I think that is a proper thing, the same as we have a calendar for our meetings; but when we have once come here let us discuss everything in general, as Coun. Brand says, after the docket has been acted upon. We can have a docket and act upon or call up certain things and dispose of them, and we can then bring up other matters of interest to members of the City Council, heads of departments and the public, matters that may properly be considered in such a conference. While it is well enough to have a programme, let us at these conferences discuss everything in general, or not have them at all.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, there seems to be some conflict in relation to the ordinance and, as chairman of the Committee on Ordinances, I think we can straighten it out by the next meeting. I think it certainly was not intended that the City Council should have no voice in these proceedings, because certainly they represent the largest organization in the city that will attend any of these conferences, because they are elected by all the voters of Boston. I personally represent about 40,000, and I think Mr. Collins represents about 47,000; so certainly they should be borne in mind as well as the organizations which have been referred to. We made the ordinance and, after all, it is within our power to say whether we shall be considered or not. There seems to be some conflict of authority. I agree with what Coun. Hale says in relation to a calendar. I think that is the only sound method we can follow. In reference to the Mayor taking charge of the meetings, if he is permitted to take charge he will do all the talking. Nobody else will be permitted to say a word. In the City Council we have a calendar and rules which outline certain specific ways of doing business, and it is impossible for us to do anything or get anywhere unless we have certain rules to follow. We have a calendar. Now, we will say that I am interested in a matter that affects the Park Department, the Hospital Department or the Health Department. I write out my proposition and send word to the City Clerk, and the City Clerk has a notice sent to the head of the department affected. That matter appears on the calendar, and if any other member has anything, that also appears. If any civic organization desires any proposition considered, that appears on the calendar, and the head of the department affected is notified. In the general consideration of propositions I feel that these conferences are going to be beneficial. I feel that perhaps they will remove considerable criticism of pretty nearly all the city departments and particularly the School Department, and I feel that the place to discuss such questions as will be considered is right here in this way, where there may be an interchange of ideas, where we may, perhaps, prove to a certain head of a department that our ideas on certain questions are better than his ideas, although he feels that possibly his ideas are the best. In the matter of adjournment, in the view of the fact that the first Monday in July is the Fourth of July, it might be well for us to consider the proposition that when we do adjourn it be to another date, and I would move that when we do adjourn it be to meet on the eleventh of July, although that does not mean that I move an adjournment at this time.

Mr. STURGIS—Mr. Chairman, I do not seem to be able to speak without making myself misunderstood. I entirely agree with all that Coun. Curley has said. The heads of departments are called together in this way, although perhaps any one of them is interested in not more than one, two or three matters before the conference. But the members of the City Council are here because they represent the whole City of Boston and are interested in everything done by any department. They are much the most interested parties to these conferences. All I meant to say was that if there were not things on the docket which touched schoolhouses in any way or shape, I should not feel that I was neglecting my department if I did not come to the meeting, but if there was anything on the docket that touched my department I should feel that I must be here. As for the members of the Council, I should feel that they would want to be here at every meeting, because, no matter what the docket is, every single item is bound to deal with matters in which they are interested as representatives of the citizens. Of course, they ought to fire questions at the heads of the departments. If the schools are not being run right or built right I want to get that information straight from the Council, and I shall be glad to get it.

Mr. GALLIVAN—Mr. Chairman, I am very strongly in favor of postponement until we have a chance to hear from his Honor the Mayor, and I certainly hope the motion to postpone will prevail. It may be true that when he comes here he will do all the talking, but if he were here today—and I say this without any reflection on the chairman or the gentleman who has attempted to explain while we are here—we would probably know what we are here for. When he is able to be at one of these conferences we will get from him a definite idea—no matter how much talking he may do—of what these conferences are meant for, and without his presence we are all in the air. I certainly am, and I don't see any rays of intelligence scattered about this Board among the gentlemen at whom I am looking as to what we are here for. So I hope this motion will be postponed until the Mayor can be with us.

Chairman FOWLER—It seems to me you all want about the same thing. You want a calendar and you want to be able to discuss anything that comes up regardless of the calendar. Isn't that about it, all around? So I don't see what we will gain by postponing the matter. We will simply lose a month's time. That is, if the motion originally made prevails, you have a calendar, which is entirely at your discretion to use or abuse, and after it is considered you can consider anything that may be of interest to any gentleman here. However, I will put the motion to postpone first. The motion is to postpone the motion made by Coun. Hale and seconded, that the various heads of departments, the councillors, and others interested in these conferences, send to the City Clerk a week or so before the next meeting matters which they wish considered at the next meeting, and that from those a docket be made which shall be our guide for the next meeting. The motion has been made by Mr. Gallivan and seconded, that that motion be postponed until the next meeting. The question now comes on the motion to postpone.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, the objection I raised to the motion of Coun. Hale was that all other matters, with the exception of those that appeared on the calendar, were to be excluded. That was contrary—

Chairman FOWLER—I did not understand it so.

Coun. BRAND—I asked particularly about that, and he said, "Yes."

Coun. HALE—In regard to that I expressly said that that was not my intention; that it was simply intended to give precedence to things on the docket.

Chairman FOWLER—That is what I understood.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. Chairman, I do not wish to delay the meeting, but I listened attentively to what Mr. Sturgis had to say and I also heard Mr. Curley and others say that matters of general interest to the City Council and heads of departments could be discussed after the calendar had been disposed of. But in the course of his remarks Mr. Sturgis made the statement that if there was nothing on the docket that interested his department there would be no representative from his department here. Now, if that is to be so, how could we find out about anything that concerned the Schoolhouse Commission if there did not happen to be anything that concerned that commission on the docket? Some of us might wish to know about matters affecting that commission entirely apart from what appeared on the docket.

Chairman FOWLER—The point is well taken, but I don't understand that Mr. Sturgis is speaking for anybody but himself. That is, if he wishes to absent himself because nothing appears on the docket concerning his department, that is no reason why anybody else should do so. Presumably everybody is called to these conferences, and if anybody stays away it is on his own head. He should make his explanation to the conference or to the Mayor.

Coun. BUCKLEY—In view of that fact then, Mr. Chairman, I hope that the motion to postpone will prevail.

The motion to postpone Coun. Hale's motion to the next meeting was declared lost. Mr. GALLIVAN doubted the vote, a rising vote was taken, and Coun. Hale's motion was postponed to the next meeting by a vote of 10 to 8.

It was voted, on motion of Coun. Curley, that when the conference adjourned it be to meet on Monday, July 11, instead of Monday, July 4, at three o'clock p. m.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. Chairman, I move that it is the sense of this conference that all heads of departments attend all meetings without fail, and that the City Clerk so notify them.

Chairman FOWLER—I don't think that is at all necessary.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—And I don't think it is necessary, Mr. Chairman, to entertain that motion. It is already provided for in the ordinance that all heads of departments shall be here, and, as Mr. Gallivan says, the Mayor will come pretty near telling what will be done at the conferences, and I think he will come pretty near telling what heads of departments will come and what ones shall stay away.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. Chairman, if the ordinance says that the heads of departments shall be here, that is all that is necessary, but I understood the trend of the discussion to be, particularly from the remarks of the gentleman who, as he said, framed the ordinance, that if nothing of interest to his department was on the docket or nothing that affected his department, he wouldn't be here. Now, what I want to get at, if possible, is to have every head of a department here at every meeting.

(The Clerk read the ordinance.)
Chairman FOWLER—That, I think, answers your question.

Mr. CHARLES H. SLATTERY—Mr. Chairman, there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding as to the scope and correct interpretation of this ordinance. The councillors have one view and some of the heads of departments seem to have another and entirely different view of it. It seems that the heads of departments are expected to be here at the meeting. Now a motion has been made—and the matter postponed—as to a certain form of procedure that is going to govern the proceedings of this body. It is going to be a fairly large body, and it seems to me before this conference attempts to settle down and do any work it might be well if a committee were appointed to draw up some set of rules which should govern the procedure of the body. In order to do that some time would have to be taken. The committee might be able to report back at the next meeting, and then rules might be adopted. As in the case of the City Council, which has to have certain rules and certain forms of procedure, certain matters coming up at one time and others later, it seems to me in the case of this body before it can get down to business it is absolutely necessary that some method of procedure, some set of rules, shall be adopted; and I would move that a committee be appointed.

Coun. HALE—Mr. Chairman, might it not be advisable, in view of what Mr. Gallivan has said, that we wait until we get the permission of his Honor the Mayor before we appoint this committee?

Mr. GALLIVAN—Mr. Chairman, I don't know whether that remark is addressed to you or to me, but the suggestion that the City Treasurer has offered is the first intelligent suggestion I have heard to-day, and I rise to second his motion.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. We may have heard only one intelligent suggestion, but it was not a motion, so there was't anything to second. I will at this time move, Mr. Chairman, that a committee of three be appointed to draw up rules and order of procedure, the committee to consist of his Honor the Mayor, the President of the Council and the gentleman who offered the suggestion but who did not make the motion, Mr. Slattery.

Mr. SLATTERY—Mr. Chairman, I think perhaps Mr. Curley did not hear the wind-up of my remarks. If my memory serves me correctly, I did say that I moved that a committee be appointed, although I did not put it in the shape of a formal motion, saying what the size of the committee should be. It was entirely informal.

Coun. CURLEY—As I understand it, Mr. Chairman, the only matters we can really consider here as having been brought to the attention of the body are those that have been put in either verbal or written form. If a man thinks of a motion but does not give any indication verbally of his desire that that motion be put, or does not present it in writing, then I don't think it is properly before us. Now, I think I paid attention to what the gentleman said, and I did not hear him make a motion. He may have intended to make a motion, but I don't think that he did make a motion. He did, however, offer a suggestion. If the Chair understood him to make a motion, I will withdraw mine.

Chairman FOWLER—The Chair would rule that the gentleman did make a motion, seconded by Mr. Gallivan, that a committee be appointed to provide rules of procedure for this conference. Will the mover of the motion please specify the number to be on that committee and the mode of appointment?

Mr. SLATTERY—I think the committee should be appointed by the Chair. I am not particular as to the number.

Chairman FOWLER—Three?

Mr. SLATTERY—Say a committee of five. It was voted that a committee of five be appointed by the Chair to prepare rules and orders for the conduct of the conferences, under the ordinance.

The Chairman later appointed as said committee: Messrs. Slattery, Gallivan, Sturgis, Everett and Curley.

Mr. JOHN H. DUNN—Mr. Chairman, I am not here representing the department, but I am here representing his Honor the Mayor in connection with the parade on the Fourth of July, and I believe every head of department has received a circular stating just what his Honor the Mayor would like to have them do in connection with that affair. I think this might be a good time to find out from the heads of departments just what they are going to do in connection with that.

Chairman FOWLER—Is there any action to be taken on that? (No response.) There seems to be no motion. Is there anything further before the meeting to-day, any other business? (No response.) If not, a motion to adjourn is in order.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. COLLINS, at 4.22 p. m., to meet on Monday, July 11, at 3 p. m.

DEEP PNEUMATIC FOUNDATIONS FOR NEW YORK MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

The $9,000,000 municipal building now under construction for the City of New York will be 580 feet in extreme height above the street, with the lowest floor about 35 feet below curb level. It is located in the plaza at the Manhattan Terminal of the Brooklyn bridge, and the six-sided superstructure will have extreme length and width of about 164 by 374 feet on column centers, providing a total office area of more than 600,000 square feet, exclusive of corridors, shafts, etc. Above street level there will be 25 main stories, reaching to a height of 337 feet, besides 15 additional stories in the large tower, making 40 in all. The building will provide a terminal and transfer station for subway and elevated railroad trains and bridge connections, and will furnish quarters for many of the principal city departments, thereby affecting an estimated saving of over $450,000 annual rentals now paid, besides accommodating a number of municipal courts.

The building will be of the advanced steel cage, fireproof office building type, with the roof, floors and walls supported entirely by the steel superstructure, which alone weighs about 25,000 tons. The total weight of the structure itself, increased by the weight of its contents and by stresses due to wind pressure, is estimated to be about 165,000 tons, all of which will be carried by the riveted steel columns. There are 129 main columns, with a maximum height of 29 stories and a maximum load of 5,475,000 pounds each. They are supported on concrete piers, sunk by the pneumatic caisson process, to an unusual depth through water, quicksand and gravel.

The construction of the building was authorized by law in 1907; twelve designs were submitted April 15, 1909, and those prepared by McKim, Mead & White were accepted.—Engineering Record.

ACCIDENTS TO WORKMEN.

Accidents to workmen in various German industries are tabulated in a recent United States consular report to show the comparative risks in a number of trades. The opinion has long been prevalent in certain quarters that the miner is exposed to more danger than workers in other occupations. It will be seen from the German statistics that this is not the case. A partial list of the accidents per annum per 1,000 workers follows: Carters and drivers, 22.87; quarrymen, 15.67; canal and river boatmen, 14.73; miners, 14.69; excavators and tunnel workers, 13.95; wood workers, 11.61; iron and steel workers, 11.61; building industries, 11.42; sugar mills, 10.32; warehousemen, 10.01. The report, however, does not mention the number of fatalities or define what is meant by the term accident.—Engineering Record.

PHILADELPHIA'S ART ASSOCIATION.

Probably the richest art and improvement society in the United States is the Fairmount Park Art Association of Philadelphia, which has just issued its annual report. The organization is 40 years old, and has a membership of 907, all public-spirited citizens interested in the work of increasing the art adornments in the parks and in generally improving the parks of the Quaker City. The report shows the balances in the several funds as $145,743, most of this being permanent funds, of which only the interest is used.—Denver Facts.

WASHINGTON ADOPTS RED FLASH SYSTEM.

The red flash police system has been introduced in Washington, D. C., and the people are said to be very enthusiastic over the simplicity and effectiveness of the device. The system is one by which the flash of a red light calls a patrolman in the residence district to his telephone box, thus it is claimed, making one man as good as four or five.—Denver Facts.

GARBAGE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL.

METHODS OF GARBAGE DISPOSAL EMPLOYED IN THE PRINCIPAL CITIES IN THE UNITED STATES, 1907.

The collection and disposal of garbage and the miscellaneous wastes in a great city present a problem of increasing importance with which all municipalities must struggle. Judged by the number and variety of methods employed, the best means of disposal is still in question. While each process will be found to have much to recommend it in this or that particular, there is generally some serious defect, that of excessive cost being the most common.

A few years ago this entire matter was very carefully gone into by a committee of the American Public Health Association. Statistics collected by the committee showed a wide divergence in practice among the cities investigated. Throughout the United States many municipalities leave the disposal of ashes to the care of the householder. This is the case in St. Louis, which thus contrasts with Boston, where from 250,000 to 300,000 tons are collected and disposed of by the city annually.

A point rarely considered in discussing this problem is the varying character of the refuse collected in different cities. The refuse of one city may contain a much greater quantity of redeemable product, such as fats, etc., than the waste of another city of equal size and apparently existing under similar conditions.

The investigations of the committee referred to above developed the fact that the quantity of kitchen garbage and combustible material is greater per inhabitant in America than in England, and greater in England than in Germany. The amount of organic matter in the refuse of American cities was found to be greater, and to contain more moisture; being therefore harder to dispose of by burning than is the waste of foreign cities.

The following notes indicate the method of collection and disposal among the larger American cities in 1907.

New York, N. Y.—Separate receptacles were used for ashes, garbage and ashes, and rubbish. Garbage was treated at reduction works, burned or dumped at sea, and at inland dumps. Ashes and rubbish were dumped at sea, at Rikers Island, Staten Island and Coney Island, and at various islands within 10 miles of the city limits. Reduction works were in operation at Barren Island, and incinerators at Jamaica, Flushing, Ravenswood, Far Rockaway, and West New Brighton.

Chicago, Ill.—Garbage was kept separate from ashes and rubbish. Dead animals were collected by a private rendering plant. Garbage was delivered to a private reduction plant, and ashes and rubbish were hauled to the city dumps on the lake shore.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Garbage, ashes, waste paper, etc., were collected separately. Garbage and dead animals were disposed of at a reduction plant within the city limits. Ashes, waste paper, etc., were placed on city dumps or used for filling in lowlands within the city limits. The average haul for all waste material was two miles.

St. Louis, Mo.—Only garbage and dead animals were collected by the city. Garbage was carried by the city on barges down the Mississippi river about 20 miles to Chesley Island, where it was dumped and plowed under. Dead animals were reduced at a private plant on the island.

Boston, Mass.—In the city proper, north of Massachusetts avenue, there were regular collections of garbage, ashes, and paper; in other parts of the city only garbage and ashes were collected by the city. The garbage collected by the city was carted to the wharves and taken by scows to the reduction works of the New England Sanitary Product Company on Spectacle Island. That collected by contractors was sold, to be fed to swine. Ashes were taken by scows to sea and dumped or used in filling lowlands. Waste paper was delivered to the City Refuse Utilization Company in the city.

Baltimore, Md.—Garbage and ashes were collected separately, waste paper being included with garbage. Ashes were used for filling in lowlands; garbage was reduced at a plant within the city limits. The average haul was about 1½ miles.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Garbage was collected separately, and other kinds of refuse were collected together. Rubbish was separated from ashes at the dump and sold. Garbage was reduced at a plant owned by the city, situated six miles outside the city limits.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Householders used separate receptacles for garbage, ashes, and other refuse. Large animals were collected by private parties and taken to a rendering plant, small animals only being collected by the city. Ashes were used for filling purposes within the city limits. Garbage was taken to a reduction plant owned by the city, situated one mile outside of the city limits. Refuse was sorted at a plant within the city limits. Dead animals and butchers' and market wastes were reduced. The average haul for ashes was two miles; for garbage, five miles; for paper and other refuse, 2½ miles.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Garbage was collected by contractors in wagons and hauled in company's cars to reduction works, 35 miles from city.

Detroit, Mich.—Garbage and dead animals were collected together; ashes and other refuse separately. Garbage and dead animals were transferred to flat cars at a central station and taken to a reduction plant about 20 miles from the city limits. Ashes and other refuse were used for filling low places in the suburbs.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Ashes, waste paper, and other refuse were collected together. Garbage and dead animals were reduced at works just outside the city limits. Other refuse was used to fill in lowlands. The average haul was 1½ miles.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Garbage was placed in metal cans and collected by the health department. Ashes and rubbish were collected by the board of public works. Garbage was burned at a municipal plant located at the mouth of the harbor within the city limits. Ashes and rubbish were used for filling in lowlands.

New Orleans, La.—Garbage and ashes were collected in separate receptacles. Garbage was loaded on barges, taken down the river, and dumped. Ashes were used for filling low places within the city. Dead animals were taken to a rendering plant.

Washington, D. C.—Garbage, ashes, and rubbish were kept separate. Garbage was reduced at Cherry Run Hill, near Alexandria, Va. Ashes were used for filling lowlands in various parts of the city, especially along the river front. Waste paper and other rubbish was hauled to dump at Benning by a contractor.

Newark, N. J.—Garbage, ashes, and all other refuse were collected separately. Garbage was reduced at privately owned works, being carted from one to 2½ miles and then transported one mile in scows. Ashes were used for filling lowlands within the city limits. Waste paper was sorted, baled, and sold to paper manufacturers.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Garbage and all other combustible material were deposited in the same receptacle, ashes being kept separate. Ashes were used to fill low places within the city limits, other refuse being burned in a crematory located within the city near its northern boundary. The average haul to this plant was 3½ miles.

Jersey City, N. J.—Garbage, ashes, and waste paper were collected together. All refuse except dead animals was carted to lowlands and dumped. Animals were taken to a reduction plant about four miles from the city.

Louisville, Ky.—All refuse was collected in the same receptacle and was dumped on lowlands both within and without the city. The average haul was one mile.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Garbage, waste paper, tin cans, and dead animals were collected separately. Garbage and dead animals were reduced at private works three miles south of the city. Ashes were used to fill lowlands. Waste paper and tin cans were sold.

St. Paul, Minn.—Garbage was collected and sold for feed and fertilizer by the city. All other refuse was disposed of by the householders.

Providence, R. I.—Garbage was collected separately, carted to Rehoboth, Mass., and fed to swine. Dead animals were rendered at works at Warwick, R. I.

Rochester, N. Y.—Garbage was collected in covered metal wagons; ashes, waste paper, and other refuse, separately. Garbage was reduced at the Rochester Company plant, within the city limits, the average haul being two miles. Ashes, waste paper, and other refuse were used for filling lowlands within the city limits. Dead animals were reduced at a privately owned plant with butchers' and market wastes. The average haul was two miles.

Kansas City, Mo.—Refuse was deposited in metal cans, from which it was collected and dumped into the Missouri river.

Toledo, Ohio.—Garbage, ashes, waste paper, and dead animals were collected separately. Garbage was burned within the city limits. Ashes were used for filling lowlands.

Denver, Colo.—Garbage was collected separately and fed to swine. Ashes were deposited on dumping grounds. Dead animals were reduced by a contractor. Other refuse was dumped into the Platte river.

Columbus, Ohio.—Garbage was collected separately and was buried outside, and about three miles from the center of the city.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Garbage and dead animals were collected separately. Ashes and other refuse were collected in the same receptacle. Garbage was burned in an incinerator within the city limits, and owned by the city. Dead animals were burned in private furnaces. Ashes and other refuse were used for filling low lands in the city. The average haul for dead animals was $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and for other refuse 2 miles.

Worcester, Mass.—Garbage was hauled to the poor farm, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the center of the city, and fed to swine.

Seattle, Wash.—Refuse was collected by licensed scavengers paid by householders, and was dumped on tide-water flats within the city limits.

Memphis, Tenn.—Refuse was collected in carts by the city. Garbage was burned within the city, dead animals were thrown into the river, and ashes were used for filling low places.

Omaha, Neb.—Kitchen garbage and dead animals were collected by a contractor under contract with the Health Department, without expense to the city or the householder. Garbage and dead animals were reduced in a rendering plant outside the city. All other refuse was disposed of by householders.

CEMENT INSPECTION FOR THE BALTIMORE SEWERAGE COMMISSION.

An elaborate system for keeping track of inspected cement is being used on the sewerage work at Baltimore. As soon as a carload of cement arrives for a contractor doing work for the Baltimore Sewerage Commission, the cement laboratory is notified and a sampler starts at once to take samples from about one bag in thirty-five as they are being removed from the car to the storehouse. The bin in which the cement is placed is then tagged with white cards, about 4 by 5 inches in size, bearing a serial number in large-size type and the word "Hold," together with spaces for car number, number of bags in the car, and the bin number and date sampled. When the cement has passed the laboratory tests, the white card is removed and a pink one substituted, bearing the word "Released." The inspector can thus see at a glance whether or not the contractor is using cement from an approved lot. When the bin is empty the pink card is returned to the laboratory.

Each Saturday all assistant engineers mail to the laboratory a postal card stating the number of bags used from each bin on their work. Records are kept at the laboratory and the number of bags turned in is checked up with the original number unloaded into the particular bin; this practically prevents substitution. This system is used on the large pieces of work, such as the sewage disposal plant, pumping station and larger trunk sewers, where it is certain that the entire carload is to be used on that particular part of the work.

For lateral sewer work, which has assumed enormous proportions in Baltimore, because heretofore practically no sewers at all were laid in the streets, an additional precaution is taken to insure the use of tested cement only. In this case the sampler attaches a numbered tag 2 inches long to each bag of the carload in question. The number is the same for the whole carload. When the carload is approved by the laboratory the inspectors are given the lot number of the released car. As the cement is used the tags are torn off by the inspectors and at intervals turned in to the laboratory, where they are counted and recorded.

While the system is rather expensive, the commission feels amply justified in employing it, as only by some such check can they feel sure that tested and approved cement is being used. About 2,000 carloads of cement have been used under the system, which seems to be entirely satisfactory to the contractors as well as to the Sewerage Commission. Mr. Calvin W. Hendrick is chief engineer of the Baltimore Sewerage Commission.—Engineering Record.

TO SEE OURSELVES AS THE ENGLISH SEE US.

The Municipal Journal of London recently contained a long article on American cities, and it is both interesting and gratifying to find the "Old Country" using us as an object lesson. The article says:

"The great cities of the United States, like our own, have recently awakened to the necessity of a town plan. The genius of the nation has seized on the Civic Center as a starting point, and there is hardly any city of note, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, which is not already, or in anticipation, concerned in a scheme of town planning involving reconstruction or rearrangement of municipal and other public and semi-public buildings."

"It is claimed that the Civic Center Park will be converted into the most uniquely beautiful resort in America. Fountains and a sunken garden will be features of the decorative scheme to be followed. There will be banks of flowers and shrubbery and winding walks and parkways. A plaza, provided with seats for several thousand people, will afford a central gathering place for all manner of out-of-door patriotic meetings and for band concerts. The idea is to illuminate the park and to maintain it as a meeting place for citizens and visitors generally after the manner of the people of Mexico City who exchange greetings at the famous plaza maintained there.

"Civic Improvement has been represented to the tax-payers of Denver as a good municipal asset, and the case of Cleveland and its great civic center is quoted. Cleveland needed a new federal building, a new municipal library, a new postoffice, a new railroad station and several other public buildings, and a chamber of commerce. Under ordinary circumstances those various buildings would have been placed in various parts of the city. The Chamber of Commerce of Cleveland, one of the most aggressive business bodies in the country, said the location of these buildings was a very important matter, and as a result of their consideration it was recognized how much more important it would be to the city if these various buildings, instead of being scattered all over the city, were brought together in one civic center. Out of that grew the group plan, and in the heart of the city of Cleveland they are building its great civic center, costing between £3,000,000 and £3,500,000, and they are disproving the old rule that two and two make four, because Cleveland's plan shows they do not make four; they make something very much greater. The tax appraisers estimate the improved value at £6,000,000, and that does not include the improvement in the property roundabout the civic center.

"But that is not the only advantage Cleveland has had as a result of its wise and farsighted policy of grouping its great buildings in an effective center. It has obtained a degree of advertising that was to be had in no other way. Cleveland is talked of in magazines and in the columns of the newspapers throughout the length and breadth of the land, and practically every time there is a suggestion of a civic center or a grouping plan, Cleveland is mentioned foremost. It has done a distinctly good thing, and is reaping the benefits of having done it."

GENEVA, N. Y. IN PROGRESSIVE CLASS.

The mayor of Geneva, N. Y., had a "Shrub Day" during the recent "clean-up week" in that town. On "Shrub Day" the mayor arranged with various nurserymen to sell shrubs on the streets at half price. They appeared on every important corner with their wares, and the people bought freely, planting the shrubbery in their yards and lawns. The mayor in his "clean-up week" proclamation recommended that the cleaning should not limit itself to the removal of rubbish, but that it should include the touching up of buildings, the cleaning of signs and windows, and the straightening of back fences. The results were wonderful and Genevans now claim to have not only the prettiest, but the cleanest city in America.—Denver Facts.

City of Boston,

Supply Department, May 27, 1910.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—As I explained to you yesterday, the whole blue stone flagging situation is controlled by the Hudson River Blue Stone Company of Kingston, New York. When their representative was here in April, he said he preferred to do the business of the City of Boston through the concerns here who had been handling their business.

The lowest bid that we received on March 28 was 34½ cents a square foot; this bid was withdrawn, obliging me to readvertise. The lowest bid received on April 27 was 34 cents. This bidder was not positive as to his deliveries, and I was obliged to throw out all these bids.

In asking your permission to award this order for one freight of flagging to William E. Harvey at 34 cents a square foot, without advertising, I know there is absolutely nothing to be gained by re-advertising, as the price is controlled absolutely by the New York end.

Respectfully,

J. EDWARD MULLEN,
Superintendent of Supplies.

ABATEMENT OF WATER CHARGE.

The following communication was received:—

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
June 1, 1910.

School Committee, Mason street, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—
Information has reached me that the charge of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) for water used in public schools, which you were notified to meet this year, has occasioned a serious disarrangement of your program and may compel the abandonment of plans for the maintenance and equipment of the playgrounds under your control.

I believe that this result would be most unfortunate and beg to inform you that I have this day directed the Water Commissioner to remit this charge, with the understanding that next year all school buildings shall be metered and bills rendered at the regular rates for the quantities of water consumed.

I suggest that of the additional amount thus made available your committee expend half for the maintenance and half for the equipment of playgrounds. This recommendation is made, however, subject to your own superior knowledge of the pressing necessities of the school system.

Yours respectfully,

John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor.

Placed on file, and the Secretary directed to extend the thanks of the Board to His Honor the Mayor for his action in this matter, and to inform him that it is the intention of the Board to restore the amount thus abated to the item for text books in the annual appropriation order for the current year, which item had been previously reduced in order to meet the expenditure for water. Indirectly, however, His Honor's suggestion with regard to expending $20,000 for the maintenance and equipment of playgrounds will be met, because it no longer will be necessary for this Board to curtail playground activities to the extent anticipated.

APPROPRIATION FOR HIGH SCHOOL OF COMMERCE AND SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

The following communication was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
May 26, 1910.

School Committee, Mason Street, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:

I return herewith, without my approval, your vote of May 16, 1910, appropriating three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) for the High School of Commerce and Administration Building of the School Committee and Schoolhouse Commission.

It is my opinion that this building should be erected out of the five hundred twenty-nine thousand five hundred and fifty-seven dollars ($529,557) which your Board has appropriated from the tax levy this year. I am informed that there is no legal obstacle to this course and the assurances of the Chairman of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners that the money cannot be advantageously spent otherwise this year reinforce my belief that the wisest course to pursue would be to utilize this amount for construction work which is already in a sense under way. The three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) which will thereby be saved to the city is absolutely required to meet certain unexpected expenses about to be imposed upon us by the National government.

At the present time the borrowing capacity of the city may be practically estimated at about one million six hundred thousand dollars ($1,600,000). Either this year or next, according to the estimates of the City Engineer and the Law Department, the city is likely to be called upon to pay one and a half million dollars for the rebuilding of Chelsea Bridge, which has just been recommended to the War Department by Engineer Herbert W. Burr. Such a large item must inevitably disturb to some extent our financial plans and should impress upon all city officials the need of exercising extreme caution in the incurring of unnecessary debt.

The city is also liable for a sum estimated at from eight hundred thousand dollars to a million and a quarter for the damages incurred by the construction of the Cove-street Bridge. In addition, the loan orders now under consideration by the Committee on Finance of the City Council, if passed, would amount to over one and a half million dollars and many of these are of an importance equal to that of the High School of Commerce. Various desirable improvements, notably playgrounds and bridges, recommended by the heads of city departments, would swell the total expenditure by nearly nine hundred thousand dollars ($900,000). The adoption of all these propositions, with the regular school, sewer and street extension loans next year would compel the city to borrow over three million dollars outside of the debt limit.

In view of these circumstances it seems to me that every effort should be made to confine the activities of your department within the limits of absolute necessity. By utilizing a part of the sum voted for schoolhouse construction from the tax levy for the building of a High School of Commerce, your department would enjoy the satisfaction of knowing that it has contributed its share toward the general effort which other departments are making to keep down the city debt.

Trusting that our views on this subject may prove to be in harmony, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor.

Accompanying the foregoing communication was the order referred to therein, namely:—

ORDERED, That to meet expenses incurred under Chapter 446 of the acts of 1909, an act to provide for a High School of Commerce and school administration building in the city of Boston, the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) is hereby appropriated, and the treasurer of said city is hereby requested to issue and sell negotiable bonds of the city to the aforesaid amount.

The communication was placed on file.

The Chairman stated the question was on the passage of the aforesaid order, notwithstanding the objections of His Honor the Mayor.

The order passed by the following vote:—

Yeas—Messrs. Brock, Ellis, Lee and Magenis—4.

Absent—Dr. Scannell—1.

The Secretary was directed to transmit the following communication to His Honor the Mayor in explanation of this action:—

Your Honor's message, returning without your approval, the order passed by the School Committee on May 16, 1910, appropriating $300,000 for a High School of Commerce and school administration building, in accordance with chapter 446 of the acts of 1909, has been received and carefully considered.

While there may be no legal obstacle to meeting the expense of the High School of Commerce and school administration building from the appropriation of $529,557 already made from the tax levy, the objections to pursuing this course which Your Honor recommends are vital.

Your Honor's suggestion is, in effect, to divert a portion of the appropriation made from the tax levy expressly for the purpose of providing additional elementary school accommodations, and which if diverted from this purpose cannot subsequently be replaced, to high school and school administration accommodations. Such a course would, in the opinion of the School Committee, be unwise, more especially as under chapter 446 of the acts of 1909—an act to provide for a High School of Commerce and school administration building in the City of Boston—it is probable that the cost of this building will not necessarily involve any addition to the city debt.

In this connection, the Committee desires, respectfully, to call Your Honor's attention to that part of this act which expressly provides that the proceeds of the sale of the estate on Mason street, now occupied by the School Committee for office and other purposes, and of the Winthrop School estate on Tremont street, shall be applied toward the cost of the land and building to be occupied by the High School of Commerce and for school administration purposes, and the amount of bonds which may be issued under the act shall be reduced by an amount equivalent to the proceeds of such sale, or applied to the retirement or redemption of the bonds, if any shall have been issued prior to the sale of these estates. Thus, by pursuing the course laid down by the act in question, it is very probable that the city debt will not in the end be materially increased by the School Committee's action, which Your Honor disapproves. The assessed value of the land alone of these two estates is $565,000, and should this amount be realized from their sale, the increase in the city debt would be but the relatively small sum of $35,000.

The School Committee regrets that Your Honor fears that unexpected expenses are about to be imposed upon the city by the National Government, but does not believe that these expenses, if they must be met at all, should be at the cost of school accommodations.

Your Honor is, of course, aware that there is a distinction between the making of an appropriation and its expenditure. Should the School Committee fail to make the appropriation in question during the time specified by the act which authorizes it, it absolutely loses the right to make it at a subsequent period, and whether or not the money can be advantageously expended during the current year is a question to be determined by the Schoolhouse Commission and not by the School Committee. The issue of the bonds under this appropriation does not immediately follow the making of the appropriation itself, but waits rather upon the necessity for meeting the cost of the work contemplated. But the Schoolhouse Commission, which has the sole authority, subject to Your Honor's approval, of making the expenditures, has no authority to contract to expend moneys for which no appropriation has previously been made, and all the sums which have been referred to as being in the hands of the Schoolhouse Commission and available for expenditure, have been definitely apportioned and set aside to meet the cost of accommodations which are now under way. The School Committee has recently designated the school districts within which the appropriation of $529,557 made from the tax levy for additional elementary school accommodations shall be expended, and the actual expenditure of the appropriation, and the rate of progress in the providing of the accommodations rests entirely with the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners.

The School Committee has no desire to embarrass the city finances by extending its activities beyond the limits of absolute necessity. The point at issue, however, is not an extension of school activities, but rather the providing of adequate accommodations for the public school children of Boston.

The School Committee regrets exceedingly that it cannot agree with Your Honor's suggestion, and has therefore passed the order in question over your veto.

USE OF SCHOOL BASEMENTS FOR SHOWER BATH PURPOSES.

The following communication was received:—

City of Boston,
In City Council,
May 16, 1910.

ORDERED: That the Bath Trustees and the School Committee be requested, through His Honor the Mayor, to consider the advisability of utilizing the basement of school buildings in congested sections of the city for shower bath purposes during the school vacation season, July and August; the expense of maintaining same to be borne by the Bath Department.

Passed.
A true copy.

FURNISHING OF LUNCHEONS IN SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The following communication was received:—

Boston Finance Commission,
410-413 Tremont Building, Boston,
June 3, 1910.

To the Honorable,
the School Committee,
Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen:

On May 16, 1910, Mr. Joseph Lee of the School Committee addressed a letter to Mr. J. C. L. Dowling of the Finance Commission in which he discussed some propositions which had previously been discussed by Mr. Dowling and himself relative to the furnishing of luncheons to high school children. From Mr. Lee's letter it would appear that the members of the School Committee with whom he discussed this question were not impressed favorably with a proposal for furnishing such luncheons which had been previously made by Mr. Joseph A. Cahalan of 549 Park Street, Dorchester. The commission agrees with the opinions expressed by Mr. Lee to the effect that it would be unwise to have luncheons furnished to the school children, even though the School Committee would receive some revenue from it, if the luncheons furnished were of poorer quality than those which are now furnished by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. On the other hand, the commission believes that it would be well to increase the revenues of the School Department if the luncheons furnished were to be of as good quality as those now being furnished under a system which provides no revenues for the School Department.

The commission, therefore, recommends for the consideration of the School Committee the proposal of Mr. Cahalan, of which it encloses a copy. The commission suggests that it might be worth while to try the experiment of having Mr. Cahalan, or someone who may make a similar proposal, furnish luncheons in some of the high school buildings under a suitable contract accompanied by a satisfactory bond. If, after a trial period, say of three or six months, the School Committee should become convinced that the luncheons furnished by Mr. Cahalan were of as good quality as those now furnished by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, it suggests that a contract for one or more years with proper safeguards and an adequate bond, should be executed. If, during the trial period, it is believed that the luncheons furnished by the contractor are not equal to those furnished under the present system no permanent contract relation need be entered into between the School Committee and the contractor.

The commission believes that the health of the children is paramount to any consideration of revenues likely to be derived from this source, and, therefore, suggests that every test believed by the School Committee to be necessary be applied to the food furnished during the trial period.

Yours respectfully,

The Finance Commission,
By John A. Sullivan, Chairman.

Proposal.

Joseph A. Cahalan, a resident of Boston and doing business at Nos. 5 and 7 Doane street, in said Boston, under the name of the Curb Lunch Co., do hereby agree as follows:—

To furnish lunches to the Normal, High and Latin schools.

The lunches to be placed on sale, only at such time as the masters of the said schools shall designate.

The price of the lunches not to exceed the price now charged by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union now running the said lunch counters.

That a sample of all milk, cream and butter used by me or offered for sale on said lunch counters shall be submitted to the Board of Health of Boston at least once a month or at any time upon the request of the medical director of the Boston Public Schools.

That there shall be offered for sale only such food as the medical director and school committee of Boston consider healthful to the children of said high schools.

That at the request of the medical director or the School Committee, I shall discontinue any food that they consider objectionable.

That at all times at the request of the medical director or School Committee, I shall submit a sample of all food or drink I am serving.

That said lunch counters occupied and used by me shall at all times be kept clean and neat, and that all waste be placed in galvanized receptacles and be removed from the schools at the close of each day, at my expense.

That all sinks used in connection with the lunch counters will be at all times kept in a good sanitary condition, and that if such sinks used by me get out of order, that I shall have the same taken care of at once at my expense.

That I shall keep clear from waste, the room in which said lunch counter is located.

I agree that at no time to offer for sale any tobacco, cigars or cigarettes.

That I shall not keep about the said lunch counters any inflammable material.

That all help employed by me shall be temperate, neat and clean, and free from any disease or sickness.

I further agree not to employ any of the pupils of the schools to assist on the lunch counters.

I also agree not to charge the children of the said schools any more for lunch than what will show a profit of 10 p.c. above the cost of furnishing the same, which percentage is considered a fair standard of profit in such business.

I shall be willing at all times to confer with the School Committee, relative to prices of lunch.

For the above privilege of placing food for sale in the aforesaid schools of Boston, I agree to pay to the City Treasurer of Boston, the sum of $200 per year for each school in which lunches are permitted to be sold by me and that the said amount is to be applied to the use of the said schools as the School Committee shall direct.

That I agree to make a contract for a term of five years, for the schools now having lunch counters, and that for the privilege of placing upon sale lunch in any additional schools that may be opened in the next five years, the provisions of this agreement are to apply and govern as in the case of existing schools.

The said sum of $200 per school to be paid to the City Treasurer of Boston in three payments, namely, Dec. 15, Mar. 15, and June 15, during the terms of this proposal if same be accepted.

In return I am to enjoy all privileges now held by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, unless otherwise specified in this proposal.

It is also understood that I am to have the use of said lunch counters, water, light and gas.

That the city of Boston shall not be liable for any negligence of myself or employees, and that I shall save them harmless in such respects.

I agree to file a bond of the Mass. Bonding Co. for the fulfillment of this contract, in such sum as may be required of me by the school committee.

Signed,

Witness.

Referred to the Secretary with authority to carry the recommendation of the Finance Commission, as contained in the foregoing communication, into effect.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS BY CITY DEPARTMENTS.

The following communication was received:—

Boston Finance Commission,
410-413 Tremont Building, Boston,
June 3, 1910.

To the Honorable the School Committee,
Mason street, Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen:—

The Finance Commission begs leave to report that it has considered the letter of the School Committee addressed to the commission under date of May 19, 1910, and submits for your consideration the following:

The former Finance Commission, in Vol. 2 of its reports (page 48), recommended that the city departments using water in buildings pay for the same. The present commission believes that such charges are in harmony with sound principles of accounting, and it therefore endorses both the recommendations of the former Finance Commission above referred to, and the circular letter of the Mayor of the city of Boston addressed to the heads of departments under date of February 4, 1910, in which said departments were notified that during the year 1910-11 bills would be sent to all city departments for the water used by them. The commission believes that the same principles apply generally to the proposed charges by the School Committee for the use of school buildings by the Election Commissioners, the Music Department and the Library Department of the city, or other departments using the schools. The School Department is charged in the financial reports of the city with the amounts expended for land and buildings for schools, also for the cost of janitor service, light and heat. There does not seem to be any good reason why other city departments which utilize school buildings should not contribute a fair amount to the maintenance of the school buildings. Under such an arrangement a better means of ascertaining the actual cost of the schools for educational purposes will be afforded than exists at present.

The commission therefore recommends that the School Committee establish charges for the use of school buildings by the departments in question. It also recommends that before the charges are fixed the School Committee should hold conferences with the heads of departments in question with a view of reaching an amicable agreement as to the amounts to be charged. If no agreement can be reached in conference, the Finance Commission, upon request of the School Committee and of the departments in question, will undertake to decide what the proper rates should be.

The commission believes that if the School Committee should charge for the use of their buildings within the current year, such a course might possibly disarrange the financial scheme which has already been worked out by the Mayor, the heads of the several departments and the City Council, as expressed in the appropriations for the year. If upon consultation with the Mayor it is found that the departments which are to be charged will not have a surplus from their own appropriations for the current year to meet the charges assessed by the School Committee, and that there will not be a sufficient amount left in the reserve fund available for such uses, the commission recommends that during the present year the School Committee should not go beyond the establishment of the principle and of the rate, and that the actual charge be made to take effect in the fiscal year 1911-12.

Yours respectfully,

The Finance Commission,

By John A. Sullivan, Chairman.

Placed on file, and the Secretary directed to extend the thanks of the Board to the Finance Commission for its prompt consideration of this matter, and the suggestions received relating thereto, and to transmit copies of the aforesaid communication to the various departments concerned for their information; also that the Business Agent be directed to confer with the heads of these departments with a view to reaching an amicable agreement as to the amounts to be charged for the accommodations referred to, to go into effect with the next financial year.

CONVENIENCE STATION, CENTRAL SQUARE

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 9, 1910.

To the City Council:

The inclosed communication from the Secretary of the East Boston Improvement Association, requesting that ten thousand dollars ($10,000) be set aside for the purpose of installing a convenience station at Central square, East Boston, is hereby submitted, with a statement of the cost of similar structures in Boston and elsewhere, prepared by the City Engineer.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

East Boston Improvement Association.

East Boston, June 2, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—By direction of the East Boston Improvement Association, by the vote of our last meeting I have been requested to write and ask that you set aside the sum of $10,000 for the purpose of installing a convenience station in our Central Square Park, East Boston.

Trusting this matter will receive your consideration, we remain,

Very truly yours,

East Boston Improvement Association,

R. W. FIGEON, Secretary

Engineering Department, June 9, 1910.

Mr. William A. Leahy,

Secretary to the Mayor:

Dear Sir,—Concerning the cost of public convenience stations, several have been built in this vicinity, the cost of which is given below. The one on the Common, near Park street, cost about $15,000.

The town of Brookline has recently built one adjoining the fire station at Village square, which cost $8,000. This amount does not include cost of land, the grading of the grounds or of an independent heating apparatus, heat being obtained from the plant of the fire station. Mr. French, the town engineer, stated that he thinks $10,000 would have been ample for the same structure including the above items.

The city of Lawrence has also recently built a convenience station. This is located on the Common, and is underground. It cost about $14,000.

For a detailed description of the two last mentioned stations, reference may be made to descriptions of them contained in papers read before the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, copies of which are submitted herewith.

A much cheaper style of structure was built in Merrimac square, Boston. This is entirely above ground and is made of iron. This could probably be duplicated in most any locality where water supply and drainage are readily obtainable for about $2,500.

All of the above costs are exclusive of the cost of land.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM JACKSON,

City Engineer.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

TEMPORARY SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 9, 1910.

To the City Council:

You are hereby notified that I have this day designated City Engineer William Jackson to serve temporarily as Schoolhouse Commissioner in place of R. Clifton Sturgis, whose resignation from this office has been accepted by me.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RECONSTRUCTION OF CURTIS HALL.

The following was received:

Office of the Mayor, June 10, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to submit the appended letter from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, outlining the status of the work of reconstructing the Curtis Hall building at the date when it was written. Since that time the plans have been modified, chiefly by the elimination of the running track and a reduction of the dimensions of the swimming pool. Proposals were invited upon these modified plans and the following bids were submitted:

A. Varnerin Company	$69,799
Ford & Denning	74,221
John A. Rooney	75,720
C. H. Belledeu	81,928

Unfortunately the bid of the A. Varnerin Company, which was the lowest, had to be rejected because of a technical irregularity.

The cost of roofing the building, a work which has already been completed, and the lowest bids for heating and ventilating, plumbing apparatus, electric wiring, together with an estimate of the architect's fee, are exhibited in the appended table:

Roofing	$13,996
Heating and ventilating	22,277
Plumbing apparatus, etc.	6,237
Electric wiring, fixtures, etc.	4,415
Architect's fee, 10 per cent on estimated cost	12,000
	$58,925

If the lowest bid for the work of reconstruction be added to this total, the amount needed for the entire improvement will be $128,724. The appropriation is only $75,000, leaving a deficit of $53,724, for which a special appropriation will have to be provided.

I believe that these facts and figures should receive the attention of your honorable body as a basis for any action which you may take toward completing this public improvement.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Buildings Department,
Boston, April 23, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—The brick building known as "Curtis Hall," located on South street, Jamaica Plain, Ward 22, the first floor of which was occupied as a branch of the Boston Public Library and the second floor of which contained a large hall, used for public meetings, dancing parties, etc., was badly damaged by fire at about three o'clock a. m. on December 15, 1908, after being used the night previous for a dancing party.

The interior of the building was left useless, but the four walls remained standing, and a representative of the Building Commissioner reported them as being in good condition.

The branch library was fortunate in not suffering any great loss of books and relocated their rooms in rented quarters near by.

For some years past I understand there had been numerous complaints that the privilege of the hall had been much abused by organizations using the same for dancing parties. Numerous meetings were held by the residents in that vicinity and many protested against the reconstruction of the building along the old lines with a public hall, but advocated rebuilding as a public gymnasium, with swimming pool, shower baths, etc., and a committee representing 1,700 residents so petitioned Ex-Mayor Hibbard.

Mr. Lewis H. Bacon of No. 27 School street was selected as the architect and he was instructed to confer with Mr. James C. White, Ex-Mayor Hibbard's secretary, Dr. Edward M. Hartwell of the Statistics Department and Mr. Joseph B. Maccabe of the Bath Trustees, with the result that the present scheme of rebuilding with large swimming pool, shower baths, etc., was adopted.

In order that the pool which is planned to be 75 feet long by 23 feet wide may be installed, it will be necessary to build an extension on the rear of the building for the boiler room, coal pocket, etc.

It was estimated that this work of reconstruction could be performed for seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars and the City Council of last year transferred this amount from the appropriation for Public Buildings Department to a special appropriation for this purpose.

As the walls had been left standing it was essential that they be properly protected from the weather and consequently a contract for a new roof of iron and glass was made, to cost $13,996. This work is now nearing completion.

After advertising for proposals for the balance of the work of reconstruction, steam heating and ventilation, plumbing apparatus, electric wiring, etc., it developed that the amount of the appropriation was not sufficient, as shown by the following which represents the lowest bidder in their respective lines.

For reconstruction:
A. Varnerin.....	$89,446 00
(But one proposal received.)
For heating and ventilation:
James P. Dwyer.....	22,277 00
For plumbing apparatus, etc.:
Michael Ahern.....	6,237 00
For electric wiring, fixtures, etc.:
James Wilkinson & Co.....	4,415 00
Contract for new roof as already made.....	13,996 00
	$136,371 00
Architect fee is to be 10 per cent on total cost.....	13,637 10
Total cost under present scheme,	$150,008 10

By eliminating certain parts of the work of minor detail, which will in no way alter the general scheme, I feel that a reduction of about $8,000 might be made in the above.

By eliminating the suspended running track, reducing the length of the swimming pool from 75 feet to about 40 feet and thereby doing away with the erection of the addition to the building in the rear of same, and also other minor details as to quality of finish used and also by substituting wood lathing for metal lathing, I am of the opinion that a deduction of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars might be made from bids submitted.

I doubt if it is good judgment to make these latter eliminations, as while, of course, this expenditure as shown in the initial cost is considerable, nevertheless the scheme proposed to be followed is very desirable and satisfactory to all parties concerned.

For the purpose of providing quarters for the branch library, an appropriation of $30,000 was passed by the City Council of last year, and the building is now being erected on the same lot of land with the Curtis Hall building.

Yours respectfully,

G. W. MORRISON,

Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RELEASE OF RESTRICTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 9, 1910.

To the City Council:

I submit the inclosed proposition and plan which represent a compromise between the Park Square Trust and the Copley Square Trust on the subject of the release of certain set-back restrictions in return for the surrender to the city, under specified conditions, of certain strips of land upon the estate known as the old Art Museum property. In my judgment this proposition, though it may require amendments and verbal alterations, is worthy of favorable consideration by your honorable body. It is certainly preferable to the alternative of a long period of vacancy or disuse in one or both of the properties controlled by these trusts, which are not merely central but pivotal points in the real estate development of that section of the city.

The value of the land to be deeded to the city, amounting to over nineteen thousand (19,000) square feet, is estimated at about two hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars ($285,000). The cost of the street improvements, which constitute the only actual outlay that the city is called upon to make, is a comparatively trifling figure, the land for the Stuart street widening, forming a strip twenty-five feet deep from Trinity place to Dartmouth street, being given to the city by the Copley Square Trust, and the cost of construction for this piece being borne by the Park Square Trust. The question in its simplest form is whether these street widenings and the property development, which will inevitably follow, are offset by the partial removal of the set-back restrictions on three sides of the estate.

It is understood that the Copley Square Trust intends to erect a large hotel upon the property, the lines of which are to be altered by this proposition. I invite your attention, however, to the fact that their statement, herewith submitted, does not specifically pledge the Trust to carry out this plan.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, Mass., June 8, 1910.

To his Honor the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Boston:

The Trustees of the Copley Square Trust under an indenture of trust dated April 22, 1902, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 2821, page 113, as a substitute for the proposition submitted by them to the Mayor and the City Council of the City of Boston under date of May 27, 1910, respectfully make the following proposition in relation to the parcel of land owned by said trustees bounded by Dartmouth street, St. James avenue, Trinity place and Stuart street in said Boston.

The trustees to release to the City of Boston a strip of their land twelve (12) feet in width abutting on Dartmouth street, shown as parcel marked "D" on the plan hereinafter mentioned; a strip twenty-five (25) feet in width abutting on Stuart street, shown as parcel marked "H" on said plan; a strip twelve (12) feet in width abutting on Trinity place, shown as parcel marked "G" on said plan; and also to release to said city the bow piece, so called, abutting on St. James avenue, shown as parcel marked "A" on said plan; and two small parcels of land, one containing about two hundred sixty-two and $\frac{1}{2}$ (262.5) square feet and marked "C" on said plan, and the other containing two hundred sixty-three and $\frac{1}{2}$ (263.5) square feet and marked "B" on said plan; the plan hereinafter referred to being entitled "Plan of land owned by the Copley Square Trust," dated June 7, 1910, and drawn by Aspinwall & Lincoln, civil engineers, a copy of which plan is hereto annexed and made part hereof.

Provided that said strip 25 feet in width abutting on Stuart street shall be laid out at once as a part of said Stuart street and be constructed by said city to completion as part of said street at the expense of the Park Square Real Estate Trust within one year from this date; and provided also that all the other strips and parcels of land including said bow piece so to be released by said trustees to the city shall be laid out at once as part of the streets on which the same respectively abut, and shall be constructed to completion as part of said streets, respectively, by the city on or before January 1, 1912, and provided that none of said layings out shall be made under the betterment law, the city to assume and pay all betterment assessments made or assessed upon the remaining land of said trustees, and provided also that the City of Boston, as payment and consideration for the release of said strips and parcels, shall release the remainder of said parcel of land of said trustees bounded by said four streets from all restrictions heretofore imposed on this land in and by any deeds of said city or indentures made by said city with the Museum of Fine Arts or otherwise, it being understood, however, that if said trustees in building up to the new lines of all or any of said streets shall cut into the banks of filling of any of such streets which said trustees are to have the right to do, the said trustees shall build retaining walls to retain such streets.

J. MORRIS MEREDITH,

JOHN P. REYNOLDS,

Trustees of the Copley Square Trust.

Boston, June 8, 1910.

The undersigned, the Trustees of the Park Square Real Estate Trust, so called, under a declaration of trust dated September 15, 1909, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 3418, page 504, as such trustees, but not individually or personally, hereby agree with the City of Boston, that if the foregoing proposition of the Trustees of the Copley Square Trust to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Boston is accepted and carried out and if said 25-foot strip of said land of said Copley Square Trust is laid out and constructed as part of Stuart street all as in said proposition provided, said Park Square Real Estate Trust, will, on demand of said City of Boston, pay to said city the cost of constructing said Stuart street as so laid out between Dartmouth street and Trinity place.

This agreement is made upon the stipulation that neither of the trustees nor the shareholders of the Park Square Real Estate Trust shall be held to any personal liability under or by reason of this agreement, the intention hereof being to bind only the funds and property of the said last named trust.

Parkman; that the cost of the same be met from the income of the Parkman Fund; and that the plans of the same be subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, the Art Commission and the Music Department.

Passed.

ORDERS CONCERNING PARKMAN FUND.

Coun. HALE, in presenting the following papers, said:

Mr. President, I submit these orders, which have been agreed upon by the Committee on Parkman Fund.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That fifty thousand dollars be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund for the current year, to be used under the supervision of the Superintendent of Public Grounds for renovating the Common in accordance with the plans being prepared by Frederick Law Olmstead; and for the construction of a memorial bandstand on the Common, said plans of which to be subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, the Art Commission and the Music Department.

Passed.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the Boston City Council that the Parkman House, No. 33 Beacon street, be leased by the city for a long term of years.

Ordered, That the Mayor be requested to attempt to have such lease made, the terms of which to be subject to the approval of the Boston City Council.

Resolve adopted and order passed.

FLAGS TO BE DISPLAYED.

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That the City Messenger be instructed to cause the flags to be displayed on all public buildings and squares to-morrow, June 14, "Flag Day"; the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.

ADMISSION TO COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That no person excepting heads of departments and reporters shall be allowed in the anteroom or upon the floor of the Council Chamber while the Council is in session.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, in connection with that order I would like to move that the President appoint a committee of rules consisting of three members.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I presented that order for Councillor Hale a few weeks ago. It was not presented of my own volition, and it seems to me to be a pretty serious order. I would move that it be referred to the Executive Committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I move that a Committee on Rules be appointed by the President to consider just such matters as this.

Coun. Brand's motion was carried.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—The Chair will appoint the same committee that he appointed earlier in the year as a temporary committee—Coun. Collins, Curley and Ballantyne.

STREET LIGHTING BY CITY.

Coun. HALE offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the Boston City Council that, instead of continuing the contract for street lighting with the Rising Sun Lighting Company, the city should buy its own gas lamps.

The resolution was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, as I have already stated before this Board the bid of the Rising Sun Company is $23.60 per lamp. By buying our own equipment we can, including all capital charges, obtain each lamp at an expense of only $22.01, over a dollar saving for each lamp, amounting to something like $19,000 a year. I, for one, am against continuing a contract where the city loses money every year, and I hope the resolution will pass.

The resolution was adopted.

INSTALLATION OF MANTLE GAS LAMPS.

Coun. HALE submitted an order—That the sum of $180,000 be and hereby is appropriated, to be expended by the Street Department for the purchase and installation of twelve thousand inverted mantle gas lamps; and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be hereby authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the City of Boston to said amount for said purposes.

SIDEWALK, WIGGLESWORTH STREET.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Superintendent of Streets make a sidewalk along both sides of Wigglesworth street between Huntington and Longwood avenues, Ward 19, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width and to be built of brick with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RESTRICTIONS, COPLEY SQUARE PROPERTY.

That the Corporation Counsel be requested to transmit to the City Council, at his earliest convenience, the exact restrictions on the property of the Old Art Museum, Copley square, and in whom is vested the title of the bow piece, so-called, in front of said museum.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, on this matter there seemed to develop at the last hearing we had on the subject some ambiguity, at least as to just what these restrictions were, and it seems to me that we are taking for granted what the restrictions are said to be. This is a matter of conveyancing, and we have a Law Department, with a man particularly fitted by long training for work of this kind, Mr. Owens. For that reason I offer this order, so that the Council may understand just what the restrictions are. It was said by one gentleman at the hearing the other day, that there is some doubt as to the bow piece. This matter can be cleared up by a proper examination of the title, and it seems to me we ought to have it. I, for one, am in this position in regard to the matter. I believe when men of responsibility come forward and want to help Boston we ought to help them. On the other hand, we, acting as trustees for 600,000 people, ought to act slowly and see that Boston gets something in return for what it does. Accordingly I offer this order.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, with Coun. Collins' consent, I would like to amend that order so as to include the title to that bow piece.

You remember that ex-Councilman Godwin claimed that the trust did not own that bow piece.

Coun. COLLINS—I will include that, Mr. President.

The order was amended by adding the words "and in whom the title to the bow piece in front of said art museum stands."

The question came on the passage of the order as amended.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I understand that this matter will come before the Executive Committee to-day. With that in view I would suggest as an amendment or substitute that the Corporation Counsel, Mr. Babson, and the City Conveyancer, Mr. Day, be invited to appear before the Executive Committee so that we may take some action to-day without delaying the matter further.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, it seems to me it would be a good plan to have Corporation Counsel Babson and Mr. Day appear before the Executive Committee to-day, but it seems to me there is no reason why this order should not pass now, in order that the title of the property may be examined forthwith.

Coun. BRAND'S motion was declared carried. Coun. COLLINS doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays, and Coun. Brand's motion was lost, yeas 3, nays 3.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Brand—3. Nays—Coun. Collins, Hale, Kenna—3.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. BRAND'S motion to refer the order to the Executive Committee was lost, and the order was passed.

A COURSE IN CITY PROMOTION.

The University of Wisconsin maintains what is known as an Extension Division, under which several courses are given by correspondence. Among these is a course in "City and Town Promotion." In connection with this a bulletin of the university describes the reason for the course as follows: "Most business enterprises are limited in business, size and success by the communities in which they exist. Only an occasional business can outgrow its city and district, and the interest of the business owner and manager is therefore connected fundamentally with the prosperity and advance of his section. Business men's organizations in a few cities have grasped the opportunity of this situation and have led in astonishing strides forward. The story of their work and of the available ways in which municipalities and sections can promote their size and prosperity, and organization methods for the purpose, are the subjects of the course." The topics treated include such subjects as: Promotion for the city; stimulating surrounding country; widening trade area; markets and exchanges; rendering a city attractive; unconscious psychological effects; the publicity bureau attracting residents; improving business conditions; organizing and conducting the work of promotion.

Dr. Louis E. Reber is the director of the University Extension Division and Dr. Benj. M. Rastall is in charge of the course here referred to. Either of these may be addressed at Madison, Wis.—Municipal World.

WINNIPEG AND LOS ANGELES.

In 1906 the City of Winnipeg, Canada, voted bonds of $3,250,000 to develop and distribute 60,000 horse power of hydro-electricity, and the work is now nearing completion. Some account of this undertaking is given in a recent consular report (United States). The plan includes a distribution plant of conduits, cables and overhead wires. There is now 15,000 horse power in use in Winnipeg, and it is believed the new power will attract manufactures. To small users the rate will be from 3 to 7 cents per kilowatt, a reduction of one-third the present price.

THE DESIGN OF TERMINALS FOR MECHANICAL FREIGHT HANDLING.

As no one design can be made applicable to all freight terminals, the following remarks are to be considered as indicating the general principles, and are therefore to be valued only as suggestions.

Hand Truck Limitations.—Even to this day there are continually being designed and erected important freight terminals which have for their controlling factor the limitations of the ancient hand truck. These limitations determine the width and the number of stories of the stations, the number, arrangement and length of the tracks, the location and dimensions of the team driveways, the relative position of the different buildings and influence even the layout of the yard tracks and switches.

Although these freight stations and yards have been laid out with great thought and care by the engineers, yet, as the design has always been dominated by the hand trucks, these terminals are not in most cases adapted to the most efficient and economical installation or operation of modern freight-handling machinery. Almost everything has been sacrificed to reduce the length of the hand-truck travel. This was necessary because, as is well known, any increase in this length adds greatly to the cost of trucking. As has been stated by Mr. Byers, of the Missouri Pacific Railroad: "In a freight house 300 feet long by 35 feet wide the average trucking is about 120 feet. If this can be reduced to 50 feet it represents a saving of three to five cents per ton."

To reduce the trucking distance, the width of the outbound station has been made 25 or 30 feet and the inbound 50 or 60 feet, and at transfer stations the platforms and arrangement of the cars have been condensed to the narrowest limit, 12 to 14 feet platforms being common. Cars on three or four parallel tracks have been "spotted," and often the car station order has not been followed, that the cars which have the greatest tonnage may require the least trucking.

During the period when the volume of freight was not excessive, and while there was plenty of room at the terminals, everything worked smoothly, but even then the terminal floor expenses averaged about 40 cents per ton handled. But the tonnage of this package freight kept increasing at the rate of 20 per cent per year. More men were employed,—a small army, in fact,—and, finally, there was not room for the men themselves upon the station floor. Long lines of truckmen were kept waiting, each man costing 20 cents per hour, and then came the trouble,—congestion of men, of freight and of the drays on the driveways.

In Chicago the average package freight moved by a platform laborer is stated to be eight tons in ten hours. Without congestion and a uniform delivery he could handle fourteen tons, a 75 per cent increase. Congestion means delay,—re-handling,—and even a moderate congestion adds 33 per cent to the ton handling cost.

Next, to avoid this congestion, the stations were lengthened with the corresponding car "strings," even to 1,600 feet or more. The draymen were directed to go to certain designated doors with the outbound freight, but as one dray load often contained consignments for cars located far apart on this long "string" it happened, even with the best routing, that a truckman with only a light load was sometimes compelled to travel as much as 2,000 feet in making one trip. But long trips, due to the long stations, were preferable to congestion.

These long stations and platforms relieved for a time the congestion on the station floors and platforms. The long platforms pleased the shippers and receivers of freight, as their drays could be more quickly loaded and unloaded. This package freight kept on increasing, and to-day there is more trouble; the limit of many stations is reached, and again is congestion, and, in addition, the long trucking. There are, however, two solutions: to purchase more land and erect more terminal buildings, or to replace men by machinery.

When, from financial or other reasons, it may not be the purpose to employ mechanical methods immediately, a terminal nevertheless can be designed so that at any future time machinery can be readily placed in position with few, if any, changes in the building or general layout of the driveways and tracks, and also permit the use of hand trucks for the present. There would be little increase in the original cost over the hand-truck plan.

By the application of machinery the capacity of a station can be so greatly multiplied as to take care of for many years this growing tonnage of package freight and to avoid congestion. If this is not done there must be made an additional investment in land, buildings and tracks for new terminals. The investment interest on new terminals, including maintenance and amortization, will average from 28 to 30 cents per ton handled, while the investment interest on machinery under similar conditions will be less than two cents per ton. It is much cheaper to install machinery than to purchase new terminals.

Objections to such machinery have been due to not understanding or comprehending the latest advances in these mechanical applications.

The following suggestions as to design apply to the more important terminals. Smaller stations handling less than 100 tons per day will show a saving of 20 per cent on the investment. It is advisable to consider briefly the methods of operation at the outbound, inbound and transfer stations. Though the machinery is the same, yet the operation is different.

It costs very little more to convey by machinery a load over a distance of 500 feet than it does to move the same load 50 feet. A traveling electric hoist makes the second story as available as the first, without trouble, and with but little, if any, increase of expense over horizontal movements, considering the utilization of a near instead of a remote space.

Outbound Stations.—At the outbound station the freight is elevated by the traveling electric hoist, either from the unloading platform, which is along the outside of the outbound station, or from the floor space at the rear of the platform, or from island or side platforms in the yards which are separated from the main platform, or the load may be hoisted directly from the drays.

The inspecting, receipting, assorting, weighing, routing, checking and counter-checking have been most carefully considered and provision made for these. The avoidance of errors of shipment have been more completely secured than with man power.

After the freight is assorted at or near the platform it is then lifted by the hoist and conveyed by the telfer to the designated car. It may, however, be assorted away from the platform if desired, either upon the same level in the rear or upon the second floor, being moved by the same overhead telfer.

The freight which is taken from the island or side platform is assorted for the different cars or consignees upon this island platform, or upon the second story, which may be the floored and roofed-over space above the driveways, over the first floor of the station or over the cars, a portion of which may also be floored and roofed over for this purpose.

Inbound Stations.—At the inbound station the freight is taken from the cars upon flatboards, elevated, taken to the assorting platforms upon this elevated second floor, or directly to the first floor if desired, assorted upon flatboards for each consignee, so that it can be delivered most promptly to the drayman of the consignee without rehandling when he has backed up to the inbound platform or to the inbound island platform, or it can be lowered upon the dray in the yard.

Should it be advisable in any case, owing to location, to have the freight cars enter the second story, the machinery can be equally well adapted to this condition.

Flatboards.—It often happens that the most insignificant part of the machinery or apparatus is of essential importance in operation, and so it is in this overhead hoisting and conveying. This essential, for want of a better name, has been called the flatboard. It consists of several boards securely fastened and bound together and provided with lifting loops, or some similar arrangement, whereby the hooks of the overhead conveyer can be readily attached for raising and transporting. There are often attached to these flatboards wheels or rollers. The lifting loops are used as a handle for moving upon the platform or in the cars. In some cases, as with cement, hooks, slings or other carriers are used.

At the outbound station these flatboards are placed upon the various receiving platforms and the loads from the drays are not placed, as is the usual custom, upon the floor of the platform, but are assorted and separated upon these flatboards, which, when loaded, are ready to be conveyed to the proper car, being weighed in transit.

The flatboards are adjusted so as to have the same weight for each size, the standard size for railway terminals being 6 feet long, 3 feet wide and about 2 inches in thickness, with wheels about 4 inches in height. Net safeguards upon the sides are attached to the end ropes to prevent packages falling off, due to careless loading.

At the inbound station the loads when received at the assorting points are assorted and placed in piles upon these flatboards, and the loaded flatboard can be raised, conveyed and lowered upon the drays or upon the inbound platforms ready for the draymen without rehandling. As soon as the overhead machinery will have been installed by the railway companies, drays will have standard false or removable floor flatboards, exchangeable at any station.

Non-Interference with Present Methods.—It is to be noticed that, if it be desired to retain any of the older methods of operation, it can readily be done without there being any interference between the old and the new. Each can be operated simultaneously. As an example, the freight can be left by the dray at the outbound platform or be taken from the inbound platform, or trucked to the cars, as formerly. The machinery is overhead, out of the way, and, in a properly arranged station, occupies space available for no other purpose.

* Abstracts from an article by H. McL. Harding in Engineering Record.

Freight cars should be arranged in pairs with a platform between each pair. More or less, as may be desired, of the longitudinal space over the cars is floored and roofed over, and even here there is so much floor space that it can be used for other purposes.

Transfer Stations.—It is purposed by progressive superintendents that the least amount possible of freight should be rehandled, as any rehandling means a great increase in terminal freight expenses. This is all important at transfer stations. Overhead machinery, with a combination of automatic and non-automatic conveyers in trains, can make a mutual interchange between cars without rehandling.

At the Waverly transfer station of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the rehandled freight is only a trifle over 1 per cent, and at the Mantua transfer station similar wonderful economies have been effected through the elimination of rehandling, often reducing the former cost by one-half. In fact, the space occupied by the Mantua large transfer station, about 100 feet wide and 1,200 feet long, will probably be used for freight tracks. It will therefore be seen that little assorting or holding floor space should be required at transfer stations, and any space really necessary can be reserved upon the second floor. The whole ground space, therefore, at transfer stations can be reserved for tracks and intervening platforms. These platforms should have sufficient space for an overhead track to serve each line of cars, so as to secure the greatest efficiency.

Island Platforms.—To relieve the congestion at station platforms, narrow island or side platforms can equally well provide for all conditions of operation, besides affording additional security against making mistakes in routing at the outbound, and similarly for the delivery of freight to draymen at the inbound.

The writer would urge in planning new terminals that they should be designed with reference to the immediate or future installation of freight handling machinery, and not follow the old hand-truck limitations. The changes from the hand-truck plans would consist in the design of the houses, in reference to the number of stories, heights, widths, clearances, supports for the overhead tracks, layout of the driveways and surface tracks, so that the least expense of installation and operation of mechanical methods may be attained. If the overhead track systems are standardized, the same hoisting and conveying machinery can be used at all freight terminals.

Capacity.—The truckman with the loaded truck travels on the average during the whole day, including loading and unloading, about 100 feet per minute, transporting an average load of 250 pounds. Machinery will cover the same distance, including all stops, four times as fast, and carry easily a load four times as heavy at railway stations; at steamship piers loads of several tons. The ratio of the capacity or efficiency of mechanical methods over manual labor is easily computed; four times as many trips per minute and four times the load, the usual operations, with additional mechanical precautions against error, all done with greater exactness and certainty.

Mr. Charles Burlingame, of St. Louis, writes:

"Any system that will improve the handling of cars at terminals increases mileage per car and incidentally the worth of it. A road of given mileage, with improved terminal handling, would need a less number of cars to handle its business.

With a less number of cars, naturally, there would result a great saving in original cost of cars, the interest on the investment, depreciation, cost of repairs, keeping records, parking of cars when business is light, extra tracks necessary to park cars and a smaller organization in all departments of the railroad.

"The space of ground, in a city of the first class, which a car occupies, at the high rate real estate is held in cities, counting the interest on the original cost and taxes, is worth $1.30 a day. If, by improved methods, a smaller space can be occupied both by the freight house and the number of cars, there would be this car area charge of $1.30 saved, which can be realized in the future, as the railroads must still further expand in such cities, unless reforms are discovered and put in operation. If railroads can get along with what ground and track facilities they now have as their business grows, and they are not forced to acquire more space, what a blessing to the inhabitants of the cities and what good fortune to the owners of the railroads.

"By handling loads promptly a railroad increases its business, because quick service pleases the shippers and receivers of freight. The real thing now for railways to command business, and the surest and best guarantee of a profitable business, is good service. The railroad that gives the good service is the railroad that gets the bulk of the business.

"Where business is handled at a freight platform quickly there are fewer mistakes made, fewer astray packages, less liability of theft and men work better. Activity is contagious. When a man is ahead of his work or up with it, no matter what kind of work it is, whether in the office or on the freight platform, he works with a better spirit and without that discouragement that comes from being snowed under.

"It is a serious problem in terminals now to get out on time evening freight trains, on account of freight houses closing so short a time ahead of the schedule departing time of trains. With improved methods, the loading and switching could easily be done in the time allotted at present, and important freight trains started on time. When they are not started on time they miss meeting points and lose rights all over the road. Frequently a half hour's delay in starting will result in a delay to a car going a thousand or more miles of from 24 to 72 hours."

The cost per ton handled is still rising, due to increased wages and congestion. The wages have risen from 17½ cents per hour to 20 cents with a further increase possible. A little congestion will easily add 30 per cent to the cost which is now, on the average for the floor expenses, above 40 cents per ton; for L. C. L. freight, 40 cents at the outbound station, 30 cents at each transfer station and nearly 40 cents at the inbound. Add to this the interest and general expense account of the terminals, 28 cents, and there is the grand total for handling one ton of package freight.

Mr. James J. Hill says that there is plenty of tracks and plenty of cars, but the congestion is at the terminals. If therefore the terminals can be made more efficient, then the efficiency of the whole transportation system will be increased in the same ratio. As by machinery the capacity of a terminal can be increased fourfold, there should be a corresponding increase of efficiency in the whole system.

The time comes when manual labor, in every important industry, must be supplemented by machinery. Everyone knows that the people cannot be clothed and shod by the products of hand labor only. Men could not be found in sufficient numbers to sow and reap and gather the enormous food crops of the great West without the aid of machinery. As the above is true in regard to each industrial product, why should it not most emphatically be true of that industry which is concerned with all products, namely, transportation.

Advantages of Mechanical Methods.—The following are a few of the many advantages to be derived from mechanical methods.

1. The capacity of a station can be easily quadrupled.

2. The cost of freight movements can be reduced to at least one-fourth that of manual labor.

3. Greater efficiency produced in the whole transportation system.

From the above it seems a great error to continue the use of the hand-truck, and it is wrong to continue to design and install hand-truck terminals perpetuating man power to move loads, as in the days of the Pharaohs.—Engineering Record.

FREE THEATERS AS WELL AS FREE BATHS.

Mexico City, Mexico.—Free wash tubs, free baths and a barber who will give his services gratis to those who cannot pay are among the strikingly novel features of the plans for keeping the poorer classes neat and clean during next September, when Mexico will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of her independence. Governor Guillermo de Landay Escandon, who is chief executive of the Federal District of this country, is the official who has ordered free baths and a free barber. Governor Landay is considered a great friend of the poor people of this country. It was he who first organized the uplift movement, and spent thousands of dollars to help elevate the working people of the Federal District. He rented theaters so that the poor might attend moving-picture shows. Between the pictures he and his friends delivered lectures. Now he will establish free night schools. His plans include a huge park, where the workingmen and their families can go every Sunday afternoon and enjoy amusement free of all cost.—Municipal Journal.

GARBAGE IN PARIS.

A recent consular report tells of garbage and rubbish collection in Paris, and as described, it is not up to a good American standard. Service is paid for by the individual householder—not by the city. For the average family the cost is from $10 to $12 a year. There is no special form or make of can or box. Wagons carry the stuff to the Seine where it is placed on barges and towed to various private concerns that take it in return for what they can make out of it. The rubbish is sorted with great care, and it pays the expenses for handling the ashes and garbage, for in the latter, although they are used for fertilizer, there is no profit.

FLOWERS ON HIGHWAYS.

District of Columbia has an association for planting flowers along the highways. On a given day the members come together in automobiles and other conveyances and are given each a rake, a package of flower seeds and a map of the district with his own work area checked off. Then they plant flowers here and there along the roadway—hardy annuals which will not only bloom this year but will volunteer also for next.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

On June 16 the Mayor granted to the Superintendent of Public Buildings permission to sell, for the sum of $312, to the Hodge Boiler Works of East Boston, an old twenty ton public scales now located in one of the buildings of their plant.

A CONGRESSMAN ON WHARVES AND TERMINALS.

On February 14, 1910, Hon. Gustav Kustermann, a congressman representing a Wisconsin district, made a strong speech in the lower house on the subject of dredging fourteen feet depth of channel in the Mississippi river from St. Louis to New Orleans. It was thoroughly practical and was listened to with marked attention. Several strong points in it apply so closely to the course pursued by Mayor Rice in constructing the slips and terminals at the Houston turning basin that the people of Houston and Texas are entitled to know how similar are the views of other public men on similar propositions. But, first, it should be stated here that Mayor Rice purchased 172 acres on the turning basin for the purpose of establishing on the city's land rail terminals, wharves and warehouses and cutting slips in it for ocean vessels that all freights might be handled free of charge. Some of the most applicable points are as follows:

"Excessive dockage charges by private individuals along the Ohio, the most important commercial river in the United States, have frequently caused steamboats not to land at small towns, thus depriving them of the advantages of water competition. The cities in the United States have so far been very neglectful in providing and owning wharves and equipments for handling and transferring freights. They have allowed the best and most suitable dock properties to get into the hands of private parties and railroad companies, who, by excessive charges, impede the free use of waterways or stand in the way of water competition.

"Chicago owns no public landing place, and all its water fronts, if not controlled by railroad interests, are private property. The lake front in Chicago, opposite the business section, is entirely owned by the Illinois Central Railway.

"The same condition as in Chicago exists in Buffalo, Cleveland, Norfolk, Mobile, Oakland, Pittsburg, St. Louis, Vicksburg, and many other places in the United States bordering on water, thus precluding all water shipments unless sanctioned by the private or corporate owners of the terminals. At Chesapeake Bay the Pennsylvania Railroad Company absolutely controls the steamboat traffic. In other places powerful steamboat companies own the dock properties and it is impossible for tramp vessels to obtain landing privileges. Even in New York the number of open piers is entirely inadequate to the demand, and the long term dock leases make it impossible to increase the number of those piers."

He makes even stronger the position of this city administration as well as his own in the following paragraphs:

"No real competition in the rates of rail and water transportation will ever be seen until you make the two interests entirely independent of each other, which can only be done, as done in European cities, by the public owning the connections between rail and water.

"I am thoroughly convinced that there will be no real and honest competition between transportation by rail and water until the connecting link, the key to the situation, is in the hands of the people and not owned by several interests.

"However, before an appropriation for even this purpose is made available the cities along this water route, at least those of 5,000 or more inhabitants, should agree to build and maintain public landing places and an equipment necessary to load and unload the boats, and to make the transfer from water to railroads or vice versa."

The next paragraph shows that he proposes to get his people to do before he asks Congress for an appropriation just what the city of Houston has almost finished in the nature of traffic facilities:

"To show you that I am ready to live up to my preachings, I will say that before asking for an appropriation for a certain harbor in my district, I induced the city council to agree to provide for a dock, warehouse, equipment for loading and unloading, good wagon roads to the harbor and railroad tracks. The appropriation asked for is contingent upon the city carrying out its promise to own and maintain proper terminals."—Municipal World.

MORE LIGHT IN CHICAGO.

Through the power provided by a district organization partly in and partly out of Chicago, that city is to be helped out on its street lighting by the addition of 10,000 arc lamps. This will make it one of the best lighted cities in the world. Chicago is to pay for the current thus used at the rate of $15 a year a horse power. Selling our power on that basis would give us an income of a million and three-quarters per annum.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 16, 1910.

To the City Council:
I recommend the adoption of the appended order, authorizing the City Engineer to sell an automobile now in the custody of the Engineering Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CHELSEA BRIDGE, WIDTH OF DRAW.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 16, 1910.

To the City Council:
I transmit herewith, in order that it may be placed in the official files, a notice from the United States War Department, relating to "Chelsea Bridge," crossing main or north channel of Mystic river.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

War Department,
Washington, D. C., June 3, 1910.

To the City of Boston, Massachusetts:

Take notice that, whereas, the Secretary of War has good reason to believe that the bridge jointly owned and controlled by the cities of Boston and Chelsea, and known as the "Chelsea Bridge," across the main or north channel of Mystic river, and connecting the cities of Chelsea and Charlestown, Mass., is an unreasonable obstruction to the free navigation of the said Mystic river (which is one of the navigable waterways of the United States) on account of insufficient width of draw opening and unsatisfactory location of the draw span;

And whereas, the following alterations, which have been recommended by the Chief of Engineers, are required to render navigation through or under it reasonably free, easy and unobstructed, to wit: Increase the clear width of the draw opening to not less than one hundred (100) feet (and as much more as is practicable without interference with the existing tunnel or conduit of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board under the present draw opening); and provide such draw piers and fenders as may be necessary for the safe and prompt passage of vessels through the draw opening.

And whereas, to June 30, 1911, is a reasonable time in which to alter the said bridge as described above;

Now, therefore, in obedience to, and by virtue of, section eighteen of an act of the Congress of the United States entitled "An Act making appropriations for the construction, repair and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1899, the Secretary of War does hereby notify the said City of Boston, Massachusetts, to alter the said bridge as described above, and prescribes that said alterations shall be made and completed on or before June 30, 1911.

ROBERT SHAW OLIVER,
Asst. Secretary of War.

Placed on file.

APPOINTMENT BY THE MAYOR.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 20, 1910.

To the City Council:
Subject to confirmation by your honorable body, I appoint Herbert C. Gray (5 Sheridan street, Ward 24) a Weigher of Coal and a Measurer of Wood and Bark for the term ending April 30, 1911.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.
Laid over under the law.

ANNUITY FOR MRS. GORHAM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 20, 1910.

To the City Council:
Chapter 603 of the Acts of 1910, which the Governor has just approved, authorizes the payment of an annuity of $300, for a period of ten years, to the widow of John Gorham, who recently met his death while in the employ of the Street Department of this city. He is survived by a widow and family of dependent children, and it is my opinion that the city should contribute, in some measure, toward the support of this woman and these children, who have been deprived of their only means of support through his conscientious devotion to the city's service. In order that the provisions of this chapter may become operative it will be necessary for the City Council to authorize the payment of the annuity, and I therefore submit a draft of order, the passage of which I earnestly recommend.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 603 of the Acts of 1910, the Superintendent of Streets be authorized to pay to Mary Gorham, widow of John Gorham, an annuity of three hundred dollars per annum, for a period of ten years, unless the widow shall remarry within said period, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Street Department, Sewer Division.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

BRANCH LIBRARY, CHARLESTOWN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 20, 1910.

To the City Council:
Loan appropriations have been made by former City Councils for "Branch Library, Charlestown, Estate, $15,000," and "Branch Library, Charlestown, Alterations and Completion, $15,000," which have not been expended. The Trustees of the Public Library are now disposed to take decisive action with regard to the library service in this section of the city, and I have had a conference with a Committee of the Trustees upon the subject. We arrived at the conclusion that the appropriations referred to above should be merged, and I therefore recommend that your honorable body adopt the appended draft of order which would have this effect.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be authorized to transfer the appropriations of fifteen thousand dollars each from the appropriations for "Branch Library, Charlestown, Estate" and "Branch Library, Charlestown, Alterations and Completion" to an appropriation for "Branch Library, Charlestown."

The question came on the passage of the order. Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I believe that this matter should be put over for another week. I was talking with one of the Library Trustees to-day. I did not understand it in just that way, that he wanted the two library items merged. It now seems that, as far as the Library Trustees are concerned, they feel that they cannot do anything, as far as library affairs in Charlestown are concerned, unless they have that $30,000 in one sum. However, as it concerns my district particularly, I move that it be put over for one week.

The matter was assigned to the next meeting of the Council.

INFORMATION CONCERNING ORDERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, 73 Tremont Street,
Boston, June 17, 1910.

To the Honorable City Council,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sirs,—I return herewith three orders of the City Council sent to me by the assistant city clerk for my opinion as to whether they are legal and in proper form.

In reply I would state that the order authorizing the officer or board in charge of any department to grant a holiday without loss of pay to the employees of his or their department on the day of the annual picnic of such department seems to me legal and in fair form.

The other two orders, to wit: That requesting the Mayor to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to grant two weeks' vacation without loss of pay to all employees of the Ferry Division of the Street Department, and the one requesting the Mayor to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to grant two weeks' vacation to all laborers employed in the various divisions of the Street Department, said vacations to be given without loss of pay, are not in good form and are in violation of section 8 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

Under the provisions of the present city charter all that the City Council of Boston can do is to authorize the Superintendent of Streets or any other head of a department to grant holidays or vacations without loss of pay. In other words, the City Council can authorize under chapter 587 of the Acts of 1908, heads of departments to grant vacations or holidays, but cannot request or instruct the Mayor and the executive departments to give vacations or holidays.

Yours truly,

THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Placed on file.

VACATION FOR EMPLOYEES.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That, until otherwise ordered, the officers and boards in charge of the various departments be hereby authorized to allow, without loss of pay, to each employee not on a yearly salary, holidays on all legal holidays, half-holidays on Saturdays, and two weeks' vacation during each year.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Coun. HALE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

(1) Report on petition of C. S. Day et al. (referred May 16) for reduction of rents at New Faneuil Hall Market—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the Street Commissioners consider the advisability of reducing the present charges and making a nominal charge for the use of space on sidewalks in the market district.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. Chairman, do I understand that that is a request that the Street Commissioners investigate and make a report upon the matter to the City Council, or to act on their own judgment in regard to it?

President BALLANTYNE—It is a matter for the Street Commissioners to use their own judgment upon.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, this matter has been gone into very thoroughly, and it seems to me that the City Council ought to take a little bit of responsibility on their own shoulders. We have had an opportunity to consult the Street Commissioners in the matter, and it seems at this late day as though we ought to be ready to act upon it. Personally, I would rather see the Council act upon it than take up a whole lot more time, having it drag on from week to week and month to month. We are not getting anywhere and seem to be afraid to take any responsibility at all. That is the way it looks to me.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I move to amend the order by adding the words "and report their findings to the City Council."

The question came on the adoption of the amendment.

The motion to recommit to the Executive Committee was declared lost. Coun. KENNY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The motion to recommit was lost, yeas 4, nays 4.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Collins, Kenny—4.

Nays—Coun. Ballantyne, Brand, Curley, Hale—4.

Coun. Brand's amendment, adding the words "and report their findings to the City Council," was carried, and the question came on the passage of the order as amended.

The Council voted to amend the order by inserting the words "or inadvisability" after the word "advisability."

The order as amended read as follows:

Ordered, That the Street Commissioners consider the advisability or inadvisability of reducing the present charges and making a nominal charge for the use of space on sidewalks in the market district, and report their findings to the City Council.

The order as amended was passed.

(2) Report on petition of Copley Square Trust and messages of Mayor and remonstrance (referred June 3) for release of restrictions on land used for Museum of Fine Arts—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That whenever the Board of Street Commissioners shall widen St. James avenue, Trinity place, Stuart street and Dartmouth street, substantially as shown in yellow on a plan of the Copley Square Trust land bounded by said streets, and said trustees shall convey to the city for street purposes the lands taken for such widenings, and agree to construct said avenue, place and streets free of cost to said city and in a manner satisfactory to the Superintendent of Streets, and to release the city from any and all claims for damages by reason of such widenings and the construction of said streets, his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city, for a nominal consideration and in a manner satisfactory to the Law Department, to release to said trustees the land then remaining bounded by said avenue, place and streets as widened, especially releasing said land from all the restrictions set forth in an indenture between the city and the Museum of Fine Arts, dated October 26, 1899, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 2642, page 26.

The report was accepted and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I wish to present this order as a new draft, and I was about to ask that it be substituted for the report of the committee. I wished to do this before the President put the vote accepting the report, and I now offer it.

President BALLANTYNE—You mean as a substitute for the order and not for the report of the committee?

Coun. BRAND—It just changes and makes it a little more specific. The original order mentions "the part shown in yellow." This makes it specific, gives in alphabetical order the particular parcels to be used for widenings.

Coun. BRAND'S order was as follows:

Ordered, That whenever the Board of Street Commissioners shall widen St. James avenue, Trinity place, Stuart street and Dartmouth street, by adding to said streets, respectively, the parcels of land marked A, B, C, G, H and D, on a plan of land owned by the Copley Square Trust, dated June 7, 1910, and drawn by Aspinwall & Lincoln, civil engineers, and said trustees shall convey to the city for street purposes the lands taken for such widening, and agree to construct such widenings of said avenue, place and streets free of cost to said city and in a manner satisfactory to the Superintendent of Streets, and to release the city from any and all claims for damages by reason of such widenings and the construction of said streets, his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city, for a nominal consideration and in a manner satisfactory to the Law Department, to release to said trustees the land then remaining bounded by said avenue, place and streets as widened, especially releasing said land from all the restrictions set forth in an indenture between the city and the Museum of Fine Arts, dated October 26, 1899, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 2642, page 26.

The question came on substitution.

President BALLANTYNE—The Chair would call attention of members to the fact that the order as reported by the committee is rather vague. It refers to a plan, but there is no means of identifying that plan at the present time.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to offer as a substitute for both those orders an order I have in my hand, and I have here the plan that it refers to.

Coun. KENNY offered the following:

Ordered, That whenever the Board of Street Commissioners shall widen St. James avenue, Trinity place, Stuart street and Dartmouth street, taking therefor substantially lots A, B, C, D, G and H, as shown on a plan signed by Aspinwall & Lincoln, civil engineers, and dated June 7, 1910, being a plan of the Copley Square Trust land bounded by said streets, and said trustees shall convey to the city for street purposes the lands taken for such widenings and shall release the city from any and all claims for damages by reason of such widenings and the construction of said streets, his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city, for a nominal consideration and in a manner satisfactory to the Law Department, to release to said trustees the land then remaining bounded by said avenue, place and streets as widened, especially releasing said land from all the restrictions set forth in an indenture between the city and the Museum of Fine Arts, dated October 26, 1899, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Book 2642, page 26; provided, however, that said release shall not be delivered until his Honor the Mayor is satisfied that the said trustees have in good faith arranged by lease or contract for the construction of a hotel on the portion of its said land fronting on St. James avenue.

The question came on the adoption of Coun. Kenny's substitute.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, I don't see that the order offered by Coun. Kenny is any more specific than the substitute I have offered, and to clear the matter up I would move you that the City Clerk be authorized to mark the plans which he holds in his hands for identification and that they be kept in his possession or in the possession of the City Council.

President BALLANTYNE—Do I understand, Coun. Kenny, that this is the same plan referred to by the order of Coun. Brand?

Coun. KENNY—This is the plan referred to in my order (holding up plan).

(The plans as submitted by Coun. Brand and Kenny were appropriately marked by the City Clerk for identification.)

The order offered by Coun. Kenny was read for information.

The question came on assignment to the next meeting.

The motion to assign for a week was declared lost. Coun. BUCKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion to assign was lost, yeas 2, nays: 6.

Yeas—Coun. Buckley, Curley—2.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Brand, Collins, Hale, Kenny—6.

Coun. BUCKLEY moved that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee; declared lost. Coun. BUCKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The motion to refer to the Executive Committee was lost, yeas 2, nays 6:

Yeas—Coun. Buckley, Curley—2.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Brand, Collins, Hale, Kenny—6.

The question came on the adoption of Coun. Kenny's substitute order.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I desire to amend the substitute order as presented by Coun. Kenny so as to provide that the cost of street widenings shall be borne by the persons benefiting—that is to say, by the Copley Square Trust.

The amendment was declared lost. Coun. CURLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

Coun. Curley's amendment was rejected, yeas 3, nays 5:

Yeas—Coun. Brand, Buckley, Curley—3.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Collins, Hale, Kenny—5.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the vote just taken, hoping the same will prevail.

Coun. Curley's motion to reconsider was declared lost.

Coun. CURLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

Reconsideration was lost, yeas 2, nays 6:

Yeas—Coun. Buckley, Curley—2.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Brand, Collins, Hale, Kenny—6.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I move to amend Coun. Kenny's order by inserting the words "until his Honor the Mayor," the words "and the City Council," and to substitute for the word "is" before "satisfied" the word "are."

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I accept that amendment, if it is in order to do so.

Coun. Collins amendment was adopted, and the question came on the adoption of Coun. Kenny's substitute as amended.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would most respectfully move—as I believe we are waiting to get a smash at it—that when the vote is taken it be by roll call.

Coun. Kenny's substitute was rejected, yeas 2, nays 6:

Yeas—Coun. Collins, Kenny—2.

Coun. Brand's order was substituted for the order reported by the committee, and was declared unanimously passed by the Chair.

Coun. BUCKLEY—No. Mr. President, it is not a unanimous vote. I would like to be recorded as voting "No."

The President directed a roll call, and Coun. Brand's substitute order was passed, yeas 6, nays 1:

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Brand, Collins, Curley, Hale—6.

VACATION FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Committee on County Accounts, submitted a report on order (referred June 13) to allow three weeks' vacation to employees in office of Registry of Deeds—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

PRINTING OF MUNICIPAL REGISTER.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Municipal Register be printed by the Superintendent of Printing, under the direction of the Committee on Rules, and that said committee also prepare a pocket edition of the rules and orders and a list of the members and committees, the expense thus incurred to be charged to the appropriation for printing.

Passed.

CHAIR FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Buildings be authorized to purchase a suitable chair for the President of the Council.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would ask, for information, what kind of a chair are you going to get?

President BALLANTYNE—I would ask Mr. Attridge, who presented the order, to give a little valuable information upon that point.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I agree with Coun. Curley when he says the pride of the household is entitled to a high chair (laughter), and I think it would be appropriate for the President of this Council to have a suitable chair. I don't think that the present chair is such. I think a chair modeled after the one that was in the old Board of Aldermen Chamber would be very appropriate and would add dignity to the office of President. It would not only be used by the President of this year but by the presidents of years to come, and I hope the order will pass.

The order was passed.

FINANCE.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following:

(1) Report on message of Mayor and communications (referred June 3) relative to reconstruction of Eastern Avenue Wharf recommending reference to the Executive Committee.

(3) Report on message of Mayor and order (referred May 23) for loan of $100,000 for the purchase and construction of playgrounds—that the order ought not to pass.

Report accepted; said order rejected.

DUMPING OF WASTE MATERIAL.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Streets be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to order the Sanitary, Paving and Street Cleaning Divisions of South Boston and of North Dorchester section to dump their waste material on the marshes and flats of McNary Park, if the Park Commissioners so agree.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I understand that at present the City of Boston is paying ten cents a load for dumping single loads of refuse off Southampton street into South bay. This order provides that material may be dumped into the McNary Park dump, off the Strandway, where it may be dumped without any expense to the city.

The order was passed.

SALE OF AUTOMOBILE.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the City Engineer be authorized to sell the electric automobile belonging to the Engineering Department the proceeds of the sale to be credited to appropriation for Engineering Department.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I understand that the City Engineer desires the automobile sold because he has no further use for it.

President BALLANTYNE—I will say for the information of Coun. Kenny that there is already a similar order before the Executive Committee. If he has no objection, this order might be withdrawn, as there is a similar order before the committee at the present time, submitted by the Mayor.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am willing that it should go to the Executive Committee, but I shall not withdraw it.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

KENNY offered an order—That the President of the City Council be and hereby is authorized to approve the bills incurred by the City Council in hearings at the Charlestown High Schoolhouse, February 10, and at the West Roxbury High Schoolhouse, February 15, being each for $5, the same to be charged to appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

DAMAGE FROM BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION.

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel be requested to take up the subject of damage, resulting from the construction of Cove Street Bridge with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, and see what settlement they will make with the city if the bridge should be discontinued,—removed,—and the streets placed in their original condition.

Coun. BRAND—Mr. President, the order is offered on account of statements made by the City Auditor, Mr. Mitchell, at the last meeting of the Committee on Finance. He stated that Mr. Benton, attorney for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, had stated to him that if Cove Street Bridge could be discontinued and the bridge removed the New Haven road would be willing to pay to the City of Boston $250,000 and withdraw its suits against the city now pending. The order was drawn and submitted to the Mayor for its approval, and it simply opens up the question of discontinuing the bridge and eventually removing it, which I believe would be a great benefit to the city, and would relieve the city of enormous expense, which it is bound to meet sooner or later. Again, when the bridge was constructed it was understood and stated at that time that the Elevated would use it at some time to run its cars over. While it would make a somewhat shorter cut from South Boston, it would not add one nickel to the Elevated road, as the road would not carry one passenger in addition to what it does at the present time. If the Elevated road would use the bridge it would have to pay a part of the cost and that cost is estimated at somewhere in excess of $350,000. So the chances of the Elevated ever using it are very remote and doubtful. I think this order is a fair one and will bring good results.

The order was read a second time and passed.

LAYING OUT OF EVERETT ROAD.

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That the Street Commissioners be requested to lay out and construct Everett road as a public way, from Savin Hill avenue to Savin Hill Playground, Ward 24, Dorchester.

Passed.

FIREWORKS, JUNE 20 AND 22.

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That a license be hereby granted to the City of Boston to set off fireworks, for display only, at Charlestown Playground on June 20 and at Franklin Field on the evening of June 22, 1910.

Passed.

RECESS.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, since there are a number of gentlemen waiting for hearings since four o'clock, I move you, sir, that we take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The motion was declared lost. Coun. COLLINS doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays, and the Council voted at 5.07 p. m. to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair, yeas, 5, nays 2.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Collins, Hale, Kenny—5.

Nays—Coun. Brand, Curley—2.

The members reassembled in the Chamber and were called to order by the PRESIDENT at 6.01 p. m.

EXPENSES OF FLAG DISPLAY.

Coun. BRAND offered an order—That the expenses incurred by the City Messenger in displaying the city flags on the day of the funeral of the late King Edward of England, on May 20, 1910, be and the same are hereby charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

SERVICE ON SOUTH FERRY.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council that night service on the South Ferry to and from East Boston should be resumed, as in event of a serious conflagration in East Boston we believe that lack of transportation facilities for fire apparatus from the city proper might lead to serious results.

The order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

The resolutions were adopted.

CAMPING PRIVILEGES AT SQUANTUM.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Streets, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to grant camping privileges at Squantum.

Passed.

REPAIR OF ST. ROSE STREET.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Streets, through his Honor the Mayor, place in condition for public travel St. Rose street, Ward 23.

Passed.

TRIMMING OF TREES, HIGH STREET.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Grounds be requested to trim the trees on both sides of High street, Charlestown, between Sullivan street and Franklin street, in accordance with request made of Street Commissioners.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I wish to say in connection with this order that about eight weeks ago I made a request of the Street Commissioners to have those trees trimmed. They are three very fine trees, but, because they are not attended to, in a high wind the limbs keep dropping off, resulting in injury to the trees. The first time when I introduced the order there was a mistake made in the address, which was referred to as 162 High street, instead of 126, but at the same time the trees were identified, because there are only those three trees between Franklin and Sullivan streets in Charlestown. The order was corrected later and then referred to the Superintendent of Public Grounds and as yet we have had no report or action, although at a meeting of the heads of departments he promised to have the matter attended to in three days. The trees still await trimming.

It seems to me that the head of the department ought to take some action at least in a matter of that sort.

The order was passed.

SEATS IN PUBLIC GROUNDS, CHARLESTOWN.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Grounds be requested to place additional seats at City Square and the Training Field at Winthrop square, Charlestown. Passed.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would call up the order that accompanied the message or communication from the Corporation Counsel with reference to a day's leave of absence to the employees of a certain city department, for instance, the Park Department, without loss of pay, for their picnic.

The order referred to was as follows:

Ordered, That, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 587 of the acts of 1908, the officer or board in charge of any department be hereby authorized to grant a holiday, without loss of pay, to the employees of his or their department on the day of the annual picnic of such department.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, this is the order that Corporation Counsel Babson said was correctly drawn.

The order was passed.

MUNICIPAL MEAT SHOPS IN MEXICO.

Consul L. J. Keena, of Chihuahua, in a report on the municipal meat shops in that Mexican city says, that the enterprise was undertaken on the initiative of the jefe politico (mayor), following a report from the Health Board that many diseases were in a great part due to the lack of sanitary conditions in the shops. The consul states:

During 1909 the city completed and opened twenty sanitary meat shops, so located as to separate them from surrounding buildings by a distance great enough to insure good air and light on all sides. The shops are built of brick, one story high, and average 18 feet long by 12 feet deep inside. The floors are made of 8-inch square colored tile imbedded in cement.

The equipment of each shop consists of a marble-topped counter, set of racks and hooks for hanging meat, white enameled washstand, and an electric fan. All windows are placed high in the wall and are barred and screened. The approximate cost per shop was $1,000 and the average monthly rental is $25. Several private individuals, convinced of the advantage of these shops, have built others identical in type and equipment, eight of which have already been opened to the public.

The slaughterhouses are subject to rigid inspection by municipal officers. Thirteen special wagons, owned by the city, are used to supply all meat shops. They are two-wheeled covered wagons with closed back and front and are lined with galvanized sheet iron. The sanitary inspection of the meat shops is under the general charge of the Health Board, but the managers and inspectors of the slaughterhouses and meat shops must inform the mayor of any irregularities they may find.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

POLICEMEN'S JOBS BEGGING.

Washington, D. C.—According to Major Richard Sylvester, there is no one in the whole District of Columbia who has lived here two years who wants to be a policeman. He has reported to the commissioners that he badly needs two new policemen to fill vacancies caused by removals from the force, and that the only two eligible applicants have not lived here for two years, as is required. The commissioners have taken his recommendation to waive the period of residence and admit the two lone eligibles to the force.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

CITY TO PAY ONE-EIGHTH OF ORNAMENTAL LIGHTING.

Los Angeles, Cal.—One-eighth of all the ornamental lighting in the city, whether it be installed on business or residence streets, will be paid for by the city. This decision has been reached by the City Council, after several weeks of debate and postponement. Half the cost of furnishing electricity for the electroliers on the downtown sections of Broadway, Spring, Main and Hill streets has heretofore been borne by the city. The new ruling means considerable change in this ratio. One-eighth the cost of running the ornamental lights is practically the same as the city pays for the arc light system.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

MUNICIPAL HALL PAYS.

Iron Mountain, Mich.—This city is finding the erection of its Municipal Hall a wise investment. The building originally cost $8,000. Now a portion of the structure has been leased to Uncle Sam for post office purposes, and for this portion he will pay an annual rental of $950. The lease runs for ten years. The Government thus will pay a total of $9,500, or $1,500 in excess of the cost of the entire building. This is not all, however. There are other remunerative rentals, past, present and future, and the city has ample room in the building for all its needs.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

PUBLIC SANITARY WASH HOUSES.

We are making steady advance in the work of arousing public sentiment in public-comfort stations and it is to be hoped that every member of the trade will bear his share of educating the public. Read the story of the good work done in Pasadena, Cal., described and illustrated in another part of this issue and you will appreciate the possibilities that lie before every one, no matter how small the town.

The city of Glasgow, Scotland, possesses a number of public-spirited citizens who have earned for that city the reputation of being the highest type of municipal-ownership development. Some years ago Glasgow built a number of sanitary public wash houses with all modern conveniences. In these, women living in small apartments and under restricted conditions can take a basketful of clothes to a public wash house and for four cents an hour can have a compartment and use all the machinery for washing and drying and at the end of an hour can take the clothes back washed and dried. These have proved a great boon to the poorer classes and the establishment of similar institutions in all congested districts of towns and cities should be encouraged. Public baths, public parks, public-comfort stations, public wash houses—all these make for sanitation, sanitation gives life, life abundant entrains good business and good business assures profit. We want them all. Let everybody undertake a little missionary work on the side.—Domestic Engineering.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, June 27, 1910.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., President BALLANTYNE in the chair. Absent—Coun. COLLINS and McDONALD.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. BRAND, to dispense with the reading of the records of the last meeting.

PLAYGROUND, WARD 25.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 27, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend, for passage by your honorable body, the appended order, appropriating fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) for the purchase of a playground in Ward 25.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the authority of chapter 292 of the Acts of 1892, and other acts or parts of acts in conformity therewith, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) be appropriated to be expended by the Board of Commissioners of Parks for the purchase of a playground in Ward 25, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

RECONSTRUCTION OF CURTIS HALL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 27, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the appended loan order, appropriating sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) for the reconstruction of the Curtis Hall building. This is substantially the amount required according to the schedule submitted in my communication to your honorable body under date of June 10, provided that the lowest actual bid, which happened to be defective in technical form, is disregarded. It seems to me that this important work ought not to be halted half way through the failure of the city authorities to provide the necessary appropriation.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) be appropriated, to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings for the reconstruction of the building formerly known as Curtis Hall, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

PURITY OF MILK SUPPLY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 27, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to refer, for consideration by your honorable body, the inclosed letter from George Holden Tinkham, Esq. No issue is more important at the present time than the preservation of the purity of the milk supply, which is believed to exert a decided influence upon the death rate, particularly among infants. Whether supervision can be exercised most effectively at the source of delivery or supply is a question upon which experts disagree and one upon which, in my opinion, the fullest discussion is desirable before definite action is taken. I suggest, therefore, that a hearing be held by your honorable body, to the end that public interest may be aroused and all the conflicting points of view may receive complete expression.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

1105-1107 Barristers Hall, Pemberton Sq.,

Boston, June 25, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I desire to thank you very much for sending me a copy of the letter sent to you June 22d by Corporation Counsel Babson, in which he said that the regulation of the New York Board of Health, the effect of which is to compel the inspection of milk at the farm, "if made by the Board of Health of Boston would probably be held legal by the courts." This was the only question as I understand it that was submitted by you to Mr. Babson.

He, however, has taken occasion to express an opinion opposed to the passage of such a regulation by the Board of Health, though, by his own confession, he knows but very little about the subject. His opinion against the advisability of the passage of such a regulation in Boston is not even as impressive or convincing as the opinion rendered by him recently that it was a public necessity to extend the leases of the subways and tunnels belonging to the City of Boston without a public hearing or due consideration to the middle of the century at the present rentals; an opinion which was unanimously condemned by the Finance Commission and the united Press of Boston.

In the first place he says that the statistics which I have are on their face "erroneous and misleading." The only statistics which I have on this subject were especially prepared under the personal supervision of Dr. Lederle, Health Commissioner of New York City, and sent to me by him. Therefore, if Mr. Babson has any quarrel about these figures it is with Dr. Lederle and not with me. Mr. Babson has not demonstrated in what particular these figures are "erroneous and misleading."

He states further that those who have studied the question of milk supply are divided into two camps; one believing that the place for inspection is at the farm, but the "larger camp" believing that such inspection "is of little or no use and that the proper place to inspect is where the milk is sold and delivered."

I think that Mr. Babson must be the only member of this so-called "larger camp" who would have the temerity to publicly declare that a food product, such as milk, can or should be produced under unsanitary conditions at the source without harm to the consumer. The refutation of this argument is carried on its face.

It is self-evident that milk cannot be properly inspected at the place where it is delivered and sold, and the experience of New York, Washington and a number of other large American cities prove the complete uselessness of sole reliance upon inspection in the city. It arrives at all terminals and stations and comes to Boston by every highway to the amount of 250,000 to 300,000 quarts daily, and is sold in thousands of places. To inspect milk properly after it arrives in Boston is an impossibility.

The scientific and correct principle is to have milk come into Boston which needs the least degree of inspection. By this is not meant that there should be no milk inspection in the city but, on the contrary, city inspection, as in New York, should be maintained and it should be better than it is now by the installation of the best city system and more inspectors. This inspection, however, should be supplementary to the inspection at the farm which is proposed by the adoption of the New York ordinance and which the New York ordinance in terms compels.

Mr. Babson further says that the so-called "larger camp" believes "that the healthiness of milk depends much more upon the personal habits of the persons who milk the cows, strain the milk and prepare to market and the length of time it is kept; that typhoid fever and most of the things injurious to milk come from contact with unclean hands and unclean receptacles, and that an inspection of a dairy once a year would in no way help these troubles."

Under the New York regulation as many protecting provisions as necessary may be contained in the permit and new ones added from time to time. The producer in New York is compelled to report any sickness upon the farm and to have the water used analyzed from time to time under penalty of forfeiture of his permit, as well as to provide clean receptacles and clean, healthy stable attendants. So that the adoption of the New York regulation would cover all the theories of Mr. Babson's so-called "larger camp" and allow, as in New York, a complete control and knowledge of the milk supply of Boston.

Mr. Babson further says that the expense of such a system would be from $75,000 to $100,000 a year. The expense to New York of what they call their "country service," including inspectors' salaries, mileage and office expense in the city in 1909, was $86,050.86; 51,116 farm inspections and 2,348 creamery inspections were made at the cost of 63 cents per inspection. The New York milk supply is about 2,250,000 quarts per day, and the Boston supply is about 250,000 to 300,000 quarts per day, or about one-tenth of the New York supply. There is no reason why this system in Boston should cost more than $40,000 per year.

Mr. Babson's statement that the city inspector would have no authority to go upon a man's premises is technically true but actually untrue, as farmers sending milk to Boston (one of their sources of income) would obtain a permit if it were reasonable in its terms, and the obtaining of the permit would carry the right to inspect at any time without notice; 45,000 farms which supply milk to New York City are thus inspected and regulated.

Modern thought and research have shown the absolute necessity of the adoption of every precaution in the safeguarding of a large city's milk supply by complete sanitary regulations at the source of the supply, in transit and after its arrival in the city, and Boston should spare no reasonable expense in attaining these ends not only for the prevention of actual mortality, particularly among infants, but for the protection of its citizens from disease; tuberculosis, our modern plague, being more often caused by unsanitary milk than by any other source of infection, according to modern scientific opinion.

I sincerely trust that you may agree with the opinion expressed in this letter, Mr. Babson's opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, and recommend that the Board of Health pass a regulation similar to the one now maintaining in New York City, or the City Council pass an ordinance to the same effect, and provide an adequate appropriation for the operation and enforcement of the same.

Yours very truly,

GEORGE HOLDEN TINKHAM.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

HOSPITAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 27, 1910.

To the City Council:

I beg to submit for your earnest consideration the inclosed communication from the president of the Board of Trustees of the City Hospital, requesting an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) for improvements which he deems of the utmost importance in the carrying on of that institution and the safeguarding of its inmates.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston City Hospital,

Boston, June 24, 1910.

To His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a conference of the Committee on Finance of the City Council with the trustees of the Boston City Hospital it was decided to call your Honor's attention to the great importance of fireproofing the engine room building. If by any possibility a fire should occur in this building it would inevitably cripple the whole hospital. The cost of this is estimated as $25,000. The electrical machines, which have been in operation for some considerable time, are of an antique pattern. It is important that new electrical machines should be installed. The cost is approximately $10,500. In the interest of economy, so far as the use of water is concerned, it is important that electric motors should be put in for running the different elevators in the hospital. At the South Department, the steam that runs the machinery for the laundry is carried a long distance. It is evident that an electric motor would diminish very materially the expense of running this portion of the hospital. The wiring for electric lights was put in some years ago. In order to bring it up to modern conditions it should be changed. The sum of $14,500 is wanted for this purpose. The cost of these important items is as follows:

Fireproofing engine room building.	$25,000
New electrical machines.	10,500
New wiring for electric lights and for electric apparatus for running elevators.	14,500
	$50,000

The Finance Committee viewed the premises and the condition of affairs was fully explained to them. They were unanimously of the opinion that the matter should be brought to your Honor's attention.

Will you kindly approve and bring the matter to the attention of the City Council for immediate action?

I have the honor to be, on behalf of the trustees,
Respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN.

President Board of Trustees.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

ELEVATED ROAD TO CAMBRIDGE.

Boston Elevated Railway Company,
President's Office, June 23, 1910.
Office of the Mayor of the City of Boston,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

We have received an attested copy of an order of the City Council, which is herewith inclosed, requesting a report as to the progress "of the elevated railroad to Cambridge."

There are two rapid transit thoroughfares being constructed, each connecting Boston with Cambridge, and each involving the construction of an elevated railway. We understood, however, informally, that the order relates to the thoroughfare consisting principally of the Cambridge Main street subway, which passes over the Cambridge bridge, and then by a short elevated railway into a tunnel, under construction, to Park street.

Much work has been done upon the Cambridge Main street subway, and it is estimated that seven-tenths of it is now completed. The Cambridge bridge was constructed some years ago, and plans are being made for the construction of the elevated railway station. The Boston Transit Commission is engaged in the construction of the tunnel, but just how much has been done we are not advised. We are in conference with that commission concerning the arrangement of the station at Park street, and expect soon to agree with them in relation thereto.

Respectfully,
BOSTON ELEVATED RAILWAY COMPANY,
BY WILLIAM A. BARNETT,
President.

COLLECTION, ETC., OF GARBAGE.

Coun. HALE submitted the following:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC HEALTH OF THE UNITED IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION. ADOPTED BY THE ORGANIZATION ON WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1910, UPON THE SUBJECT OF THE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE AND REFUSE IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Municipal cleaning is a problem which at the present time is engaging the deepest interest and thought not only of city engineers and official circles but also all classes of society.

Of late, conditions found to exist in connection with the present methods of municipal cleaning in the City of Boston are of such a nature that the citizens have become vitally interested in the subject, and through the medium of well-organized local improvement associations in all sections of the city, and their combined forces represented by the United Improvement Association, are expressing much dissatisfaction with the efficiency of the present methods of handling the city garbage and other waste materials.

The primary object of municipal cleaning is to keep a city in the best possible sanitary and healthful condition and at the same time to maintain convenience and comfort for the public.

The present method of handling our garbage and other waste material falls far short, we believe, of promoting or maintaining the several conditions which are so essential and necessary to our citizens' well-being; and the low mummings and grumbings of criticisms concerning neglected and much needed improvements in our municipal cleaning will grow into loud and general protestations as the several nuisances in connection with the present system become more and more unbearable.

It is our opinion that a portion of the public funds of the City of Boston can be expended for no more beneficial purpose than for such improvements as are needed to conserve to our citizens the very best sanitary conditions, including their convenience and comfort.

We believe it to be expedient for the City of Boston to start in a well-ordered campaign of improvements in the handling of garbage, and we believe the most logical place to start these improvements is with the household garbage container.

During our investigations we have found that the household garbage container is of various forms and of various materials. They are of all shapes and sizes; and of the materials, they are pasteboard boxes, wooden boxes, wooden pails, butter and lard tubs, beer kegs, the ash barrel, tin pails, iron kettles, galvanized-iron pails, etc.

Many of these articles have some sort of cover, and many have nothing whatever. Some of the covers fit tightly, but many do not.

Nearly all of those made of wood were impregnated with the liquid portion of garbage, and gave off a most disgusting stench which could be detected several yards away.

Garbage containers that are uncovered or closed with an insufficient cover allow access to their contents of rats, cats and dogs, which pull the garbage out upon the ground, maul and scatter it about, and carry portions into back yards to ferment and putrefy. The whole contents become hotbeds of menacing germs and breeding places for disease-carrying flies of various varieties.

Right here at this point in the very beginning of the handling of garbage should reform begin along lines of improvements.

We believe it to be expedient, and we also most emphatically urge and petition, that the City of Boston enact such an ordinance as shall require every householder to provide for himself or his tenants a garbage container of such form and material that all foul and offensive odors shall be prevented from escaping into the surrounding air, and also prevent rats, cats, dogs and flies from gaining access to their contents. To this end we earnestly urge that section 14, chapter 47, of the By-Laws and Ordinances of the Town or City of Boston which reads "No person shall keep in his house, or on his land, any house offal, unless the same is placed in a suitable vessel, free from all ashes and other refuse matter, and so placed as to be easily removed" be amended so that it shall read—No person shall keep in his house, or on his land, any house offal, unless the same is placed in a suitable tightly covered metallic vessel, free from all ashes and other refuse matter, and so placed as to be easily removed.

If section 14, chapter 47, be amended as above suggested, and provision be made for its enforcement, much will be gained toward promoting public comfort and health and the "Fly Crusade" will receive an impetus that will enable it to spell "Success."

In the second instance we believe much could be done to improve the present system and collection of garbage. Collection as it is now done is performed in a most slovenly manner, and by men who are ignorant of the first principles of sanitation, and who have not the slightest regard for cleanliness. Garbage is spilled over the ground and scattered from the garbage container to the cart, and left at the disposal of rats, cats, dogs and flies. Garbage left upon the ground is as much, and possibly more, of a nuisance as that in an open container; and we believe that there is no excuse for such carelessness.

We also find there are occasions when collectors either overlook or neglect to remove garbage at proper intervals. Infrequent or irregular collections are, especially in the summer months, of very great inconvenience to say the least. It is not only inconvenient to have a garbage container overflowing with sour, fermenting and putrid material, filling the air spaces of back yards with a disagreeable stench, but on account of the nature of the material with its awful odor, and being infested with maggots, it is positively a menace to public comfort and health.

Collections at frequent stated intervals are, we believe, possible and practicable, and, if collections are made by contract, we believe there should be embodied in such a contract the stated intervals at which these collections should be made, and some provision for their enforcement.

Furthermore, we believe that better and cleaner service would be obtained if some sort of inspection of the work was made by some person appointed for this special purpose, the inspection to be made at a time unknown to the contractor.

During the winter months it is quite possible that good and sufficient reasons may arise to account for tardy and infrequent collections of garbage material, but it is our opinion that these conditions do not obtain during the summer; and it is during this warm season that the contents of the containers become the most offensive and dangerous to the comfort and health of the public, and for this reason we believe that during the summer months collections should be more frequent than during the winter.

In the third instance, we believe that improvements should be made in the cartage of garbage through our public streets. We cannot urge too strongly that the cart now being generally used be replaced with some form of cart that shall be thoroughly efficient to conserve the convenience, comfort and health of our citizens.

The old wooden carts of the present form, now being used in our residential suburbs, and drawn through our public streets with their foul smelling and disgusting contents exposed to view, are offensive to the last degree. From many of these carts the liquid contents is seen dripping all along, leaving pools of noxious stuff to dry and be blown about with the other dust of the street.

Not only is this condition a nuisance, but the public is positively subjected to dangers of infection by injurious germs that may find their way into this material.

We earnestly urge that an improvement of a satisfactory and efficient nature be made as soon as possible in the form of cart to be used for the transportation of garbage through our public streets, so that the comfort of our citizens shall be promoted and maintained, and the best sanitary conditions attend the cartage of garbage.

We come now to the question of handling ashes, waste paper, household dirt and other waste material; and here, again, as with the garbage, improvements should be made in regard to the container at the house or place where such material is stored before being taken away by the Sanitary Department of the city.

As with the garbage container, so with the container of ashes and other waste material,—it may be a pasteboard box, a wooden box, a barrel, a tin can or the regulation galvanized-iron ash can.

There can be no doubt that many dangerous fires have been started by the placing, through ignorance or negligence, of hot ashes in wooden barrels or boxes. Any form of a wooden ash container is a menace to the safety of the public and to property.

In the handling of barrels by the collectors the bottom often falls out or they are broken, leaving a portion of their contents strewn upon the sidewalk or street. This refuse is unsightly, and the wind blows it about in the faces of the passers-by.

Section 17, chapter 47, of the "By-Laws and Ordinances of the Town or City of Boston" provides that "No person shall place or keep, in or near any building, ashes or cinders, or in such a manner as to be liable to cause fire, nor mix them with other substances, nor place or keep them except in metallic vessels, so placed as to be easily removed," and we earnestly urge that this ordinance be enforced in every section of the City of Boston.

Just at this point it might be well to add that we believe that the city refuse carts should be obliged to take away cellar dirt, grass cut from the lawn, weeds, sticks of wood, small stones and all other waste material that is naturally collected about the lawns and homes of our citizens; otherwise, how is a person to dispose of such material if he lives some distance from a dump?

This brings us to the subject of the nuisance attendant upon the present management of our inland dumps. The attention of both the Street and Health Departments have been called repeatedly to the nuisance created by many of these inland dumps, and the complaints made are quite familiar to all of us. Many of our dirty and unsightly streets owe their condition to the present management of a near-by dump.

Straw, hay, paper and other waste litter many of our streets in a disgraceful manner, and to correct this condition and prevent slovenliness, it is the opinion of the Committee on Public Health of the United Improvement Association that there should be no public dumps in thickly settled sections of the city, and no dumps at any point excepting as they are inclosed by a suitable wire fence.

As to the final disposal of the products of municipal cleaning, this is the problem that must be worked out by the financial and engineering departments and interests of the city; but the residents of the City of Boston are much concerned to know what effect the method which may be adopted may have upon public convenience, public comfort and public health.

Whatever be the method or system finally adopted by the City of Boston to dispose of municipal waste, we believe that it should be, and we insist that it shall be, in such a manner that no offence or nuisance be inflicted upon the inhabitants of our city.

In submitting this report it is our purpose and intention, so far as possible, to refrain from suggesting any specific methods or means by which garbage and other waste material should be handled, or how or in what manner it should be finally disposed of; but leaving the solution of these problems to experts, we have expressed our opinions and desires as to the conditions of public convenience, comfort and health that should accompany the handling and disposal of the products of municipal cleaning.

IMPROVEMENT OF CHARLESBANK.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That there be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund for the year 1910, $20,000 to improve the Charlesbank.

The order was passed.

Later in the session Coun. BRAND moved a reconsideration of the passage, which prevailed, and Coun. BRAND moved reference of the order to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I think most of us will agree that this order should go through to-day. The matter was considered at the last meeting. You were not there, Mr. Brand, I am sorry to say. At the last meeting the question of the improvement of Charlesbank was considered and practically everybody agreed that the money ought to be spent some time. The question was whether the appropriation of that amount of money would in any way endanger the advantages we hope to see in the way of a zoo, aquarium and Greeting. I have here a letter from Mr. Peabody that I would like to have the clerk read—showing that he hopes to get $150,000 this year for those three things which, plus the $60,000 already appropriated, makes $210,000, and that will leave about $40,000 for this year. My reason for wanting this order to go through at this meeting is that I don't know when the next meeting will be. The hot weather is now here, and we all know what a resort the Charlesbank is for poor women and children who are not able to get away in the hot season. Everybody here knows that the Charlesbank is probably more frequented by poor people than any other playground in the city. The Park Department, in City Document 153, page 120, last year submitted a list of needs, and it is simply in line with one of those recommendations that this order is introduced. I hope the rule will be suspended so that this order will go through.

The Clerk read the following:

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
June 25, 1910.

Matthew Hale, Esq., Chairman:

Dear Sir,—I was sorry that circumstances prevented my being at the meeting of your committee on Friday. As you have suggested, I gladly herewith write regarding the views of our commission as to the Parkman Fund, but I can at this moment only do so in a general way as I have no papers by me and I have to be in Philadelphia on Monday.

Our general idea has been to spend whatever money you apportion to the park on the aquarium, the "zoo" and the Greeting.

The sketches for the aquarium are well advanced. So much of that as is built now must be a finished and complete structure ready for addition or not as may later be determined. This present portion should cost, roughly speaking, $80,000 to $100,000.

The two other projects can proceed more gradually. The subject of the "zoo" is being carefully studied by the department. The commission holds the general opinion that we should not aim at a collection of tropical animals, because the space and the maintenance outlay required for these would necessarily be large. They incline rather to the exhibition of native wild animals and birds and believe that a collection of the kind picturesquely exhibited will fill all reasonable demands. Of course such a zoological garden, though it follows a well prepared and complete plan, can yet be entered upon in a more or less tentative, gradual way. The commission desire greatly, as you know, to complete Mr. Olmsted's plan of Franklin Park by building the "Greeting" with its accompanying "Music Court." The first step toward this would be to make careful working plans and buy and cultivate in the nursery the necessary trees, and begin actual work itself by perhaps starting on the music amphitheater.

As one of these three enterprises may advance faster than the others we should like to have whatever amount you can spare us given to us in one general sum to be spent on these projects as we find wise.

Our general idea if you give us, say $150,000, would be to spend perhaps $80,000 to $100,000 in completing what may be the whole of the aquarium or a part of a future larger one, and the balance we would divide as might seem to the city's advantage between work on the "zoo" and the "Greeting."

Yours very truly,

ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

Coun. Brand's motion to refer to the Committee on Parkman Fund was lost.

The order was passed.

CHICAGO'S WATER SUPPLY.

Inseparable from the problem of sewerage disposal is the one of water supply. The growth of these has been coincident and co-ordinate in Chicago. On January 15, 1831, when the county of Cook came into existence, the cradles of the members of the sanitary district had not yet been fashioned. When in 1833 Chicago received recognition as a baby town, with 350 inhabitants, the water supply was made as abundant as needed by the family bucket brigade, and many a pioneer Chicagoan proved his love for an Illinois maid by carrying in the supper water. The progress of the supply commensurate with increased demand may be sketched rapidly. They dug wells. The wells became foul. Water carts carried water from the lake to the in-builders and the carriers made money at five and ten cents a barrel. The Chicago Hydraulic Company built its first reservoir, holding water pumped from the lake, and distributed this water to adjoining districts through wooden conduits, made from logs bored at the works, 5 inches for the mains and 3 inches for the auxiliaries.

The city took over the system in 1852. The first iron pipes were laid on Clark street in 1852. Water was then supplied nine hours a day, except Sunday. Water could be obtained that day, however, in case of fire.

The increasing sewerage of the city and the wastes from the factories and works fouled the shore and river waters to such a degree that the foul water supply was undrinkable and was a daily menace to the life of the inhabitants.

Then came the crib-idea, another triumph of the great Chesbrough. His mind conceived and carried out to successful completion the sinking of a shaft 60 feet deep and 9 feet in diameter, from the base of which there extended lake-ward two miles of tunnel, 5 feet in diameter, terminating at that distance in a substantial crib. The City Council contained many doubting Thomases, who, at the last moment, endeavored to defeat the passage of the project but the "live wires" won, as they generally do. On December 6, 1866, Mayor Rice laid the last tunnel stone in position and the citizens of Chicago celebrated the notable event.

In 1863 the city had 105 miles of service and a daily consumption of 7,000,000 gallons. At the time of writing, Chicago has 2,230 miles of mains, ranging from 4 to 48 inches in diameter. There are five intake cribs, located at distances from two to four miles from the shore, and one submerged crib at 3,000 feet distance. The average daily pumpage is 480,000,000 gallons of water. — Domestic Engineering.

CHICAGO DEMANDS SMOOTHER PAVEMENTS.

The Chicago Association of Commerce has taken a strong stand for the rehabilitation of the street pavements of Chicago. The executive committee of the association is now considering a plan looking to the laying of smooth pavements everywhere in the business district. This plan will be announced at an early date.

The association for two years has been employed in working out methods for securing better traffic regulations, better street signs, better street lighting, clean alleys and a more equitable distribution of the wheel tax fund. In speaking of the crusade for better streets, President Homer A. Stillwell of the association said:

"Repavement of the business districts is recognized by the Chicago Association of Commerce as an urgent need. If the streets of a city are bad the place is marred in the estimation of many visitors who base their judgment of a city upon its most conspicuous features." — Denver Facts.

PUBLICITY FOR CITY PLAN.

The Commercial Club of Chicago subscribed $10,000 to pay for literature and lectures with stereopticon views on the subject of the Burnham plan which has been devised for the reorganization of the city by the lake. First of all it is desired that every citizen should be made familiar with the plan, so that, as its various features mature and come up on bond vote or otherwise, he will be ready to assist in moving it along. The plan is a gigantic one, involving cost like that of a Panama Canal, but nothing is too great for Chicago, and it has the advantage of a low bonded indebtedness, which New York, for example, is buried under a debt almost equal to that of the national government.

FINE ARTS COMMISSION.

The District of Columbia has now a Fine Arts Commission appointed by the President to pass on all public buildings and works of art and plans for the development of civic beauty. Its membership is: D. H. Burnham of Chicago, Frederick Law Olmsted of Boston, Thomas Hastings of New York and Cass Gilbert of New York. All these are architects. Artists are: Daniel C. French and Frank D. Millet of New York and Charles Moore of Detroit.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

A public works department, with its head a cabinet office, is much nearer realization than most engineers believe. Whether it becomes an actuality during the present administration will probably depend very largely on the present holders of government engineering positions and their friends in private life. The experience with civilian engineers in some departments has been very satisfactory and in others not so good, from an administrative viewpoint. It is recognized at Washington that there are many sound reasons for consolidating the Reclamation Service, Forestry Bureau and other smaller organizations conducting public works of an allied nature, but the extreme practical difficulty of putting an organization on a permanent basis, without any sinecures yet with life tenure of office, which is absolutely essential for the impartial service which the staff of a public works department should render, makes a working plan difficult of attainment. An absolute necessity for successful work in such a department is scrupulous avoidance of attempts to influence congressional action except through regular channels, and if this can be insured by law or regulations, so that the recent political activity of some civilian officeholders is made impracticable in the future, there is a fair prospect of a change in our methods of conducting public works, for it is recognized that the present systems involve a large unnecessary expense. — Engineering Record.

THE FUTURE OF CHICAGO.

In 1950 it is predicted that Chicago's population will reach at least the 7,500,000 mark. This is based on a normal increase by birth and accession of 100,000 yearly. By the time its inhabitants number 3,000,000 the present systems of sewage disposal and water supply will be taxed to the limit, and in view of this fact the Board of Health must necessarily maintain unceasing vigilance as this danger line is approached. The gospel of sanitation must be constantly and clearly preached and special effort should be made to introduce sanitary training in the schools so that the conquests of the past over dirt and disease may be retained for the future generation. Plumbers must do their share in this work. We have no doubt that they will. When fresh sanitary problems confront us, we feel assured that Chicago will possess worthy descendants of Chesbrough, home-bred, with deeds as great and whose motto sounds clear—"I will." — Domestic Engineering.

THE SEWERAGE SYSTEM OF CHICAGO.

Commencing in 1861 with 2,826 linear feet of sewer construction, on January 1, 1910, the records show a marvelous network, 9,704,392 linear feet in length, or 1,838 miles of sewers. Of these, 639.5 are built of brick and 1,198.5 of vitrified tile. There are installed 73,843 catch-basins and 6,838 manholes.

The greatest engineering feat in connection with the disposal of the city's sewerage was the reversal of the flow of the Chicago river and the diversion of the waste down the drainage canal. The purifying waters of Lake Michigan in their passage to the Mississippi absorb the sewerage completely before reaching the "Father of Waters." From the low-lying districts, the sewerage is pumped to the canal by means of large pumping stations. — Domestic Engineering.
